ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The limited space allowed in a newspaper to any subject, must be the apology for but a brief notice of the lamented subject of this article.

Abraham Lincoln was born on the 12th of February, 1809, in Hardin county, Kentucky, and was therefore but a little more than fifty-six years of age when his precious life was cut short by the hand of the assassin.

Abraham Lincoln was born on the 12th of February, 1809, in Hardin county, Kentucky, and was therefore but a little more than fifty-six years of age when his precious life was cut short by the hand of the assassin.

Among the first, if not the very first books Lincoln ever read, was Wm. L. G. of Washington and a sketch of Henry Clay; and such was the attraction of Mr. Clay, that Lincoln adhered to him, as long as Clay lived.

In 1832, Lincoln volunteered and went into the Black Hawk war, and served as Captain of his Company. His superior talent reported of him. He was an efficient, faithful officer, watchful of his men, and prompt in the discharge of duty, and his courage and patriotism shrank from no dangers or hardships.

The most searching scrutiny of voluminous opponents has been for forty years applied to discover some failings in the character or conduct of the President; and completely failing in that, their malignity has been employed in the invention of them.

In 1847, Mr. Lincoln was elected to Congress, being the only Whig member in a delegation of seven from his State. The balance of his political history is well known to the country, and cannot be recounted here.

When Mr. Lincoln first went into the world to earn a living for himself, he worked for a Mr. Armstrong of Petersburg, in Meander county, both Armstrong and his wife took a great interest in Lincoln, lending him books to read, encouraging him to study, and furnishing him a home when his term of service was out.

save himself had falsely charged the horrid crime on another; but these facts were never developed until Mr. Lincoln did it at the trial.

As usual in such cases, there was great excitement in the community, and prison bars alone saved Armstrong from the fury of the mob. The prisoner was overwhelmed by the misfortune, and sank into despair; while the poor mother, looking only through tears, had no hope, and could procure no aid.

Mr. Lincoln hearing of the case through the newspapers, lost no time in volunteering his services to save the youth, the son of those who had been his friends in the days of his poverty and obscurity. Gladly were his services accepted.

THE FUNERAL OBSEQUIES OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The funeral obsequies of the late President in Salem last Wednesday, with single exception, were worthy of the place.

SOME IMPORTANT LAW QUESTIONS.

As everywhere in the country who does much business, has occasion to send or receive money by Wells, Fargo & Co., they will doubtless be interested in seeing the decision of a Supreme Court on the attempted limitation of liabilities.
