To accommodate our advertising friends, and also to give our readers a full amount of reading matter, we this week issue a supplement. We are glad to see such evidences of the growth and business of Salem as the rapid increase of advertising patronage evinces. The fact is, the Statesman is the best advertising medinm in the State, going to the families of all the leading farmers, mechanics, merchants and business men of all the counties in the Willamette and Umpqua valleys, and business men are finding that out, and we can't keep their advertisements out. And as they will have them in, we are compelled to issue a "supplement," and enruestly insist on our readers reading the

the Union candidate for Secretary of the State of Oregon:

How. 8. May, the present talented and efficient Secretary of State of Oregon, has been nominated by the Union party of that State for the same office for another term. The Union men of Oregon have cause to congratulate themselves that the runks of the Union party contain a man so true to the case of freedom as Mr. May, and one so emittently qualified for the honorable and responsible position for which he has been piaced in nomination; and while the indications show that the atraggle between the Unionists and copportends at the June election will be desperate and close there is little room to doubt that the patriotism, shifty and secring integrity of Mr. May will result in the discomfure of his rebel opponent and his own triumphant election.

and joining Campbell's standard. He continued preaching his psculiar viows, and societies conforming thereto were organized wherever the new dectrines penetrated, until to day the Church numbers near half a million of communicants, scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and including some churches in Great Britain. They call themselves "Disciples." or "Christians," but are popularly known in this country by the opprobrious term "Campbellites."

The life of Mr. Campbell was emphatically a "warfare." Gifted with a strong mind, inflexible will, rapid powers of combination, and an adroitness in argument such as few men ever possessed, with vast learning superadded, he was a disputant over ready to enter the lists against those who taught what he held to be erroneous doctrines, butalways seeking the strongest antagonist to contend with, disdaining to employ his match-less powers against every novice who "squeaked on an oaten reed." His memorable debates with McCalia on baptism, etc., with the Infidel Owen, the Catholic Purcell, and the Presbyterian Rice, stretching through a period of twenty years, besides many minor controversies, attested his great mental resources and his uniting energy. Besides these debates, and his daily preaching, he conducted a monthly religious periodical from the year 1823 until death first the 'Christian Baptist,' ever 1823 until death first the 'Christian Baptist,' ever 1823 until death first the 'Christian Baptist,' ever 1823 until death first the 'Christian Baptist,' D. SPRING AND SUMMER

Make sure of health. "But how I" you sak,
We answer, his no ensy task,
Strengthen the Stonack, and satetain
The Nerves, the servants of the brain.
The Lives keep in active play,
And revalute, from they to day.
Each organ aid, on Nature's plan,
Brace and refresh the tener man.
And like a watch that's kept in chime
By constant care with railrest time.
The ayatem's tone and strength renew,
And thereby cleer the spirits, too.
"How," you inquire, "can this be done,
This victory o'er Discuss be won?"
"Howertrain's Brytens," we reply,
Is Health's supreme Protection—try?"
As a means of regenerating the discretered sad enfection of the fat and organs, reviving the depressed spirits, lvigorating the constitution, and prodouging life, no medicinal proparation either of the past or the present time has been so completely and so universally successful. 25.
