

THE DIRECT PASSED

UPROAR IN LOWER HOUSE OF BULGARIAN CONGRESS.

Premier Stouffel Tells an Opposition Deputy He Lies, and a Scene of Much Disorder Follows.

SOFIA, Jan. 2.—A scene of great excitement occurred during today's session of the Bulgarian congress, and a scene of much disorder followed. An opposition deputy accused Premier Stouffel of having diverted a portion of the fund which had been set apart for the suppression of brigandage to the subvention of political spies, whereupon M. Stouffel sprang to his feet and exclaimed in a voice heard with passion: "You lie!"

This exclamation immediately created a furor among the opposition deputies. In the midst of the tumult the speaker of the chamber ordered the expulsion of the member who had made the charge against M. Stouffel. The others endeavored to eject the offending member, but the deputies of the opposition attacked them with their fists, and drove them from the hall. Several of them were knocked down and badly beaten. During the melee, several deputies drew revolvers, but they were disarmed before they were able to use their weapons. The opposition members, who were at the disadvantage of being numerically the weaker party, finally withdrew from the chamber, after loudly hurling accusations of injustice at the president.

INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION.

A Resolution Regarding Great Britain's Dispute With Venezuela.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The International Arbitration Society has sent to Lord Kimberley, secretary of the foreign office, a resolution of the society concerning the dispute in the settlement of Great Britain's dispute with Venezuela as to the boundaries of British Guiana. The committee directs attention to President Cleveland's references to the subject in his last message, and emphasizes the seriousness of Great Britain's responsibility in the matter. After speaking of the society's previous letters on the subject, the society's communication continues:

"We beg the government to state what Venezuelan claims are unsatisfactory to arbitration. We learn that Venezuela would willingly enter into explanations likely to lead to a modification of such claims. President Cleveland must have been fully advised when he deliberately suggested that the subject as a whole could be fairly comprised within the term 'amicable arbitration.' The society expresses approval of Mr. Cleveland's suggestion that the first step toward a settlement should be an effort to restore diplomatic relations between the countries, and prays the government to make friendly advances to this end."

ARMENIAN'S EXASPERATED.

Advices From Turkey Say They Are Ready for Any Violence.

The latest letters from Bitlis, show that the Armenians of that district were exasperated at the conduct of the authorities and ready for any violence. In regard to the disturbances at Eziou, in the district of Erzinghan, it is stated the governor recently summoned the Armenian notables and informed them the Kurds were planning an attack and advised the Armenians to take measures for their defense, as he did not have the means to protect them. The Armenians consequently tried to obtain a supply of arms, which was difficult, owing to the condition of the country. Letters from Sivas, where fresh disturbances have broken out, do not reach Constantinople for a fortnight, as the mail is being continually confiscated by the government, and dispatches have to be sent in a roundabout way to insure delivery.

Tassin Pasha's Suicide Reported.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 2.—It is reported that the governor of Bitlis, Tassin Pasha, who commanded the military operations in the Sassoun district, where so many outrages have been reported, has been assassinated by an Armenian, who afterward committed suicide.

AN APPARITION OF THE VIRGIN.

A Great Crowd That Gathered to See It Was Dispersed.

PEABODY, Jan. 2.—A report, which was spread among the peasantry in the neighborhood of Brannu that the Virgin Mary had appeared in a neighboring wood, caused 6000 people to assemble in the hope of witnessing the apparition. The local authorities, fearing a riot, ordered the crowd to disperse, and when they refused to do so, the gendarmes charged and wounded two of the peasants. Reinforcements of gendarmes had to be summoned from several precincts before the authorities succeeded in dispersing the crowd.

OTHER FOREIGN NEWS.

The French in Madagascar.

ANTANANARIVO, Madagascar, Jan. 2.—November 23 the Hovas held their annual festival at Fandronana and Premier and Prime Minister. The Hovas made a speech, in which he said if France sent an expedition to take the island the Hovas in defense of their queen and country. Trade with Madagascar is almost suspended. Carriers refuse to go to the coast on account of a fear of the French.

Punisher for Their Temerity.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—The minister of the colonies is said to have received a cablegram stating the natives had attacked the French expedition in the Congo country, killing 15. Reinforcements of the French expedition in the Congo country had been attacked by the natives, is confirmed, but reinforcements arrived at the post and retaliated upon the natives, destroying several of their villages and killing 100.

Honors for Waldersee.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—The decoration of Count von Waldersee with the order of the Black Eagle has been officially accepted. A newspaper says Prince Hohenlohe accepted the chancery position on condition that he was to retain it only until the passage of the anti-revolution and tax reform bills. His successor, it says, will be General von Waldersee.

