

MONDAY MORNING, SEPT. 26, 1864.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, of Illinois. FOR YOUR FREEDOM, ANDREW JOHNSON, of Tennessee.

The Oregon Statesman has a larger circulation than any other paper in the State, and is the best medium for Advertisers. The U.S. Laws and Resolutions are published in the Statesman by Authority.

ESION THUNDER.

At this time the very heavens seem filled with the thunders of repeated and overwhelming Union victories. From the pine forests of Maine to the deserted cotton fields of Georgia...

And so it goes, the Union flag is "still high advanced," victories on land and sea, and still marching on.

Other victories of another character, but not less significant of the grand continental triumph which is to crown the success of Union and liberty at the ensuing November election...

The dispatches from the eastern states develop the fact, which must have been apparent to the most careless observer...

From the New York News, the organ of the Woods and peace-on-any-terms democracy of New York, which openly, boldly and bitterly oppines, McClellan, down to the Eugene City Review, the leader of the Oregon copperheads...

McClellan has a brave and gallant man, but he is the weak tool of a miserable traitorous faction. Don't pollute your first vote, and stigmatize yourself forever, by casting in your lot with his...

STATE FAIR GOODES. Any one who visited the State Fair last year is before us, will be astonished at the vast increase, this year, of preparations for the coming great event.

Just opened the State Society's pavilion are the buildings to be occupied by the Sanitary Fair. They are of great capacity, and, judging from the preparations in progress...

ACCIDENT.—A young man employed in the Woolen Factory, in this city, had his arm torn from the elbow to the hand, on Thursday last, by the picker, while at work.

DECEASED.—Williamette University and the District School have suspended until after the fair is over.

IS LINCOLN A TYRANT?

No President of the United States was ever denounced with more bitter epithets than Abraham Lincoln. Though legally and constitutionally elected to the presidential chair, he has been branded as an unauthorized usurper, and though conducting himself through the stormy scenes in which he has been called to act with a degree of calmness, equanimity and forbearance...

It is not probable that these charges of despotism and tyranny are believed even by those who make them, though they are, perhaps, by some of their followers, just as some people in the south believe that the Yankees are savage barbarians. They use no argument and point to no facts to sustain these charges...

There are those doubtless who honestly think that Mr. Lincoln is not all in point of talent that his friends and admirers take him to be, but those who with a thorough acquaintance with his doings and disposition, impute to him dishonest, vindictive, mercenary or despotic motives...

McClellan, the leader of the Oregon copperheads, which declines to endorse the "hero of Antietam," we have abundant evidence, that the conspirators of the north are reduced to the last stages of desperation in order to keep up a show of aid to their brethren at Richmond.

On the other hand, the only source of discord (and it was an exceedingly trifling one) in the Union ranks, has now been removed by the withdrawal of Fremont from the presidential field...

Resolved, That we uphold the day-star of a glorious and lasting peace arising in the east, as we see the golden dawning of a new day, and approving Heaven among the banners of our armies...

Resolved, That the lessons of history, the experiences of individual humanity, and the records of Christian inspiration, furnish irrefragable evidence that the sacred rights of men and nations, and omnipotent arm of the law, which is the author; and that it is irrational for this nation to expect divine favor, while it permits among its wrongs...

Resolved, That we acknowledge, and honor, and support, as a national principle, the right of every man to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness...

Resolved, That we condemn, and denounce, and repudiate, the vile and impious doctrine of the "Whilperers," flunk impalpable maces, mountains, rivers, and impenetrable deserts...

Resolved, That we recognize, and support, and uphold, the sacred rights of every man to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness...

Resolved, That we recognize, and support, and uphold, the sacred rights of every man to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness...

THE RAILROAD QUESTION.

ED. STATESMAN: It is now forty one year since Col. Barry commenced agitating the important question in Oregon. At first, people generally listened doubtfully, while some opposed his efforts. Not at all discouraged by the general apathy manifested to what was, and is yet, the most important question bearing on the prosperity, development, and material interest of the State...

Mr. Lane, a bill to incorporate Umattilla Landing. Mr. Tate, with authority the Governor to contract with Dr. Hawthorne & Loyce for keeping the insane and idiotic.

Mr. Tate, with authority the Governor to contract with Dr. Hawthorne & Loyce for keeping the insane and idiotic. Mr. Cox, a bill to change the present mode of voting.

Mr. Thornton, a bill enabling justices to require creditors to sue. Also a bill relating to the sovereignty and jurisdiction of the state, the legislative assembly, public documents and statutes.

Mr. Thornton asked for a suspension of the rules to enable him to introduce without previous notice, a bill to protect the State Fair grounds. The rules were suspended.

Mr. Wade's bill, to fix the time of majority, came up on its third reading. Mr. Underwood moved to amend by striking out Sec. 24, which legalizes all contracts here made by females between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one.

During the pendency of the motion, the hour for special order made yesterday arrived, and the House took up H. B. 1, to incorporate the city of Portland.

Quite a number of amendments were offered, some of which were adopted, and the eyes and nose being taken on its passage the bill was passed.

Mr. Underwood moved to amend by striking out Sec. 24, which legalizes all contracts here made by females between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one.

On motion of Mr. Howley, the motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SENATE.—A message was received from the Governor—the same referred to in House proceedings of the morning—was read, and five hundred copies ordered printed.

The resolution adopting the memorial to Congress in reference to an arsenal at Oregon City was adopted.

House Bills 7 and 9 were read a first time. H. B. 1, to incorporate the city of Portland, was read a second time by title.

HOUSE.—Mr. Lane gave notice of a bill to provide for a special election in Umattilla county. Mr. Turner gave notice of a bill to amend the road law.

Mr. Sooger gave notice of a bill relating to school laws. Mr. Moxley gave notice of a bill to regulate quartz mining, also a bill creating a board of commissioners on the erection of public buildings at the capital.

The bill to provide for the punishment of fraudulent debtors and for the relief of insolvent debtors, was read a second time, and referred to the joint judiciary committee.

The bill to provide for taking the census was read a second time, and after several amendments was referred to a committee on counties.

The bill providing for the receiving of legal tender notes for all taxes, fines and licenses was read a second time, when motions were made to refer to committee of the whole, the committee on ways and means, the House judiciary committee and the committee on federal relations, all of which motions were lost.

The bill was finally referred to the joint judiciary committee.

The bill to amend the code by providing that debts may be collected in specie currency, was read a second time and referred to a select committee of five.

The bill to amend the provisions of the code in regard to testimony, by excluding negroes, Chinamen and Indians from the witness stand, was read a second time and different amendments proposed which elicited considerable debate.

The indefinite postponement of the amendment was finally voted, which gave members a chance to express their views upon its merits.

Mr. Fay spoke in favor of the bill; said he favored it because he thought it was intended to carry out the provisions of the State Constitution.

Mr. Gillette said he was opposed to the principle of the bill; if the Constitution favored such doctrines he was in favor of its repeal or amendment. He did not see the use of bringing the bill of the dark ages into the legislative hall of the present century.

Mr. Cartwright favored the bill, believing it to accord with the provisions of the Constitution.

Mr. McCormack opposed the bill—said that while he was not in favor of giving these persons all the rights of citizens, he did not consider it just to exclude them from the witness stand. The bill was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 19 to 16. This is equivalent to the death of the bill.
