WILLAMETTE MILL RUNNING AGAIN.—
The repairs to the power plant of the Williamstte Steam Mill Lumbering & Manufacturing Company were completed yesterday, and the first sawing done since the fire, on the 4th day of November last, was upon a log 126 feet long which has remained standing at the saws ever since the mill closed down. The mill gives employment to some 200 hands, many of whom have found it hard to bear the enforced idleness during the winter. The insurance WILLAMSTYE MILL RUNNING AGAIN. companies, some 15 or 20 in number, that had policies upon the property destroyed by the fire, have combined together, and have appointed a committee of agents at San Francisco to resist payment of the insurance, upon the technical ground that there is some ambiguity in the language in the policies describing the buildings. The delay in adjusting the insurance has prevented an earlier completion of the repairs, but the company has taken the occasion to make some improvements that render the concern one of the most com-plete upon the coast. The mill is operated prete upon the coast. The mill is operated by means of two Wheelook engines of 1500 horsepower, and a rope transmission sys-tem, and has a nawing capacity of 250,000 feet of lumber per day. The high-water last fune, followed by the strike, and then the fire, seriously interfered with business during the past year; but, in spite of the hard times, now that the improvements into the last, have added nts in the plant have added so greatly to its effectiveness, the company looks forward to a prosperous year for all A NATURAL ICE CROP.-Mr. Robert Bmith, manager of the Grand Ronde Lumber Company, is in the city. He says a company has been organized, under the name of the Blue Mountain Natural Ice Company, which proposes to take a hand In cooling the lemonades and other mixed drinks of the Portland people this sum-mer, and that it is now shipping here from 10 to 15 carloads of ice per day from Perry. It has been stated that there was no ice made in this region during the past winter, but this appears to be an error, as far as the Grand Ronde country is con-cerned, for Mr. Smith says the company harvested a first crop D to 22 inches in thickness, and is now harvesting a second crop 14 inches thick, and it has 100,600 tons stored. The very idea is enough to send cold chills down the spinal column of any one, and especially one interested in the manufacture of artificial ice. Meacham and Viamela, on the summit of the Blue mountains, are the coldest places in that region, and Perry is not far from there. Between artificial ice and natural ice there is likely to be considerable coolness in Portland next summer.

SUICIDE MONTGOMERY'S CHILDREN.—The orphaned children of H. D. Montgomery, orphaned committed suicide by poison on Mon-day, are being cared for at the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society home, where their father first placed them two months ago, when he found that he could no longer make a living for them. The bereaved daughter is it years old, and her brother two years older. They two years older. They were grief-stricken when taken to the morgue to view the remains of their father, and the little girl was so anxious to have a photograph of her father that a kind-hearted photographer itnally consented to secure a like-ness. The children were provided with a home in Lewis county. Washington, at case time, but about three weeks ago they were returned to the Boys' and Girls' home at the request of their father. Now they will be retained at the home until they will be retained at the home until other provision can be made for them. Patrick Murry, to whom the dead father was indebted, has agreed to forego his claim on the estate. Montgomery's remains will be decently interred at the expense of Council No. 3, J. O. A. M. POISONED BY CHEESE.—A supposed case of poisoning of a family from eating cheese is reported from East Portland. Monday evening, Mr. J. F. a quantity of cheese from a store on the West Side. All of the members of his household ate of the cheese, consisting of himself, his wife, two rons, and also a young lady guest. The young lady was the first who evinced signs of poisoning, and became violently ill. She was taken to her home at once, and was waited upon by a physician. About half an hour after-ward Mrs. Compton showed signs of dis-tress, and a few minutes later Mr. Compton and the two boys were taken with violent pains. At midnight Mr. Comptor was seized with convulsions, and a doctor was summened, who upon his arrival suc ceeded in relieving him and the other members of the family and left them rest-ing easy. The cheese purchased was in-closed in a can. The attending physician has taken a quantity of it and will make an examination to determine the cause of the trouble, INQUIRING INTO READ'S CASE.-The efforts to have Rev. J. C. Read adjudged in-same are being continued. Yesterday more testimony was taken, and, as on previous testimeny was taken, and, as on previous days. Mrs. Read was a visitor to the courthouse, accompanied by their son, a bright-appearing young man. The report is current that insanity is hereditary in the Read family, tracing back a couple of generations. MAY START THE SMELTER.-Mr. William Selover, who was the principal promoter of the scheme for building the smelting works at Linnton, arrived here a few days since from Chicago, and has been endeav-oring to make arrangements for putting the smelter in operation. He says amelt-ers at Omaha, Denver and other places are doling a good business, and the smelt-ing business could be carried on profitably here. The syndicate which owns the smelter here, however, got its affairs into such a shape that he fears it will be im-practicable to make such arrangements as he would like. He says, notwithstand-ing the low nites of silver, the respective ing the low price of sliver, the prospects of the smelling business in the West were never butter than at the present time.

