The sheriff captured and jailed the murderer, and there is kins, and then succeeded in discovering the bodies, which were afterwards re-moved and buried at Yakima city.

Had the horses been saddled they would have escaped; the ponies of the Indians, who pursued at once, being jaded from hard riding. But, not used to riding with-out saddle, Mrs. Perkins fell from her horse, and, her husband stopping to aid her, they were overtaken and both shot. Their effects were taken and their bodies covered with rocks at the side of a can-yon. The murder was unknown to the whites for two weeks. Finally Adam Duncan, who also had a ranch near the bluffs, came to Yakima city and asked Mrs. May what had become of Mr. and Mrs. Perkins. She supposed they were at home. #### Child and Burns His Home.

BAY CITY, Mich., Jan. 1.-The new year was ushered in here with a d murder, the victims being Mrs. Cori Trombley and her 8-months-old baby. The underer is Lan J. Trombley, the woman's husband. Soon after 5 o'clock this morn-ing, an alarm of the called the fire department to 511 Ketchum street, the resi dence of Trombley. After a fight, the fire was gotten under control. On enter-ing a bedroom downstairs. Mrs. Trombley was found lying on the bed with her feet partially burned. Her throat was our from ear to car, and the bedobthing was cov-ered with blood. At the foot of the bed was found her baby. The child had evi-dently been smothered, as no marks of violence were found on the body. Trambley was about 28 years of age. He was formerly a presperous fish dealer and af-terward went into the lumber business. For the past two years, he has been showing evidence of insanity. After cutting his wife's throat, Trombley saturated the bedclothing with kcrosene and then set fire to it. Trombley had another child, a boy of 10 years, whom he left at the hor of his grandfather last evening. After the discovery of the crime this morning, search was begun for Trombley, and at 2120 o'clock, his body was found in a well at Essexville, a suburb of Bay City, hie had committed sublide by drowning.

Burglars Make a Big Haul In San Jase.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 1 .- During the night, burglars made a big haul, nearly cleaning out the grocery store of Jacob Formi, corner First, Market and William Streets. It it not known at what hour the work was done, but the burglars evidently were undisturbed, for they had a wagon backed up in front of the store, and carried nearly the entire stock away, loading into their wagon several hundred dollars' worth of miscellaneous goods.

A Battle Royal.

The Boston Transcript recalls the fact that so receatly as November 14, 1830, o large pack of wolves took possession of a hill near Tamworth, N. H. The farmers, alarmed at the depredations of the beasts, formed themselves into an army 600 strong, under the command of an old offiver, General Quimby. The hill was sur rounded by a cordon of marksmen, who closed in upon it from all slifes, and a batthe royal resulted. The wolves were de-feated and took to flight, leaving scores, if not hundreds, of their number dead on the field, and the town was saved. There was a grand jollification that night, when the hard cider ran free, and it may be that many persons living yet can remember the bringing into Tamworth of the bodies of the wolves, and the joy that followed it, and which in strict New England consciences justified the cider.
