SALEM, MONDAY, AUG. 27, 1866.

THE PRESIDENT'S LAST SPEECH.

The Philadelphia Convention has sent congratulatory and hopeful greeting to Andrew Johnson, promising him support and exhorting him to "be firm." The ringing response comes back from the President, "that, having taken his stand upon the broad principles of liberty and the Constitution, there is not power enough on earth to drive him from it." This speech is a cheery "All's well" from the vigilant watchman who is guarding the citadel of freedom, through the troubled night of revolution. It is a graphic description of the fierce conflict that is now raging between the foes and friends of our institution, and is such a picture of the battle as could be painted, only by one who is in the "thickest of the fray," watching every advance and retreat on the field, and himself bravely breasting the fight. We commend the speech to the attentive consideration of our readers, as one befitting the occasion and creditable alike to the head and heart of him who made it. In its statesmanlike views it is worthy of the President, as in its patriotism and in its kindly spirit toward the conquered South, it is worthy of the man. Bitterly as President Johnson opposed the treason that with arms in its hands sought the nation's life, and deeply as he was wronged in person and property by its adherents, he is now willing to concede, with every man who has any faith in his race, that among the masses, at least, rebellion arose from ignorance rather than from a guilty intent. Demanding sufficient guarantees for the future, he is ready to forgive the past, entertaining, as Mr. Lincoln said, "malice toward none, and charity for all." The individuality of Mr. Johnson is strikingly conspicuous in this speech; with rugged good sense he breaks through all conventionalities, and strikes immediately at the root of the matter in dispute, assuming responsibility for all that he has done, and resenting, with proper spirit, the personal calumny and abuse that have been heaped upon him. This fact has caused the radical press to affect to sneer at the "I, my, and me" contained in the speech, thus showing the contemptible weakness of the cause they advocate. We imagine, however, that they will yet have abundant reason to fear this "personal pronoun of the first person," at which they are now so much disposed to be merry, as it stands for a very sturdy, obstinate noun, in the independent case. We confess, that we rather like this spirit in Mr. Johnson, which has been falsely called egotism. It shows us that we have in the Presidential office not a mere automaton, but a man of inflexible will and indomitable courage, scorning hypocrisy and owning his personal responsibility to the people in all he does. Like Anthony, he is

"No orator as Brutus was, but a plain blunt man."

We can surely pardon lack of grace and refinement, when as in this case the want of culture only shows to greater advantage the native strength and honesty of the man.

This speech of the President is eminently American in its tone, revealing the hardy self-reliance, combined with abiding faith in the wisdom of the people, which is so characteristic of the American mind, and which has elevated us from a condition of colonial vassalage to our present proud position among the nations of the earth. In fact, Andrew Johnson is a true "representative man" in the United States, and is a living example of the excellence of our Governmental system, having risen by successive steps from the lowest rank in in society to the highest office in the gift of the nation, making his way by the aid of others when he could, but going resolutely onward any-how, thus establishing the truth of Epicharmus's proverb,

"The gods sell all good things to men for their labors."

Such a course of training has had no tendency to soften the asperities of his nature, but has rather strengthened the individuality of his character, making him just the man for this hour of need—for Liberty wants strong, resolute men at her side now to guard her from the assassin strokes of seeming friends.

The President in this speech, expressing his usual confidence in the people, calls upon them to rally to his support. And it is our steadfast belief that the call will not not be in vain. The people will come, and the Philadelphia delegation is but the van-guard of a grand army of reinforcements. Even now they are furbishing their armor, and the great States are resonant with the din and bustle of preparation. The bronzed and scarred veterans of the war will come to rescue the fields of their glory from the robbers and jackals that are prowling for booty and prey among the vanquished. The soldiers of the Union have, with the bayonet, pinned all the stars to the flag, and they will not suffer them now to be torn away by congressional enactment. They will not be cheated of the peace and Union which their prowess and blood have won, by the jugglery or tricks of politicians. General Grant, their former leader, is already "keeping step" at the President's side with the old dogged determination to "fight it out on this line." The army will certainly sustain the President, for it is not in the nature of brave men to sympathize with the vindictive fanatical spirit which now controls Congress. This fail, there will be a second "Grand Uprising" in the North in behalf of the Union, and the earth will soon be shaken by the tread of a countless host whose slogan will be the death-knell of the radical faction which nowlegislates for us.

