The people in Southern Oregon are being evicted, and saying the building of a new bridge is the only way to settle the matter. In Hooker, they make the distance 200 miles from the city.

The jury in the case of Portland and Columbia Gas Company v. the State of Oregon, which resulted in a verdict for the railroad, has decided in favor of the bridge, and the railroad company has decided to build it.

The volcano Alpha west of Mount Hood, Oregon, has made a marked change in the face of the land, and the forces of nature have taken possession of the land. The mountain has opened a new vent, and the lava flow is pouring into a hot spring.

A small fire has been started at the eastern end of the state, and the citizens of Oregon have been warned to keep their doors closed and to keep their eyes open for the fire.

LATEST EASTERN NEWS

The Panama Canal, which is the only route to the East, is open, and the United States mail steamers have passed through it. The canal is now open to all nations, and the mail service will be resumed.

The citizens of Portland have petitioned the mayor to increase the city's police force, and the mayor has decided to increase it.

The Panama Canal, which is the only route to the East, is open, and the United States mail steamers have passed through it. The canal is now open to all nations, and the mail service will be resumed.