Needy women applying to the city board of collectors for work will be sent to these institutions and paid from this money. Thus 46½ days' work will be given from this opening of the boxes. It is hoped that the city, as it is chiefly of small coins, and the committee present their thanks to the patrons of the cash boxes. The next proceeds of the boxes will be divided among the three hospitals. The amounts found in boxes are as follows: United States bank, $5.75; The Portland, $1.91; Oregonian, $4.69; Arlington Club, $1.92; Chamber of Commerce, $2.47; Dekum, $2.47; The Famous, $2.48; Marquam building, $2.22; The Perkins hotel, $2.49; Chamber of Commerce, $2.47; Metier & Frank, $1.82; Portland Savings Bank building, $1.70; Collector of Customs, $1.55; Worcester building, $1.32; Baum & Brander, $1.18; Postoffice, $1.12; Multnomah Athletic Club, $1.06; Lamm, Wolfe & Co., $1.02; Olds & Klein, $1.02; Franklin market, $1.02; Portland Athletic Club, $1.02; First National bank, $1.02; E. SAUNDERS' FORMER WIFE.—W. W. Saunders, who was sentenced to the penitentiary for life in 1887 for the killing of Charles Campbell in Albany, and who was pardoned by Governor Penney, Dec. 31, on condition that he leave the state and never return, appears to have taken up his residence at Spokane, Idaho. Rumors having been in circulation to the effect that he was to be married, he has written to the Salem Statesman, stating that he has no intention of doing so. At the same time, shot Campbell, it was understood that he was engaged to be married to a sister of Miss Mattie Allison. In the alleged defense of whom from the murder charge, he was committed. There were rumors in circulation at that time that he had a wife in Texas, and this appears to have been the case, but whether divorced or not is not known here. A short time before Saunders was pardoned, Judge Bellinger received a letter from a lawyer in Honolulu, Tex., who had come to him asking for information regarding Saunders' prospects for securing a pardon, and expressing a hope that Judge Bellinger would use any influence he might possess toward securing Saunders' pardon. It was added that Saunders had a wife, a very worthy lady, and a 16-year-old daughter. As it is not known whether any legal separation between Saunders and his wife is probably known to Saunders.

SIX FEET OF SNOW.—One of the men employed in J. Buckley's logging camp, 25 miles up the Washoulog river, and 1250 feet above sea level, came to Portland yesterday, and reports six feet of snow on a level at that point. There has been no rain this fall, but there was about two feet of snow when the late storm commenced. Mr. Buckley has about 1,000 feet of logs in the stream, but there has not been water enough to bring them down. He has a dam 25 feet in height, across the river, which, owing to the rapid fall, backs the water up for only a quarter of a mile. The logs are out on a bench, some 500 feet above the river, and are sent half a mile down a chute, making the trip in about 20 seconds. They strike the water with such force that there is any check or crack in them, they are split in two in a moment, and quite a number are spoiled in this manner. Mr. Buckley intends to build another dam, and collect enough water to enable him to flush the logs out of the river. He has several million feet of logs in the pond, and the river below waiting to "come down on the race."

SHOW GOOD FOR WHEAT.—Mr. C. W. Tracy, general manager of the Pacific coast Elevator Company, returned yesterday from a business trip to Walla Walla. He says the energy and activity displayed in opening up the O. R. & N. road after the storm was remarkable. He found some eight inches of snow on the ground at Walla Walla, which farmers say will be a good thing for the wheat crop. If it does not go off till the frost is still in the hands of the farmers, the appearance of the trees along the railroad west of the Cascades, stripped of their branches by the sleet. Mr. Tracy says, it is stillable, and reminds him of the blizzards of Minnesota.