"We are coming, Father Andy."

HE STILL LIVES!—Boyakin, the "woman's rights" man, was in town the other evening. It was surmised that, like Elijah of old, this saintly individual had been translated bodily to that better kingdom he has so often prated about. He was reported to have been in pursuit of sundry and divers editors. Alas! we are prepared for the cholera, the small-cough, the whooping-pox, Clark's Web-Foot Tonic, or any other usual affliction of mankind, but for Boyakin—"nary." Let Tony be confiscated, McPherson and Schwatka inveigled, but as for us, Boyakin, forbear! Our gender is neither neutral nor ambiguous. We are not a woman, either by instinct or education, and

"Would rather weep to see thee free,
Than win thee to destroy."

NOT DEAD.—It was stated some time ago in the Statesman that Dr. S. R. Uncles, well known about here, was dead. This is a mistake. The Doctor is alive, and is engaged in his profession at Chambersburg, Pa.

POLK CO.—The election in Polk came off quietly on the 20th. Dr. Jeffreys, democrat, is reported to have been elected by some 38 majority. He goes to the Senate in place of John Frazer, deceased.

FAY OPPOSES THE NEW PARTY.

The Oregon Reporter (Copperhead, and little Fay) opposes the new party. After referring to the call of the Democratic Congressmen, it says:

But we fail to see in it any new idea advocated, or any measures suggested that have not been urged upon the people by the Democratic press incessantly during and since the late national troubles. It has been urged times innumerable, "as essential to national union, that we must maintain unimpaired the rights, the dignity and equality of the States, including the right of each State to control its own domestic concerns, subject only to the Constitution of the United States." This has been the fundamental principle of National Democracy ever since its organization as a party; and we fail to see any reason why Democrats should lend their aid to the establishment of a new party for the advocacy and maintenance of principles which are already a part of their faith, and form the foundation stone of the Democratic platform. If the object of the Convention is to bring together men who indorse the above principles, why form a new party and go through all the labor and formula of perfecting a new organization? Why not without evasion act with the Democratic party, if these are the objects they wish to achieve? During its administration of the affairs of our Government, embracing a period of more than sixty years, ours was the happiest and most prosperous land on earth. The treason of Burr, the attempted insurrection of Shay, and the threatened nullification of Calhoun were all suppressed by simply adhering to the Constitution, and without shedding one drop of blood, and we were triumphant in two foreign wars. Under each and all of these circumstances, under Democratic rule, the rights, the dignity and equality of the States were maintained unimpaired. Why not, then, we ask again, act with the Democratic party if the perpetuity of these cardinal principles of our Government is what you aim to secure? Then why organize a new party? In point of numbers the Democratic party never was so strong as it is now, nor so well organized. Our name is a synonym for our free institutions, and while other parties have risen, flourished awhile, and then died, the Democratic party has continued to live, because its principles are those of eternal justice, and its life of the Constitution, and while the Constitution lives the Democratic party cannot die. We do not claim infallibility for the Democratic party, but its principles are infallible. Then we would say to the Democrats, cling to the name of Democracy as you would to its principles; and to all true patriots who love the Union and revere the Constitution, we say, as we agree in principle let us act together.

TRICHINA.—The name of this disease in pork, or rather the worm which is the disease, has been known to the Chinese for centuries. Ap Poy, a learned Confucian, who resides in San Francisco, informs the correspondent of the Stockton Herald that every Chinese meat dealer is familiar with the various poisoned diseases of pork, which so astonishes Europe and America. He said, "Trichnia is the combination of the spotted yellow fever, the black spot fever and the worm fever; hence its name, three diseases in one. The pork raised in China, upon high ground, is subject to the yellow spotted fever. The hot, murky grounds produce the black spotted fever, and the worm was originally produced by the putrid human remains which float along the banks of the many rivers in China." Hogs, in huge droves, have all been innoculated from one, with other disease. In fact, when attacked the disease is contagious. Any person eating of either kind of diseased hog meat, is surely attacked with the disease the hog was poisoned with as they eat the meat. He—Ap Poy—concended the spotted fevers prevalent among the people of Europe, were nothing more nor less than the hog disease. He quoted many cases in Asia, Europe, South America, Mexico, North America, and throughout the numerous islands, where, of a sudden, these various diseases have broken out. He further said that a composition of arsenic and lead was used to cure the spotted fevers in men and hogs. Verdigris was used to cure trichina, and in his district the doctors never failed to cure. Here is something for our medical men to practice upon. Were this brought to the knowledge of any European Medical Society, how the world would ring with the discovery!

