SELP PRESERVATION is an inherent principle, firmly seated in the heart of man. He alights upon the shores of time, the most helpless of all God's creatures, but as soon as Reason rears her standard, he sees and thinks, and encircles himself with objects of protection. I will make better and cheoper BRICK at my yard, near Salem, than any other man in Oregon. It has been my occupation for years, and shall continue to be for some time hence, notwithstanding the Salem Charter.

Oh, never hold malice! it cannot be good.

For 'tis nobler to strike in the rush of hot blood,
Than to bitterly cherish the name of the foe—
Wait to sharpen the weapon or measure the blow. The wild dog in hunger, the wolf in its spring— The shark of the waters—the asp with its sting. Are less to be feared than the vengeance of man, When it lieth in secret to wound where it can.

Shall we dare to look up to the Father above.
With petitions for pardon, or pleading for love—
Shall we DARE, while we pant for revenge on another
To ask from our God, yet deny to a brother? Salem, O. T., January 11th, 1858.