Early Dissolution Expected.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—Socialist member of the reichstag, Zuhl, at a mass meeting last evening, said he thought an early dissolution of the reichstag certain, through the rejection of the bills providing for the construction of new ironclads and the increase of the strength of the army and the institution of various reforms in the imposition of taxes.

A Russian Ministerial Scandal.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 2.—The retirement of M. Krivosheina, minister of ways and communications, is in consequence of his connection with contracts for railroad ties, the material for which was obtained from the estate of Krivosheina. When the minister of finance discovered this scandal, M. Krivosheina was requested to resign.

Patriarch's Election Ratified.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 2.—An edict has been issued, ratifying the election of Monsignore Ismihan as Armenian patriarch, vice Monsignore Arkan, who, together with Monsignore Hayanmak, recently resigned because of the difficulties between the patriarch and the government.

An Amicable Settlement.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 2.—The Russian government will settle the Pamir question amicably by making concessions to Great Britain. The Chitral road and the route called General Junco's road, the only practicable route to the Pamir, have been assigned to Great Britain.

Must Join the Dominion.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The Pall Mall Gazette says the only remedy for the existing state of things in Newfoundland is the immediate incorporation of that province with the Dominion of Canada.

Father and Son Disagree.

BEIGRADE, Jan. 2.—Serious differences of opinion exist between King Alexander of Serbia and his father, ex-King Milan.

THE BILL PASSED.

Notes of the Failed Newfoundland Banks to Be Guaranteed.

ST. JOHN'S N. F., Jan. 2.—The bill guaranteeing the notes of the Union and Commercial banks was, with trifling amendments, passed by both houses of the legislature today. Tomorrow the governor will give his assent to the measure, and it will then become a law. A bill was also passed placing the value of the gold sovereign at 44 cents, the same as the Canadian and American standards. The lower house passed a bill to remove the disabilities of Sir William Whiteway and his followers, who were convicted of corrupt practices, and Sir William will return to public life, taking the directorship of his party, which is now in power. It is not expected that the measure will receive the royal assent, even though it should be passed by the upper house. An investigation of the charges against the directors of the Commercial bank was begun today. It was shown that the bonds which were included in the bank's assets had really been assigned to the London & Westminster bank. A further hearing of the case was adjourned.

A Mob Charge of the Assembly at the Last Meeting and Refused to Allow the Opposition Members to Speak.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The International Arbitration Society has sent to Lord Kimberley, secretary of the foreign office, a resolution of the society concerning the dispute in the settlement of Great Britain's dispute with Venezuela as to the boundaries of British Guiana. The committee directs attention to President Cleveland's references to the subject in his last message, and emphasizes the seriousness of Great Britain's responsibility in the matter. After speaking of the society's previous letters on the subject, the society's communication continues:

"We beg the government to state what Venezuelan claims are unsatisfactory to arbitration. We learn that Venezuela would willingly enter into explanations likely to lead to a modification of such claims. President Cleveland must have been fully advised when he deliberately suggested that the subject as a whole could be fairly comprised within the term 'amicable arbitration.' The society expresses approval of Mr. Cleveland's suggestion that the first step toward a settlement should be an effort to restore diplomatic relations between the countries, and prays the government to make friendly advances to this end."

ARMENIAN'S EXASPERATED.

Advices From Turkey Say They Are Ready for Any Violence.

The latest letters from Bitlis, show that the Armenians of that district were exasperated at the conduct of the authorities and ready for any violence. In regard to the disturbances at Eziou, in the district of Erzinghan, it is stated the governor recently summoned the Armenian notables and informed them the Kurds were planning an attack and advised the Armenians to take measures for their defense, as he did not have the means to protect them. The Armenians consequently tried to obtain a supply of arms, which was difficult, owing to the condition of the country. Letters from Sivas, where fresh disturbances have broken out, do not reach Constantinople for a fortnight, as the mail is being continually confiscated by the government, and dispatches have to be sent in a roundabout way to insure delivery.

Tassin Pasha's Suicide Reported.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 2.—It is reported that the governor of Bitlis, Tassin Pasha, who commanded the military operations in the Sassoun district, where so many outrages have been reported, has been assassinated by an Armenian, who afterward committed suicide.

AN APPARITION OF THE VIRGIN.

A Great Crowd That Gathered to See It Was Dispersed.

PEABODY, Jan. 2.—A report, which was spread among the peasantry in the neighborhood of Brannu that the Virgin Mary had appeared in a neighboring wood, caused 6000 people to assemble in the hope of witnessing the apparition. The local authorities, fearing a riot, ordered the crowd to disperse, and when they refused to do so, the gendarmes charged and wounded two of the peasants. Reinforcements of gendarmes had to be summoned from several precincts before the authorities succeeded in dispersing the crowd.

