Status of Churches in Germany.
 The official order book of church membership in Germany, issued by Pastor Schneider of Elberfeld, as translated and reviewed by the Literary Digest, shows that the number of conversions from the Roman Catholic church to the Protestant is considerably greater than those who have gone from the Protestant ranks into the Roman faith. According to this authority, 75,678 members of the Catholic church in Germany became Protestants between 1890 and 1904, while only 1,054 went from Protestantism to Catholicism. The order book draws attention to the fact that not only in the empire as a whole, but in each and every State the Protestants have been making the greater gains. Relatively these are much greater in France than elsewhere.

Vaccination for Germ Diseases.
 Sir Almeroth E. Wright, the noted London physician, who is credited with the discovery of the opsonic index, which indicates the power of the blood to destroy diseased germs, is now visiting in this country, and recently delivered an address at the Philadelphia College of Physicians. He said he had reached the conclusion, after much experimentation, that bacteriological inoculation is the best means to fight any disease that owes its inception to germs, not excepting even tuberculosis. The general plan of treatment is the same with that as with other diseases. After the opsonic test on the patient's blood the vaccine is introduced into the body until the blood is sufficiently strengthened to throw off its impurities.

Morgan's $25,000 Bible.
 The famous illuminated parchment Bible, produced by the Cluny monks in France over 200 years ago, has just been received by its purchaser, J. P. Morgan of New York, who was required to pay a duty of $4,000, its value being appraised at $25,000. Morgan's brokers protested against the duty, saying that the book should be admitted free, because it is printed matter more than twenty years old. The Bible is about 2 1/2 x 2 1/2 inches and 3 inches thick, the cover being of stamped leather.
