

ON SERIOUS CHARGES THE IMPACT OF JUDGE ARTHUR OF SPOKANE.

The Washington House Appoints a Committee to Investigate the Accusations—Routine Proceedings.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 12.—Aside from routine business, neither house of the legislature accomplished much today. Both branches held their morning and afternoon sessions. The house took a recess from 12 o'clock till 2 o'clock, out of respect to the anniversary of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln. The feature of today's session was an important committee meeting held after adjournment, and the filing of information asking for the appointment of a committee to investigate into the charges of impeachment against Judge Arthur.

Governor McEwen today signed a bill making February 12, the anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth, a legal holiday. This is considered a coincidence, owing to the bill being signed on the anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

Consideration of Taylor's local option bill in the senate today was made impermissible by the long-drawn-out debate over the township organization matter. The bill will probably be brought up tomorrow.

When the committees of the senate and house met this afternoon to consider further the bill which would prevent persons from coming into streets and alleys and maintain the same, in order to prevent contamination by the city or the improvements of the Tacoma Land Company and Northern Pacific Railway Company.

Charges against Judge Arthur. The accusations to be investigated by a House Committee. OLYMPIA, Feb. 12.—Representative Toll of Spokane sprung a sensation in the house today by introducing a resolution for the impeachment of Judge Arthur, of the superior bench of Spokane and Stevens counties. The resolution charged him with grave offenses, violation of his oath under the constitution, and with various other offenses.

The local option bill, which is now attracting so much attention in the senate, provides that the county commissioners in each county shall have sole and exclusive power to regulate, restrict, license or prohibit the sale or disposal of spirituous, fermented, malt or other intoxicating liquors outside of the corporate limits of each city, town or village.

The senate today considered and passed house memorial No. 3, by F. T. Taylor, for the purpose of authorizing the use of the general fund of the state treasury, 25 per cent into the county school fund, and the remaining 75 per cent into the general county fund.

NO SENATOR ELECTED THE BALLOT YESTERDAY SHOWED NO CHANGE.

Restlessness Among the Opposition and a Desperate Effort to Secure Democratic and Populist Aid.

The eighteenth ballot for United States senator disclosed no change, absentees reducing the vote, though there were more present than on Monday. The tabulated vote to date is as follows:

SALEM, Feb. 12.—The anti-Dolph election is making its final struggle before giving up the fight. The chief activity today and tonight has been in the direction of a coalition with democrats and populists, to whom anxious overtures have been made. The names of the most frequent heard in connection with this effort are that of Fulton, and report has it that promises have been made to the effect that if returned to office Fulton would sign an agreement satisfactory to the populists or democrats. Of course, in such an event the senator elected could scarcely be classed as other than populist, receiving the vote of that party.

Very Little Business of Any Kind Transacted. SALEM, Feb. 12.—After organization of the house, Chairman Wright, of the ways and means committee, asked an extension of time for presentation of the general appropriation bill, and the same was granted.

In Joint Session. SALEM, Feb. 12.—The joint assembly met at 11:30 and was called to order by President Simon. Reading the journal was dispensed with.