CONSUMPTION OF WHISKY.—It appears by official reports that the amount of whisky consumed annually for drinking purposes, is estimated by the commission as averaging a gallon and a half per head to the whole population of the United States. Large as this may appear, it is shown that the consumption in Canada and the other British provinces reaches over a gallon and a quarter a head; while in Russia it averages no less than two gallons to each man, woman and child of the population. In Great Britain, where the common people do not, in general, drink spirits, the amount consumed annually varies from eighttenths to a gallon per capita. But in that country beer is the more universal popular beverage, and no less than 22,000,000 barrels of ale and beer are consumed every year whereas not more than 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 barrels are produced in the United States.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.—A frightful accident recently happened at a foundry in Scotland. A heavy casting was being made, when some of the liquid escaped, and splashing on the hands arms of the workmen, caused them to quit their hold of the ladle, which immediately capsized, and the whole of the contents, some three tons, was thrown on the workshop floor. All the men rushed for their lives to the door, but it could not be opened at once, and they turned in desperation, and actually ran through the molten metal. One fell as he ran, and was so disfigured that he was scarcely to be recognized, and his life, with that of one of the others, is despaired of.

HOW TO CURE A FELON.—As we often see friends suffer with these troublesome things, we publish the following cure for them, which we have heard highly recommended; the character of the paper copied from, (Journal of Medicine,) adds further to this recommendation: "As soon as the parts begin to swell, get the tincture of lobelia and wrap the part affected, with cloth thoroughly saturated with the tincture, and the felon is dead. An old physician says he has known it to cure in scores of cases, and it never fails if applied in season."

RUSSIA.—While the Powers of Central Europe are contending wit each other for supremacy, Russia is patiently extending her empire in the East, and is fast pushing her armies to the very boundaries of British territory in India. A late arrival from Europe brings news of a battle in the Bucharia and the total defeat of the Prince of Bokhara. Bucharia is one of the most fertile and independent provinces in Central Asia, possesses a population of a couple of millions, and is evidently destined to be absorbed by Russia, which is patiently subduing all the tribes in those regions.

PETROLEUM FOR ASTHMA.—A correspondent of the Country Gentleman writes to that journal: "I have a son, six years old, that had the asthma in the most distressing form for three or four months when he was one or two years old. We tried everything we could hear of without getting relief, till we were told to rub his neck and breast with petroleum, and we used it both crude and refined, experiencing very speedy relief and a final and permanent cure, for he has not since had a return of it, and he is now a very healthy child."

WEST VIRGINIA.—A trout fishing party from Weston, West Virginia, which recently visited the headwaters of the Elk and Buckhannon rivers, report that they found men in the mountains forty yevrs old who had never seen a wagon. Bears, deer, panthers and other wild game are found in abundance.

The Chicago Journal says observe the following rules if you want to escape the cholera:

Never speak or think of it. Banish it from your home circle as a topic of conversation. Be careful. Be temperate. Be cleanly. Beware of whisky and the Democratic party.

DECLINE IN WHISKY DRINKING.—In consequence of a falling off in the foreign demand for whisky, it has been arranged by a few of the leading Scotch distilleries to close their establishments for a long or short period, as circumstances may determine. Carsbride distillery, which can produce fifty thousand gallons weekly, and employs nearly one hundred hands, is to be closed for two months.

WILL RISK THE CONSEQUENCES.—Franz, of the Brandon (Miss.) Republican says:

Douglas Jerrold calls women's arms "the serpents that wind around men's necks, killing the best resolutions." That class of serpents can just wind around our neck as much as they please, and if any of the young ladies believe what Jerrold says, they can come and try the experiment on us. We'll risk the consequence.