NOT YET DETERMINED.—Mr. John L. Hartman, receiver of the Northwest Loan & Trust Company, was asked yesterday what course would be adopted by the company since it had won the suit brought against it by Multnomah county, and particularly if the company would declare a dividend in favor of depositors, as had been promised in the terms of its victory in the suit. He replied that he could say nothing until he learned what the county commissioners were going to do. It was quite likely that the commissioners would appeal the case, in which event nothing could be done until the appeal had been decided. The commissioners have a meeting tomorrow, when they will decide what course to pursue.

PORTLAND'S FIRST FIRE BELL.—Chief Buchtel tells an interesting story regarding the first bell of Portland's fire department. Coming to town one day, he learned that there had been a fire, of which he knew nothing, and he remarked that a pressing necessity of the department was an alarm bell. He at once went to work, and in a few hours had a sufficient fund raised to purchase a bell, which was bought and located on the levee. The bell was afterward given to hose company No. 1, and broken while being rung at a Fourth of July celebration. Chief Buchtel also procured the donation of the beautiful plot of ground in Lane Fir cemetery for a fireman's burial ground, and the ground yet stands in his name.

PURE, strong and quick in action is Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

WILSON WANTED AT SALER.—W. B. Wilson, who stole all of the chickens from Sellwood to St. Johns, receiving a few that escaped his vigilance, has just finished his sentences in the county jail, for his numerous larcenies, and now is to be taken to Salem on Saturday. Sheriff received word from Chief of Police Dilley, at the capital city, that he wanted Wilson for crimes committed there, and would be down after him today, armed with the required warrant.

LINKS IN GOOD SHAPE.—The Oregon Telephone & Telegraph Company's long line to Spokane, also its long lines up the Willamette valley, on both sides of the river, are again in working order. It has also restored connection between Portland, East Portland, and Albina, and expects to have reformed connection completed within a few days.

PUBLIC INSTALLATION.—The public is invited to be present at the public installation of officers of Court Pacific, Independent Order of Foresters, tonight, at Elks' hall. A good programme has been prepared. Exercises commence at 8:30.

THE MESSENGER.—Arthur Hall, January 8, tickets, $1. Sale commences Friday, January 11, 10 A. M., Stark Pharmacy, Third and Stark streets.

OUR ANNUAL SALE is now proceeding. Mohl Cran & Co., Sixth and Washington.

FUNERAL OF JAMES TURK.—The remains of James Turk, who died at Tacoma a few days since, were brought to this city Sunday, and yesterday afternoon were interred in the Lane Fir cemetery on the East side, where his wife and mother are buried. Turk was an Englishman by birth, but came to America many years ago, and served in the American army during the Mexican war. After the capture of the City of Mexico, he went to San Francisco, where he engaged in the boarding-house business, and some 22 years since removed to Portland, where he followed the same business until he moved to Tacoma, a year or two ago. He was 52 years of age, and leaves two sons, Charles and Frank. He accumulated considerable property in his business. Like others, he had his faults, but he had many good traits of character, and his debts, and his word in a business transaction could be depended upon. The funeral of Turk was attended by his two sons with his second wife, and nearly all the sailor boarding-house fraternity in the city. No eulogy was delivered by Pastor Rasmus, of Grace church, who officiated, but a chapter from scripture was read, a prayer was offered and then a song was sung. The pall-bearers were Jack Grant, Paddy Lynch, Larry Sullivan, Dick McKerron, Frank Turk and George Howers.

EXAMINATION, JANUARY 26.—Secretary W. E. Pulliam, of the board of examiners, recently appointed to examine applicants under the civil service rules for positions in the custom-house, yesterday received a letter from President John R. Proctor, of the civil service commission, directing that an examination be held here January 26. Applicants for positions in the customs service must have their applications in by January 22. The examination will be held at the custom-house. The limits for candidates are as follows: For clerk or messenger, not under 20 years of age, and for all other positions, not under 21 years of age. None but native-born or duly naturalized citizens of the United States will be permitted to make applications or take the examination. The question of political complexion is not to be considered. The person or persons passing the best competitive examination will stand the first chance of appointment when vacancies occur.

