A Pleasant Way to Travel

The above is the usual verdict of the traveler using the Missouri Pacific Railway between the Pacific Coast and the East, and we believe that the service and accommodations given merit this statement. From Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo there are two through trains daily to Kansas City and St. Louis, carrying Pullman's latest standard electric lighted sleeping cars, chair cars and up-to-date dining cars. The same excellent service is operated from Kansas City and St.
Louis to Memphis, Little Rock and Hot Springs. If you are going East or South write for rates and full information.

TRUMPET CALLS.

Horn Sounds a Warning Note to the Unredeemed.

If earth has no heavenly moments, heaven may have no enduring mansions.
Affected piety is effective only in bringing those who practice it into eternal pity.
Learning makes a good window in character, but it is not the door into it.

They who make light of truth get no light from truth.
No greater legacy can any man leave than that of a good life.
If you are afraid of being sincere you are likely to be but shift.

The more precious the Word, the greater the value of your works.
You may know how precious the Bible really is to a man by the extent to which he banks on it.

There is no promise that the walls of Jericho shall fall before the high notes of the church choir soprano.
When you wonder at a man's brilliance it is well to count what it cost him in cutting and grinding.
Too many of the Lord's children never will believe that He will spread the table unless they can smell the cooking.

Many people who think that they would surely have built the ark if they had been in Noah's place, never give the Lord more than a nickel when He is asking for their lives.

BITS OF MANY METEORS.

Collection of the Late Prof. Ward the Largest Private One.

Contrary to the layman's assumption, the comparative value of a meteorite collection lies not so much in the size of the individual specimen as in the number of known meteorites which are represented, says the New York Tribune. It is just that which makes the late Professor Henry A. Ward's collection, now on deposit in the American museum of natural history, so important, for it contains specimens of 983 out of a possible 677 known meteorite "falls" or "finds" in all parts of the world.

The untimely death of Professor Ward, who was killed by an automobile at Buffalo on July 5, has called renewed attention to his splendid collection, far and away the most valuable in America and the largest private collection in the world. Professor Ward's enthusiasm and prodigious expenditure of energy and money placed him head and shoulders above his rival collectors. Part of his success in making the collection so nearly complete came from exchanging valuable duplicates for specimens which he needed, but which money could not dislodge, in other collections.

Meteorites are named after the place in which they fall or are found. A meteorite on meeting the earth's atmosphere becomes heated to such an extent by friction that disruption takes place. Consequently parts of the same "fall" or "find" are on exhibition at different museums, and the aim of the collector is to have all known falls or finds represented in his cabinets. The Ward collection, which is valued at $100,000, has representations of 95 per cent of all known meteorites of Australia, Asia, Africa and South America, 95 per cent of those of North America and 97 per cent of those of Europe. Thirty of the specimens—there are 1,600 in all—are the largest single pieces known in their respective falls. The total weight of the collection is 5,509 pounds, and some of the bits are worth $20 a gram.

Afraid It Would Slip.

Senator Tillman piloted a constituent around the capitol building for a while and then, having work to do on the floor conducted him to the Senate gallery.

After an hour or so the visitor approached a gallery doorkeeper and said:
"My name is Swate. I am a friend of Senator Tillman's. He brought me here and I want to go out and look around a bit. I thought I would tell you so I can get back in."

"That's all right," said the doorkeep-er, "but I may not be here when you return. In order to prevent any mistake I will give you the password so you can get your seat again."

Swate's eyes rather popped out at this. "What's the word?" he asked.

"Idiosyncrasy."

"What?"

"Idiosyncrasy."

"I guess I'll stay in," said Swate.— American Spectator.

A Correction.

"You called me a 'political jobber' in your paper this morning," began the irate visitor.

"Yes," replied the editor, "that was a bad break. I discharged that typo immediately."

"Oh, then you didn't mean to say that?"

"Certainly not. I wrote 'robber' very plainly."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Success.

"That latest exploring party was a great success."

"Indeed? I haven't heard it had discovered anything."

"No. But the publisher tells me its literary style is the best yet."—Washington Star.