There was a prodigious celebration in Philadelphia on the 4th of July. The veterans were in the procession and formally returned the scarred and blood-stained battle-flags which they had borne so heroically and gloriously all through the war. An immense concourse from miles around, and it was, perhaps, the most animating day in the history of the Quaker City.

The Herald's Toronto correspondence says that the Canadian mind was considerably exercised by the discussion of the merits and conduct of the different officers of the Queen's Own, who had command of the military operating against the Fenians at and near Fort Erie, during the recent invasion. A court of inquiry had been demanded by Colonel Booker, who received so much blame at first.

A singular case has just come before the French tribunals. A young girl eleven years of age attempted successively the life of her mother and sister for the sole purpose of drinking their blood. The child has been examined by competent physicians, and proved to be attacked by the strange mania of anthropophagy. Her extreme youth leads the physicians to hope that her cure may be accomplished.

IMPORTANT WILL.—The will of the late Rev. Alexander Campbell, of Bethany, West Virginia, involving, it is said, an estate of near a quarter of a million of dollars, was admitted to probate at Wellsburg lately. The will is contested by the heirs of first wife, on the ground that at the time of its making (in 1862) his memory was so far impaired as to leave him incapable of making a valid will.

Recently Captain John M. Hudson and Capt. J. E. Fitch set sail in a very small boat from New York for London. The vessel is a full rigged ship, four tons burden, five feet beam, and twenty-three feet long. She was named the "RED, WHITE AND BLUE," and is the smalest craft of the kind ever set afloat on the Atlantic.

An exchange says that house flies may be effectually destroyed without the use of poison. Take half a teaspoonful of black pepper in powder, one teaspoonful of brown sugar, and one teaspoonful of cream; mix them well together, and place them in a room on a plate, where the flies are troublesome, and they will very soon disappear.

It seems to have been definitely ascertained that paper collars are poisonous. They are whitened with arsenic, and will cause eruptions on the necks of those who wear them and into whose circulation the poison happens to be introduced.

OVERLOOKED.—Woolen mills are the institutions of the State, and among these, not the least, is the one at Ellendale in Polk. This factory has been overlooked heretofore, but is doing a flourishing business, we understand, promising much for the future.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Mr. Miller, our Street commissioner, is a man of energy and enterprise, as graded streets and numerous sidwalks, built and building, attest. Pedestrians will hardly have a chance to moisten their webs here next winter.

The government buildings at Fort Yamhill were sold at auction, recently, for the sum of $1260, in greenbacks.

CATARRH.—The Origin of Catarrh is in most cases A neglected Cold, which can be relieved by the use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches," by soothing the irritated and inflamed membrane extending from the nose to the throat. For Coughs and Throat Diseases the Troches are of great service.

TO BUSINESS MEN AND OTHERS.—Arrangements have been made in the Statesman Office whereby all kinds of Card and Fancy Printing can be done on the shortest notice, and at prices which cannot fail to suit our patrons. The Jobbing Department is under the charge of an experienced and competent printer, as our work for more than a year past will testify, and those requiring briefs, pamphlets, checks, billheads, business, address, or wedding cards, programmes, ball circulars, mining companies' certificates and receipts, Justices' blanks, and in fact every description of plain and fancy printing, can have the work well and promptly done.—We keep a complete assortment of bill-head, letter, and other paper, suitable for job printing; together with plain and fancy cards, etc. We invite those desiring to have any description of printing done, to call and examine samples and satisfy themselves that as good work can be done and as good bargains made as at any other office in Oregon.

Weitman's Patent Horse-Shoe!

THE undersigned has purchased the right to make and put on WEITMAN'S PATENT IMPROVED HORSE SHOE, and is now prepared to put on this new and improved shoe, without nails of any kind. Farmers and horsemen will please call and examine it, at the shop in the rear of my livery stable in Salem.

AMOS L. STARKEY.

Weitman's Patent Horse Shoe

This new shoe offers the following advantages: The first would be in the case of tender footed horses, such as have flat and thin hoofs and those whose hoofs will not admit of nails being driven into the hoof. This shoe being fastened entirely by the mechanical contrivance on the outside, will save all such horses, and make them really as useful as horses with the best feet.