SLIPPING OUT SNOW.—A party of a half-dozen men with fire-hose attached to a hydrant, was at work yesterday, endeavoring to clear away the snow from the street side of the block on Third street, between Washington and Alder streets. The water did not have much effect in melting the snow, but when it was turned over it pounded out that the stream struck it down the catch basin. The men were at work all the afternoon, and by the use of large amounts of water succeeded in getting one side of the block cleared. The clear the streets generally in this manner would prove a tedious operation.

PORT TOWNSEND APPRECIATIVE.—President W. J. Walker, of the Port Townsend Athletic Club, has written a letter to the Portland Amateur Athletic Club, extending thanks for the welcome and entertainment rendered their football team, while on their visit to this city. He says: "Every member of the team has words of praise for the treatment they received, and our only regret is that we will be unable to appreciate their visit when your team visits this city." The letter concludes with many pleasant recollections, "and with but one regret, that we did not see them."

ARRESTED FOR LARCENY.—On complaint of W. W. Brackett, two young men named R. Brown and G. L. Clayton, who had been employed about the Exposition building, were yesterday arrested on a charge of larceny. They were accused of stealing some glasses used in effecting illusions at some of the fake shows given there, but both men deny any knowledge of the matter. After being in jail a few hours, the charge against Clayton was withdrawn, but Brown was held in $500 bail for examination today in the municipal court.

ENTITLED TO LAND.—The two Chinese arrested Sunday evening by Customs Inspector Logan for not having the proper registration certificates as to liberty. They were passengers on the steamship Columbia, and were just leaving the vessel when taken into custody. As soon as they had a chance to secure their baggage, both men produced the regulation certificates, issued in California, and, there being no cause for their detention, they were allowed to go.

TO COLLECT INCOME TAX.—Mr. Henry Blackman, collector of internal revenue, has received a copy of the rules and regulations in regard to assessing and collecting the income tax. This indicates that the law will be enforced, and it is expected that the necessary forms, blanks, and other stationery will soon come to hand. The regulations are quite voluminous, covering 12 pages, while the law only occupies 12 pages.

FIVE JAPANESE BAPTIZED.—Interesting services at the Japanese Methodist Episcopal mission, 101 North Ninth, were held Sunday night. Five young men were baptized by Pastor J. C. Harris, presiding elder of San Francisco, the Lord's supper was observed. The chapel was filled. The total membership is 108. Work among the Japanese in Idaho and Oregon is carried on by this mission.

Why does the new president of France resemble Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder? Because it is new for his strength.

THE VEGETARIAN.—The Oregon Vegetarian Society meets in the parlors of the World's Advance Thought, 106 Sixth street, this evening at 7:45. With this meeting the society enters its fourth year of activity, and it is the prevailing belief among the members that they have accomplished much good. An invitation is extended to all interested in the subject.

RAILROAD TRAINS ON TIME.—All overland railroad trains are running in and out of Portland on schedule time again, and it is a good thing for the past, so far as the railroad world is concerned. The tracks in the mountain districts, having been once cleaned of snow, can be easily kept open, unless the country is visited by another unusual storm.

UNTARIAN ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of the First Unitarian Society will be held in their chapel this evening at 8 o'clock, to elect trustees and hear reports of the year's work. The Women's Auxiliary will provide refreshments and sociability after the business meeting. All members and others interested in the church are cordially invited.

TO UNDERGO SOME NEEDED REPAIRS the steamer Lurline will this day be withdrawn from the Astoria route, but will be placed on again in the near future. During the time of her withdrawal the company will place one of their boats on every Saturday night for Astoria and away landings, leaving Taylor-street dock at 10 P. M.

ROOFS.—Property-owners who will find it necessary to repair or re-roof their buildings after this storm, will save money and future trouble and annoyance by having J. C. Bayer and the Portland Asphaltum Company do their work, the oldest established and most reliable metal and composition roofers in the city. Telephone, 41.