A New Row or Buildings.—Mr. P. Sell-

ng, who a few days since purchased the half block on Washington, between West Park and Tenth streets, from J. Loewen-berg, for $76,000, is preparing to put up at once a row of stores the whole length of the block. The plans and specifications are being prepared, and the buildings will be of brick, three stories in height. Mr. Selling has confidence in the future of the city, and has no idea of allowing this val-uable property to remain unimproved, and is going to take advantage of the present favorable time for building, when material and labor are cheap.

SETLABES HOME AGAIN.—The skylarks, which were such an attraction in the Ladd tract last summer, have returned from their winter migration and are filling that section with melody on fine mornings. A gentleman who went over there a ings. A gentleman who went over there a few mornings since to look for them says he heard more than a dozen singing at once, and the effect was "eavenly." Any one wishing to hear the larks, at Heaven's gate singing, should take his station about the center of the Ladd tract shortly after sunrise on a fine morning. The performance lasts for several hours, and a matince is given every day.

RUBBISH INTO THE RIVER.—In spite of all that has been said and written about people violating the law by dumping refuse into the fiver, the practice is almost daily kept up. A most open instance of the kind recently occurred at Victoria dock. The British ship Dunearn on Saturday and Victoria ship and Victoria docks. sock. The British ship Dunearn on Saturday and Menday discharged, so it is said, 300 tens of rock ballast into the river, instead of on the dock where it belonged. Whoever had the say of the matter probably considered it more economical to throw the stuff into the river than have it carted from the wharf. Major Post was notified of the foot on Monday and notified of the fact on Monday, and promptly stopped it. It is one of the duties of the harbor master to prevent such vio-lations of the law. Captain Pitch's attenlations of the law, Captain Flich's attention was called to the matter by a pilot, and he is said to have replied that he sounded on the spot and found pienty of water where the ballast was being dumped. To most river men, the city's expense of keeping a dredge seems uscless, when anybody and everybody is permitted to choke up the channel by throwing rubbish into the river. Mr. Oliphant is investigating the Dungare case for the vestigating the Dungarn case for the

DIED FROM NATURAL CAUSES.-Yesterday afternoon Coroner Cornelius held an inquest on the body of W. R. P. Rennan, who died at the LaCrosse house. First street, Monday night. While in his room at the lodging-house some one rang the call-bell so violently as to bring Rennan out in the hall, and he and the caller became involved in a wordy altercation. Rennan became greatly excited, so much to that he burst an averaging of the heart so that he burst an aneurism of the heart, causing death in a few moments. The causing death in a few moments. The finding of the jury was in accordance with the facts as narrated by witnesses.

MR. MATER'S ADDRESS.—Mr. Jacob May-er on Monday night delivered an interest-ing address before the members of Willamette lodge of Free Masons in this city.
Mr. Mayer is one of the oldest members of the order in Portland, having occupied many places of honor in the order, and passed through all the degrees. His ad-dress is highly spoken of as instructive, and as showing the deep knowledge of the speaker on subjects pertaining to the fra-ternity of which he is an honored mem-

Stewart, ex-mayor of East Portland, who was taken in charge on Monday on account of supposed insanity, was yesterday released on parole by County Judge Northup. Mr. Stewart will go to the home of friends, at Hood River, for a short period, in the hope that proper attendance and quiet will be the means of fully re-storing his health. His friends are stout in the assertion that he is all right.
Whathenford Goes to Salem.-Fred

Weatherford was taken to the peniten-tiary Monday by Sheriff Sears, and since his arrival has been shaved and otherwise introduced to the rules of the prison. Weatherford has four years to serve. The deputy sheriff, who accompanied Weath-erford to Salem, reports that he found a schoolmate in one of the wardens, and felt very happy, as a consequence, feeling assured of good treatment.

Pioneer Missionary Eloquently

Eulogized by Dr. A. J. Brown.

The Pioneer Missionary Eloquently Eulogized by Dr. A. J. Brown.