2d. Should a man be driving on the road or traveling over the mountains, as is the case often in this country, where a man is hundreds of miles from a blacksmith, and his horse cast a shoe, he could shoe him again with this patent shoe in two minutes' time, needing nothing but the shoe, rasp and screw driver.

3d. For horses whose feet are troubled with corns and such difficulties this shoe is the very thing, as every shoer and farrier will see at a glance. This shoe can be used by the farrier during a certain season, or over a certain road, or on certain rough ground, and then taken off whenever desired, without a cent of expense, or the least injury to the shoe or the horse's foot.

Essence of Jamaica Ginger

THIS VALUABLE PREPARATION, containing in a highly concentrated form all the properties of the Jamaica Ginger, has become one of the most popular domestic remedies for all diseases of the stomach and digestive organs.

As a tonic it will be found invaluable to all persons recovering from debility, whether produced by fever or otherwise; for whilst it imparts to the system all the glow and vigor that can be produced by wine or brandy, it is entirely free from the constitutional effects that follow the use of spirits of any kind.

It is also an excellent remedy for females who suffer from difficult menstruation, giving almost immediate relief to the spasms that so frequently accompany that period.

It gives immediate relief to Nausea, caused by riding in a railroad car, or by sea sickness, or other causes.

It is also valuable as an external application for Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, etc.

MARTHA WASHINGTON HAIR RESTORER

THIS is a wonderful discovery, and stands above comparison with any other article for the Hair ever brought before the public.

A PERFECT

Hair Restorer and Hair Dresser

Both combined in one.

1st. Is not a Dye.
2d. Will not color the skin.
3d. Will restore Gray Hair to a beautiful Black, Brown, Auburn, or whatever might have been its original color, and cause it to assume its former beauty.
4th. Will cure all Humors and Diseases of the scalp.
5th. Will remove Dandruff and Scurf from the head, and keep the hair moist and silk-like in its appearance as in youthful days.
6th. Will promote a healthy growth.
7th. Will prevent it from falling off, and cause it to grow on bald heads where there is life and vitality at the roots, but where these are gone there is no hope of success.
8th. The best testimony that can be given will be found inside of each bottle.

Warranted to do all we claim for it or the money refunded after using two bottles. Try it and be convinced.

Graefenberg

UTERINE CATHOLICON,

If faithfully used according to directions, will cure every case of Dysentery, and greatly mitigate the troublesome effects caused by a relaxation of the outlet of the outlet of the bladder. It is a most successful remedy for the Gravel and other diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, and for Female Diseases is unequaled. The Catholicon uniformly cures Prolapsus Uteri, Whites, all Irregularities of the Monthly Turns, Suppression, Incontinence of Urine, Bloating and Dropsical Swellings, and all Diseases of Pregnancy. The specific action of this medicine is immediate and certain upon the Uterine and Abdominal Muscles and Ligaments, restoring them to as healthy a state as those of childhood and youth, so that patients who have used the Graefenberg Company's Uterine Catholicon cannot sufficiently express their gratitude for the relief afforded.

Redington & Co. Agents, 416 and 418 Front street, San Francisco.

WE THINK THERE IS NO MEDicine so efficacious in removing humors from the blood as SCOVILL'S BLOOD & LIVER SYRUP. It is recommended by Physicians in all parts of the country, for the cure of Scrofula, and other diseases of the Cuticle. Pimples or Sores indicate that the system is out of order. Unless something is done to cleanse the blood of these impurities the result may be a more serious disease, such as Scrofula, Syphilis, etc. Those who wish to find a most efficacious remedy, and yet have no confidence in Patent Medicines generally, will never regret a trial of Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup. YANKEE DOODLE

Yankee Doodle goes to town,
And so does everybody.
And buy their goods of SMITH & WADE,
And don't get "stuck" on shoddy.

BECAUSE

SMITH & WADE

Don't keep shoddy goods. They are not selling out at cost. Their stock is not going to be closed out in sixty days. Quite the reverse to the contrary; on the other side, if you please. They have settled down in Salem for a permanent, legitimate business, and deal in everything you can think of, and thousands of things no one else but them ever would think of until they needed them; and their business is increasing enormously every month.

They now offer for sale—