A MISSION MEETING.—A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested to be present at the quarterly meeting of Columbia river branch, Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church, to be held this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, in Clarke church, corner of Fifteenth and Releigh streets.

ROOF REPAIRING of all kinds, especially tin roofs, gutters, and walls, done in best manner, by the Oregon Roofing & Roofing Co., 805-820 Hood street, telephone 102. Their plastic slate is not a patent, but a heavy cement coating which effectively fills all crevices and stops leaks.

BURIED AT THE CASCANES.—Little Emma Martindale, the daughter of Captain Martindale, the well-known river captain of the O. R. & N., died last Sunday. Her remains were taken to this city yesterday by the sorrowing father for burial at Cascade Locks.

MEETING OF MEMBERS.—The Portland Ministerial Association held its regular bi-monthly meeting in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday morning. After prayer by Rev. Sanderson, and reading of the minutes, the paper for the day was presented by Rev. W. O. Forbes, on the subject, "The Most Effective Preaching." After the reading of the paper a consideration of the theme was participated in by all the pastors present. The paper itself was commended and called forth very pleasant remarks. Rev. Mr. Geppert, who was present, and was invited to sit as a corresponding member, and Rev. Mr. Manshardt was elected as a member.

THE PAPER OF THE DAY.—Messrs. William McGuire & Co., whose safe at their coal-yard in the old Southern Pacific roundhouse, on North Front street, was robbed short time since, have about given up hope of the papers taken being restored. They have found where some of the papers were destroyed, and imagine that the burglar, after breaking into the safe and destroying it and smashing the steel box it contained, and finding nothing but papers in it, was so mad that he destroyed the papers. The police must have had a good idea of the intelligence of the firm to think they would leave money in such a safe in such a place.

EX-CONVICT ARRESTED.—George Davis, an ex-convict recently out of the penitentiary, was arrested yesterday by Officer W. B. Johnson for larceny. While in the custom-house, yesterday evening, Sunday night he stole a watch from Benjamin Smith, a contractor, living at Sellwood, and afterward tried to sell it for $2.00. Three months ago he was arrested and Davis has a good chance of going back to the penitentiary.

THE EAST SIDE SKATING RINK is open again. A large force of carpenters having been engaged to repair the rink, destroyed by the snow, the building is now perfectly safe, and in good condition.

JURORS MUST ANSWER.

The Kelly Jury to Appear Thursday Before Judge Stephens.

There were no developments in the Steeves case yesterday. Steeves is still in jail, in his usual quarters. A motion for a new jury was made, and was argued yesterday, for several reasons. District Attorney Hume was called to Oregon City in the Garthorne bogus opium case, and Judge Stephens, Rufus Mallory and Judge Campbell are in the city otherwise. Mr. Mallory stated that he would take the subject up as soon as possible, and so did Judge Caples. The law, since the right to accept bail, in a case has been an issue, will have to be argued to the court.

Some lawyers state that Steeves can properly be released upon bonds, even under the statute quoted to the contrary. According to this section, murder in any degree is not bailable. These lawyers contend that Steeves is not now charged with murder in any degree, and that manslaughter is the only crime which is bailable only two degrees of murder, first and second. They further argue that Steeves is not now held on the indictment which charges him with murder, but is now held by the verdict of the jury which was "guilty of manslaughter." If he is going to move further in his case for a new trial and carry it to the supreme court, they say that during the pendency of these proceedings he is entitled to his liberty upon filing a good and sufficient bond. The arguments will be made some day during the week convenient to the counsel and court.

