The Gay Widow Anxious to Settle With Old Man Perry.

Jennie Crosby, who is confined in the county jail awaiting the action of the grand jury, on two charges, one of obtaining a fraudulent divorce and the other of robbing Wesley Perry, an old soldier, is endeavoring to enlist the sympathics of her victim in her behalf, so as to obtain her release. Jail life has no charms and Mrs. Crosby has awakened to the full realization of this fact. According to Perry's latest statement, he had, be-fore the beginning of his connection with Mrs. Crosby, $60, and now is penniless, Bosides the $280 he has charged Mrs. Crosby with stealing from him, he gave says, other amounts, making up total of $500. Much of this money he has since discovered she divided with Han-son, the man she is enamored of, and whom, Ferry says, she is anxious to marry, should they succeed in escaping the penitentiary on the charges now pend ing against them. What action Mrs. Crosby contemplates as to her husband and children she abanand at Port Orchard, when she came to Portland to secure a divorce, she has not stated since her arrest. Perry now ex-presses it as his opinion that the best thing for Mrs. Crosby to do is to go hack to her husband and family, and he is willing to call it square if Crosby will return to him half of the money he wasted on Mrs.

Perry alleges that he did not induce the leave her home, but that she iid so of her own accord, and then lured him to come to her, and, with the aid of plotted his financial disaster Perry expended his last $100 to effect the where poor children are most numerous, capture of Hanson and Mrs. Crosby when and are, without qualification, a public they eloped together to Tacoma.