OTHER FOREIGN NEWS.

The French in Madagascar.

ANTANANARIVO, Madagascar, Jan. 2.—November 23 the Hovas held their annual festival at Fandronana and Premier and Prime Minister. The Hovas made a speech, in which he said if France sent an expedition to take the island the Hovas in defense of their queen and country. Trade with Madagascar is almost suspended. Carriers refuse to go to the coast on account of a fear of the French.

Punisher for Their Temerity.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—The minister of the colonies is said to have received a cablegram stating the natives had attacked the French expedition in the Congo country, killing 15. Reinforcements of the French expedition in the Congo country had been attacked by the natives, is confirmed, but reinforcements arrived at the post and retaliated upon the natives, destroying several of their villages and killing 100.

Honors for Waldersee.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—The decoration of Count von Waldersee with the order of the Black Eagle has been officially accepted. A newspaper says Prince Hohenlohe accepted the chancery position on condition that he was to retain it only until the passage of the anti-revolution and tax reform bills. His successor, it says, will be General von Waldersee.

Early Dissolution Expected.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—Socialist member of the reichstag, Zuhl, at a mass meeting last evening, said he thought an early dissolution of the reichstag certain, through the rejection of the bills providing for the construction of new ironclads and the increase of the strength of the army and the institution of various reforms in the imposition of taxes.

A Russian Ministerial Scandal.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 2.—The retirement of M. Krivosheina, minister of ways and communications, is in consequence of his connection with contracts for railroad ties, the material for which was obtained from the estate of Krivosheina. When the minister of finance discovered this scandal, M. Krivosheina was requested to resign.

Patriarch's Election Ratified.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 2.—An edict has been issued, ratifying the election of Monsignore Ismihan as Armenian patriarch, vice Monsignore Arkan, who, together with Monsignore Hayanmak, recently resigned because of the difficulties between the patriarch and the government.

An Amicable Settlement.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 2.—The Russian government will settle the Pamir question amicably by making concessions to Great Britain. The Chitral road and SHIPS FOR PORTLAND.

LARGE NUMBER STILL EN ROUTE TO THIS CITY.

List of Vessels Now in Port—The Coloma Reaches Hong Kong—Other Marine News.

Up to date, 43 ships of the fleet of 1894-95 have cleared from this port with grain for Europe. The ships still on the way to Portland aggregate 46,124 tons, and are as follows:

	Tons.
Carnarvon Bay	1,795
Caribbean	1,113
Cupira	1,129
Scottish Minister	1,572
Benicia	1,819
Duchess	1,896
County Antrim	1,139
Thistlebank	2,253
Kirkhill	1,432
Glandinorvig	1,081
Alameda	1,490
Albion	1,819
Celtic Queen	1,738
Dunard	707
London Hill	1,496
Inverness-shire	2,147
Comedlebank	2,179
Grassendale	1,819
James Drummond	1,740
Perian	1,234
Crackhead	1,496
Lindithgow-shire	1,357
Dumfriess-shire	2,512
Southwell	1,080
British Merchant	1,696
Gantock Rock	1,500
Samson	1,819
Princess Maria	1,338
Sierra Parima	1,500
Duchess	1,896
Cromarty-shire	1,842
Scottish Hills	2,002

The following is a list of the vessels in port, receiving or preparing to receive their grain cargoes:

	Tons.
Riverside	1,696
Donna Francisca	2,183
Scottish Glen	1,819
City of Hankow	1,136
Mooltan	1,615
Bredablik	1,496
Thallata	1,718
Samson	1,819
Sjorn	1,496
Lord Elgin	1,469
Marion Ballantyne	1,621
Andersson	1,819
Falls of Foyer	1,883
Red Rock	1,496
Samson	1,819
Glendal	1,819
Mool Tryvan	1,639
Strandale	1,496
Scottish Dale	1,399
Harland	1,995

THE SARNIA IN PORT.

She Lost Her Rudder and Experienced Heavy Weather.

BEIRFEST, Ireland, Jan. 2.—The Dominion line steamer Sarnia, from Portland, Me., and Halifax, N. S., for Liverpool, crippled by the loss of her rudder, put into Beirfest Lough this morning for shelter. The ship was damaged by the loss of her rudder, and the passengers left this evening. The officers of the ship say she experienced heavy weather until December 22, when a hurricane raised such a heavy sea and caused her to labor so that the rudder was carried away. She then drifted for several days until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora. The latter took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled by further heavy weather to part company with her. The Sarnia then drifted until she was sighted by the Anchor line steamer Anchora, which took her in tow, but the severe gale caused the two vessels to part. The Sarnia was about 120 miles off Tory Island. For two days the Anchora stood by the Sarnia, but was compelled