Yesterday Judge Stephens made an order requiring the jury in the "Bunco" Kelly case to appear before him next Thursday for examination. This jury consisted of Thomas J. Kelly, Albert Tozier, J. R. Kellogg, B. S. Reilly, A. W. Powers, A. C. Edmunds, James Menzies, F. W. Hummel, A. Goodough, Charles River, Mert L. Dimick and John McKerron. The juror to be examined was called by the court concerning their discussion of the case during the trial, contrary to the orders of the court, the bribery incident of George W. Johnson, John R. Carr and Juror Huntington, and their conduct in general, during the whole of the trial.

After this order was made by Judge Stephens, he was called by the Attorney General, Joseph Marks and Asa N. Church. When interviewed concerning the truth of these statements, Judge Stephens said he had not discharged the men, and doubted that his order summoning the Kelly jurors before him, Thursday, was the expected that the necessary forms, blanks, and other stationery will soon come to hand. The regulations are quite voluminous, covering 12 pages, while the law only occupies 12 pages.

GOVERNOR McKimley has strong expectations of "rising" results where Dr. Price's Baking Powder is tried.

CLARKE'S PRINTING.

The Prosecuting Attorney Thinks He Has Unearthed a Combination.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 7.—Prosecuting Attorney C. D. Bowles is engaged in unearthing what he believes to be a good-sized job on the part of the publishers of three of the newspapers of this county, to "bleed" the taxpayers of the county in the matter of county printing and advertising. The contract for this work was awarded on April 10, 1894, to Vancouver Columbian, on the bid of $1 per square of 10 lines for first insertion, and 50 cents for each subsequent insertion, the maximum price allowed by law. The contract also provided that the bidder shall receive for table-work, consisting of three or more columns, double the rates allowed for ordinary matter. The bid of the Vancouver Register was $1 first insertion and 75 cents subsequent. The bid of the Independent was not considered, as it was not presented within the time required. Hence in reality the bid of the Columbian was the only one which the commissioners could act upon. The Register's bid, being higher than the maximum rate prescribed by law, the contract was awarded at the maximum rate. It was rumored, about the time the contract was let, that the publishers of these newspapers had entered into a combination to keep up the rates for public printing and that each might receive its proportionate share of the business. No definite could be learned, however, at that time, and it was generally supposed the matter had been dropped and forgotten. This morning the editors and publishers of the newspapers named, except Editor Dennis, of the Columbian, were summoned to appear before the county commissioners, where they were confronted by Mr. Bowles and each asked to explain to the commissioners his interest in the Columbian's contract for printing. Those who appeared today were: E. M. Rand and Lloyd Dubois, the present publishers and publishers of the Vancouver Independent, J. J. Beeson, who was the editor and proprietor of that paper at the time the contract was let, and Editor Daniels, of the Register. Each gentleman declined to answer the question concerning the nature of the agreement and were granted permission to appear with counsel tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Some interesting developments are expected. Mr. Bowles claims to be in possession of information sufficient to at least warrant the commissioners commencing an action to annul the Columbian's contract. Three bills of $100 each, presented by the three papers, for publishing the names on the official ballot in November were allowed by the recorder under the provisions of the act, but were revoked today, pending the investigation.

A tramp was arrested last Saturday for attempting to steal a watch from Miss Beard, clerk in the Commercial bank of this city. The fellow entered the bank during the afternoon. He asked Miss Beard, who was alone in the bank, for money. Just as the young lady stepped up to the counter to comply with his request, the fellow made a sudden grab across the counter for her watch and chain. He would probably have been successful had not Miss Beard stepped back in time to catch him. He was taken before Justice Caples and is now serving out his sentence of 30 days in the city jail.

THE STORM KILLED IT.

The Portland Universal Exposition Is Now a Mournful Memory.

The Portland exposition is a thing of the past. The big storm last week was the cyclone, and the management, after experiencing so many vicissitudes, decided to throw up the sponge. Exhibitors commenced moving out their displays about this date. The fellow entered the bank during the afternoon. He asked Miss Beard, who was alone in the bank, for money. Just as the young lady stepped up to the counter to comply with his request, the fellow made a sudden grab across the counter for her watch and chain. He would probably have been successful had not Miss Beard stepped back in time to catch him. He was taken before Justice Caples and is now serving out his sentence of 30 days in the city jail.