The crowded appearance of the Taylorstreet M. E. church last evening demonstrated the poularity of Rev. Arthur J. Brown, D. D., as a lecturer, and the doctor did not disappoint his andience. For more than an hour he held them in the closest attention while in eloquent words he told the story of Marcus Whitman, the pioneer missionary of Oregon, and how much he did to open up the vast and fertile territory went of the Rocky mountains to settlers. The lecture was the fourth in the Y. M. C. A. star course, and its subject, "Marcus Whitman and the Story of Pioneer Oregon," promised something of unusual interest, and so it proved. The audience was made up of cultured people, and was very appreciative, frequently interrupting the speaker with applause. The lecture was preceded by a short but most enjoyable organ recital by Mrs. E. M. Bergen.

Dr. Brown's subject proved intensely interesting, in spite of its historical tone. Dr. Marcus Whitman, a Presbyterian missionary, characterized by the speaker as the "Livingatone of the Far West," was a mong the first settlers in Oregon. He opened up a settlement about six miles from the present site of Walla Walla, and the country believed the vast wilderness west of the Rockies to be impenetrable and until for human habitation, and raised their voices in warning to emigrants who contemplated crossing the mountains. Dr. Whitman discovered what a grant who contemplated crossing the mountains. Dr. Whitman discovered what a grant provided in the country believed the voices in warning to emigrants who contemplated crossing the mountains. Dr. Whitman habitation, and raised their voices in warning to emigrants who contemplated crossing the mountains. Dr. Whitman discovered what a grant provided in the country believed the wast wilderness west of the Rockies to be impenetrable to the mountains. Dr. Whitman discovered what a grant provided to the liability of loss by fire. The action is brought about by the lided of the pr not immediately brought to take possession, this vast domain would be lost to the United States, Dr. Whitman, in the dead of winter, with but a single com-panion, made the perilous trip over the mountains, and, after almost miracu-lously overcoming innumerable dangers, arrived in Washington, and by lectures newspaper irticles and pamphlets, succeeded in arousing the government to action. Then the first great wagon train, with 143 extlers, followed the intrepid ploneer and minister back over the mountains, in time to save the great Northwest for the United States, thus starting a tide of immigration that has never since ceased to flow. Dr. Whit-man's famous journey was made in 1842-2, and four years later he lost his life in the historical Indian massacre that bears his

The lecturer told the thrilling story of Dr. Whitman's life and patriotism in vivid pen pictures that were both forcible and eloquent. After all he told the story simply, but it was so embellished with in-cidents of frontier life, anecdotes and stories as to make it read like a novel, n which the Livingstone of the Far West was the hero. But Dr. Brown has gone deeper into the subject. It has often been alleged that Dr. Whitman's famous midwinted trip was a myth, and that he himself was but an ordinary individual. In a series of quotations from the most uthentic historians of the day, authors statesmen, orators, editors and pam-phileteers, the speaker proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that Dr. Whitman was every inch the pioneer, missionar, and patriot that Oregonians and Wash ngtonians are proud to consider him. Dr Brown's researches along this line mus have cost him a great deal of labor and effort, for he has taken pains to search all the records within reach, and they are well nigh innumerable.

In closing Dr. Brown paid a glowin tribute to the early pioneers who fol-lowed Dr. Whitman into Oregon, naming many of them and speaking of their in-dividual efforts for the welfare of the state. He also uttered an eloquent perora-tion on the resources of the grand North-west, its future and great possibilities. Dr. Brown was warmly applauded when he had concluded.

NEEDLE AND ITS CHANGES

Captain Gilbert Comes to Make Mag-

Captain J. J. Gilbert, of the cogeodetic survey, arrived in Portland yes-terday to take the regular observations connected with the magnetic stations estab-lished several years ago. Many will remember when an officer of the coast and geodetic survey had a tent pitched on the southeast corner of the postoffice block, and, after making his observations and "planted" a stone monu here something over 20 deg., but everybody does not know that this variation varies, and is constantly changing.

The object of the magnetic stations established at various points by the coast and geodetic survey is to keep track of the variation, as well as the intensity of the magnetic force and the dip of the magnetic needle; to see how far the variation extends east, and then how far west, and how long it takes for it to travel between the outside limits. The design is to find out the law which governs it so that the variation for any time in the future, the same as the phases of the moon or the tides, can be predicted years in advance.

Captain Gilbert is somewhat afraid that the station here has been ruined by the number of electric wires strung about la all directions, the induction from which is limble to affect the delicate instruments used in his observations. What may has pen when the new power station at Orego City is completed and several thousa horse-power in the shape of electricity u der "high pressure" is being pumped into this city daily, it is difficult to conjecture But it may be that it will knock the com-pass silly, and cause the needle to poin straight up and down like a Hibernian

He has been connected with the coast and geodetic sur vey for about 20 years, and is quite wel known here, having been for some time employed on the survey of the Columbia For several years past he has been sta-tioned on Puget sound.
