CORDRAY'S THEATER (Washington street) COREAN MERCHANTS HERE,-Chin Gee

Fook, Un Li Hung and Yung Chung Gun, ginseng merchants from Corea, were in the city yesterday. The object of their visit is a trifle mysterious. They called wisit is a trine mysterious. They called at the custom-house without an interpre-ter, and at the close of business had been unable to make signs which were under-stood by the officials. A Chinese inter-preter was turned loose on Li Hung, who is not related to the noted Mr. Chang, but "he might have been a Rooshlan, a Frank, a Prussian," etc., so far as making the Corean understand him was concerned. The Chinaman, however, made a perpendicular string of hieroglyphics on a paper, and the Corean came back at him with two strings. In this way it was learned that Digger," bore any resemblance to the "sang" sellers from far Cores, Amelia Rives could never have made him an interesting character.

LICENSE MONEY POURING IN.-Licence was poured into the city treasury yesterday in a pretty steady stream, and today probably nearly every one who intends to take out a license for this quarter will secure it, as if he waits till tomorrow will secure it, as if he waits till tomorrow there will be a 15 per cent penalty added, While restaurant men and Chinese grocers have taken out more $400 licenses for re-tailing liquors than was expected, the white grocers have not yet taken out any. It is known that they have serious intentions of contesting the new ordinance, and that they have an opinion from high legal authority to the effect that the provision of the ordinance requiring them to pay $400 per annum for a license to retail liquor can be successfully contested. They are informed that allowing druggists to sell liquors without license, while they are charged $490, is not equitable or just taxation, and that the ordinance can be de-fented on this ground. Whether the grocers will decide to pay license or to con-test the law will be known today, prob-ably. The only thing which will tend to prevent them from contesting the law is that such a contest will cost them more than a little, and it will take a long time to get the matter decided.

RECEPTION TO MR. WARDE.-On Thursday night, after the performance at the Marquam theater, Portland lodge, B. P. O. Eiks, will hold a social session at Eiks' hall, in honor of Actor Frederick a big time is promised. Mr. Warde is a favorite in this city, both socially and professionally, and the Elks, who are his professionally, and admirers, give him a reception every time he comes. The social for women, which was to have been vest and a revolver. A suspicious-looking a reception every time he comes. The social for women, which was to have been given by the Elks at Cordray's theater Friday afternoon, will not take place, on account of lack of sufficient time to make necessary preparations for it. This will be a disappointment, but it cannot be avoided.

CANNOT EXCHANGE Bramps.-Frequent applications are made at the postoff have stamps exchanged for those of other denominations. Postmaster Croasman wishes it stated that he is not allowed to exchange stamps of any kind for any one, and hopes that this notice will prevent people from taking the trouble to come to the office to make such requests. Orders have been received by Postmaster Croas-man to return to the department all Columbian postage stamps remaining unsold at this office. In accordance with this order Mr. Croasman has returned a number of $10 and $2 stamps, which were all of the Columbian stamps he had left, and he was glad to get rid of them.

HE REMOVED THE WOOD.—Henry West-erman, a ficaler in wood, was sent to fall for one day on the technical charge of larcony. It seems that during Westerman's absence, N. Coleman ordered a load of wood, and told the driver who delivered wood, and told the driver who delivered it that he would give Mr. Westerman credit on a note for the amount. Therein was the difficulty. It was alleged that Mr. Westerman owed a third party, from whom Mr. Coleman purchased the note. At any rate, that night Westerman took a team, went to Coleman's premises and re-moved the wood without permission.

EMULATED LUETGERT.-John W. B. Kerr will be tried in the municipal court to-morrow, charged with threatening to kill his wife Kate. This pair has been separated for some time, and for several weeks Mrs. Kerr has been sick at St. Vin-cent's hospital. She alleges that Kerr often threatened her life, and whenever opportunity offered would tell her that it was by no means uncommon for men to disposes themselves of undesirable wives by murder. He would, she said, cite ex-amples and tell her she would go by the sume route.

ELECTION TODAY .- The Portland Chamber of Commerce will elect its officers for the ensuing year this afternoon at 3:20. All members should be present and take an interest in the activities that the Cham-ber of Commerce is inaugurating for Portland's benefit. President Beebe has done very efficient work during his term, and was happily enabled to be instrumental in increasing Portland's commerce and attracting attention to this city as one of the chief ports of the world.