Former Manager Hardt had had some difficulty with the concessionaires over the collection of rentals for space from them. All of them have lost money, some of them being engaged in the business, but themselves in a position to fulfill their contracts with Manager Hardt. A compromise was finally effected and the 12 concessionaires were given 12 hours in which to remove their effects before storage would be charged them.

E. W. McConnell, the owner of the cyclorama, is also the principal owner of the Ferris wheel and, although it was taken away in a remote corner of the building, was not seen by all the visitors to the exposition. Mr. McConnell is endeavoring to effect an arrangement with some of Portland's charitable organizations, whereby the latter will take charge of its cyclorama, pay the space rental, and pay him a percentage of the receipts from visitors.

It costs a great deal of money to move the cyclorama, and, although it was visited by nearly everyone who came to the exposition, as it was the best thing there, yet the owner has not been reimbursed for his outlay.

The management under Mr. DeLashmott turned the exposition over to Mr. Hardt on the first of the year clear of all indebtedness to employees; so the latter is practically the only person connected with the exposition who has lost nothing.

The effect of a walk through the vast, gloomy building yesterday was somewhat depressing. The place was deserted, except for a few expressmen removing the last of the exhibits, and a half dozen concessionaires who stood about with their hands in their pockets, soberly surveying the ruins. The flaming placards of all the concessionaires still remained, conspicuous. The solitary wanderer was still invited to inspect the Palace of Mysteries, and at the head of a stairway large red letters proclaimed the way to "the great ferris wheel." In a far corner, the sign, "See the big cattle," still remains, and an unchallenged entrance through the doorway disclosed the fact that the cattle were still remaining, chewing its cud in peaceful solitude, the other stuffed and still. Further on, against the side of the passage, was the happy family of polecat, dog, monkey and in which to remove their effects before storage would be charged them.

Sure signs of success in cookery are seen wherever Dr. Price's Baking Powder is used.

Miss Allen and the World's Fair. The mandamus proceedings of Miss Maude Allen against the executive committee of the Oregon world's fair commission, was heard before Judge Shattuck yesterday afternoon. Miss Allen acted as judge superintendent of the woman's department during the fair at Chicago, holding her place by appointment by her mother, Mrs. E. W. Allen, who was the general superintendent of this department for the state of Oregon. It is alleged that the commission provided for a payment of not less than $5 per day for such services as were performed by Miss Allen, but that a refusal to audit her claim in a greater sum than $2 per day followed. Miss Allen seeks to enforce payment of the balance due, amounting to $182. The counsel for the commission argued a demurrer, contending that the rate of pay was discretionary with the commission and that Miss Allen had been informed during her incumbency what her wages would be. Judge Shattuck has the matter under advisement.

An Oregon City Case in Court. An effort was made in Judge Stearns' court yesterday partly to settle up a suit between Portland Clay Company vs. Hamshaw & Benn, the American Bridge & Contract Company and Oregon City. The suit is an outcome of the paving of Main street, in Oregon City. The Portland Clay Company seeks to recover $500 for bricks furnished. Yesterday an effort was made to have payment of $387 due Oregon City people allowed. This could not be agreed upon, however, as Hamshaw & Benn, who paved the street, claim a balance due from Oregon City of $840, and counsel present in court yesterday stated that Oregon City, at this time, had only agreed to pay in $750. The case was continued until Saturday, to give Hamshaw & Benn, and the common council of Oregon City, opportunity to arrange the difference between them of $750 and $840. The litigants present in court yesterday were not willing to allow the $387 due the Oregon City people taken out of $750, as they said it would not leave sufficient balance for them to go into court over, but they would agree to the $387 payment, provided the council of Oregon City consents to allow over $840, the sum Hamshaw & Benn allege is due.
