Caspkay would call public attention to spermatorrhera or local weakness. There is not in the entalogue of human maladies one more to be depreca-ted than thin, as well because of present distrems, as the spermatorrhem or local weakness. There is not in the entalogue of human maladles one more to be depreca-ted than this, as well because of present distress, as the ultimate results. The tons of the system under its in-mence is either impaired or entirely destroyed, and a class of symptoms superinduced that unfits man for the performance of any of the ordinary duties of life. The injuries done to the physical part of man is truly la-sentable, but trifling when compared to those of the consequent upon that solitary vice, self-abuse, involves pathological conditions beyond the comprehension of the uninitiated, but which are well understood by the reg-ular practitioner. Among the symptoms most conspic-uous are the following: Love of solitode, aversion to business and society, distensing inidity, nervous ex-citement from slight causes, loss of memory, confusion of ideas, inability to reason correctly, low spirits and lassitude, dullness of apprehension and misanthropy...-These being functional derangements, are often the har-bingers of horrid organic lesions of the braic, which produce fatuity, demontia and death. For the cure of this and all kindred diseases, Dr. Capakay has established his Institute, where all may rely with perfect confidence upon that skill which long experience and thorongh devotion to his profession has given.
