MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

Prices and Comment From the Bay City Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—Flour—Net cash prices for family extras, $3 40@3 55 per barrel; bakers' extras, $3 30@3 40; superfine, $2 20@2 35 per barrel.

Wheat—Today being the last day of the year, there was no disposition to do business, and the market was therefore sluggish. No. 1 shipping wheat is quotable at 86¼c per cental, with 87½c for something of a choice quality. Milling wheat is offering at a range of 92½@97½c per cental; Walla Walla 76¼@78¾c for fair average quality, 82½@85c for blue-stem, and 70@75c per cental for damp stock.

Barley—The market was inactive, with prices easy. Feed, fair to good, 78¾@81¼c; choice, 82½c; brewing, 90@95c per cental.

Oats—No business doing of any consequence; stocks more than ample. Milling oats quoted at $1@1 12½c; Surprise, $1 05@1 15; fancy feed, $1 02½@1 07½; good to choice, 92½@97½c; poor to fair, 87½@90c; black, $1 15@1 30; red, $1 07½@1 15; gray, 92½c@$1.

Hops—Quotable at 3@8c per pound.

Produce receipts were: Flour, sacks, 8433; wheat, centals, 1074; barley, centals, 742; corn, centals, 329; beans, sacks, 345; potatoes, sacks, 7312; Oregon, 478; onions, sacks, 140.

The Dry Goods Trade.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, in its weekly review of the dry goods market today, says: There have been no material developments in the market since the last review. Business has been interfered with by holiday influences, by stock-taking exigencies and one or two days by stormy weather. The attendance of buyers from day to day has been limited, and with few salesmen on the road, the mail order demand in all departments has proved of indifferent extent. The shipments of the week have been interfered with to some extent by the heavy snowstorm impeding locomotion, but, nevertheless, fair deliveries have been made from day to day. The market closed in a somewhat unsettled condition in staple cottons. Last week agents were engaged in revising prices, either quietly or publicly, to bring them into something like conformity with the auction basis, and were encouraged thereto by a fair demand coming forward, but this week's business has been on such a limited scale that there has been little inducement to quote definite prices, and wide sheetings have been about the only department in which specific changes of any account have been made openly. The demand for spring lines of dress cottons has been limited, but up to the present time fair results have been accomplished in both printed and woven patterned lines. The woolen goods departments have been quiet, pending the new duties going into effect tomorrow.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Jan. 1.—The past week has been quiet in the wool markets, with the value of sales falling off. It is of course too early to estimate the effect of the new tariff on trade. The tone is steady, and buyers in need of supplies are paying about former rates. Prices for leading descriptions are as follows: Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces, X, 19@20c; XX and above, 18@18½c; Ohio delaine, 19@19½c; territory wools, Montana fine and fine medium, 8@12c; No. 2 medium, Wyoming, Utah, Dakota, Nevada, Idaho and Colorado, fine and fine medium, 9@12c; No. 2 medium, 11@12c; Oregon wools, Eastern, fair, 9@10c; Australian wools, superfine, 41@42c; average, 37@38c.

A Large Orange Sale.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—E. J. Baldwin has closed a contract with a fruit company of Los Angeles for his crop of oranges on the Santa Anita ranch, estimated at 130 carloads. Mr. Baldwin will receive for the crop in the neighborhood of $30,000. This is probably the largest orange sale ever made by a single grower.

TWO CURRENCY SCHEMES

The Differences Between the Baltimore and Carlisle Plans.

The differences between the Carlisle and the Baltimore currency plans are thus succinctly stated by the New York Mining and Engineering Journal:

First—The amount to be authorized is placed by the secretary at 75 per cent of the paid-up capital. The Baltimore plan puts it at 50 per cent, an additional 25 per cent to be permitted in case of emergency, but under special restrictions and a special tax. This point, it seems to us, is not a very important one, since it will not be to the interest of the banks themselves to issue more currency than they can use to advantage.

Second—In place of the 5 per cent reduction fund suggested by the Baltimore plan, the secretary provides for a deposit of legal tenders or treasury notes to the amount of 30 per cent of the circulation taken out. This is, we think, a serious mistake, and would go far to defeat the objects of the bill. The effect would be to compel a bank to lock up permanently 30 per cent of the amount of its circulation without interest, which might over-balance any advantages resulting from the use of the notes issued.

Third—The bill does not provide, as the Baltimore plan did, for the redemption of bank notes directly to the government. This, we think, a defect, since the establishment of separate redemption agencies will most certainly injure the notes in public estimation. The National bank note is now valued because the government will redeem it.

Fourth—The secretary's plan contains a provision limiting the issue of bank notes to denominations of $10 and over. This is for the purpose of keeping afloat the government silver notes of small denominations.

Fifth—A serious defect in both plans is that the bank-note issues proposed are to be redeemed in "lawful money"—which means legal tenders. Now, an essential quality of paper money, as we have said above, is that it must be redeemable, at the option of the holder, in coin. Moreover, such redemption must be possible in a simple and direct fashion, easily to be understood by the average man. But a redemption in "lawful money" is not a redemption in coin, and though coin could eventually be obtained, it would be through a roundabout process which would practically defeat its object. The banks should be obliged to redeem their notes in coin when required. It is probable that such redemption would very seldom be necessary on any considerable scale, except from special causes which would be known beforehand.

Sixth—The Baltimore plan was intended to apply to national banks exclusively; the secretary's bill extends it to state banks which will comply with certain conditions. This clause, however, brings in what is properly a separate subject, and does not affect the main features of the bill.

Even with the 30-per-cent-deposit feature, the bill as now submitted would provide for an inflation of the currency to the extent of 70 per cent of the new circulation, which might be taken out under the law, and since our trouble now is due to a redundant currency, this further inflation would greatly aggravate the ills from which we suffer. The effect of such inflation would be at once to force the government notes back to the treasury, where no provision exists for their withdrawal. The proper and business-like plan would be to add to the present bill a provision for funding in bonds at a fair rate of interest—by comparison with those of other nations with credit equal to our own it would be from 2½ to 3 per cent—all the legal tender and treasury notes as they might be returned by the holders, and thus permanently withdrawing them from circulation. If this is not done, some provision must be made for giving the government notes preference, in receipts for customs and other dues, and this would in itself defeat the objects of the bill. The banks would surely decline to take out circulation which would be less desirable than the treasury issues. On the other hand, the withdrawal of the government notes would be perfectly safe, and there would be both opportunity and inducement for the banks to issue all the money needed to meet the requirements of trade.

Bread by Weight.

It has been discovered in Pennsylvania that there is an old law, passed in 1797 and never repealed, which requires bread to be sold by weight. The authorities in some of the cities are taking measures to enforce it, and bakers who ignore it are likely to get into trobule.