ANNUAL ELECTION.-The annual election of the board of directors and officers of the Merchants National bank was held last evening, resulting in the re-election of the same board, as follows: J. Frank Watson, R. L. Durham, James Steel, C. E. Smith, W. C. Johnson, George W. Hoyt, R. W. Hoyt. The officers are: J. Frank Watson, president; R. L. Durham, vice-president; R. W. During the six and one-half years that Mr. Taft has been with the club, he has never been absent from his post for more than one day at a time, and he will now take a much-needed rest before en-gaging in any new business. While Mr. Tatt has been connected with the club he has been brought into close personal con-tact with the most of the leading business men of the city, and has earned their good will and respect by close attention to, and thorough knowledge of, his duties, which have been discharged with intelli-gence and courtesy. His resignation is re-gretted most by those members of the club who have known him longest. Dr. TAYLOR SAW STARS .- At the afternoon session of the municipal court, Mathew C. Blasen, who keeps a saloon on Fourth and Morrison streets, was tried for allowing a cellar door to remain open, against the peace and dignity of the com-monwealth. Dr. R. C. Taylor testified that the conversation larged, and nothing further could be learned. The Coreans bear a strong personal resemblance to the Chinese, but do not shave their heads. One of the trio was giving the wind a chance at a set of whiskers which would have made him eligible to a front seat at a populist convention. It was shown that the door was left open only a few seconds, and Judge Hennessy dismissed the case, saying that it was negligence on the doctor's part in looking after the white horse. AN OLD MAN STRICKEN.-A distressing case of an aged man stricken with paraly-sis came to the attention of the police sis came to the attention of the police late last night. The victim was Joe Abernethy, living at Oak Point, according to letters on his person. For the past four or five weeks he has been about the city, but so far the officers are not able to locate his lodging-house. Immediately after coming out of the Palace restaurant the stroke deadened one side, and the old man fell through a show window next door. He was picked up and first removed to the station, and from there to the Good Samaritan hospital, by order of City Physician Wheeler. Abernethy seems to have some means and property, and the reason of his living alone here in the city is not apparent.

PROMOTED.—George L. Alexander, who for the past 15 months has been manager of the American Type Founders' Company in Portland, has been promoted to the position of manager of the San Francisco house, and leaves this evening for his new field. As a token of their esteem, the men who have been working under him here yesterday presented him with a golden matchsafe, suitably engraved. Mr. Alex-ander has won the good opinion of all with whom he has come in contact. His suc-cessor here is John S. Pinney, who has been employed by the same company in Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Paul.

CROWD AT CORDRAY'S.

"At Gay Coney Island" Continues to Fill the House.

The usual crowded house greeted "At Gay Coney Island" at Cordray's last night, and the salt atmosphere of the sea beach, the bathing girls, the songs, dances and jokes seemed to put the audience in the usual good humor. The farce comes to Portland with an entirely new com-pany this year, and consequently all the specialties and business are new. A livery advance sale indicates that the house will be filled all the rest of the week, including the Saturday matinee.

Charged With Larceny, On complaint of M. Matteson, a warrant was issued last week from Justice Vreeland's court for the arrest of John Sager, charging him with larceny. He was arrested yesterday, and the case will be heard this afternoon. The complaint alleges that he took a number of small articles, including a saw, wedges, sledges, axes and other tools. Several witnesses have been summoned. The parties live at Russellville. Matteson is quite a detective, and keeps things on the move in that neighborhood, and says that what he does not know of the doings of his neighbors is not worth finding out.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY'S PAMPHLET ON OREGON.

General Review of the State, Its Industries and Its Leading Cities and Towns.

When their beloved emperor of all the Russians recently began to oppress his Finnish subjects they became restive and threatened to seek out new homes in free

America.

C. H. Markham, general freight and pas-senger agent of the Southern Pacific Comsenger agent of the Southern Facinic Com-pany, concluded that it was a good time to try to secure some of these industrious people for the Willamette valley, so he issued a pamphlet in the Finnish lan-guage, describing Oregon, and had it ex-tensively circulated among them. Translated into English, the pamphlet reads as Oregon is situated on the Pacific coast, and is bounded by the states of Washing-ton on the north, Idaho on the east, Neton on the north, Idaho on the east, Nevada and California on the south and the Pacific ocean on the west. The coast is 300 miles long and mostly steep and rugged and full of bays and sloughs. Along the whole of this long coast line there are only three or four good harbors. The interior is a high plateau, which two mountain ranges divide into three distinct sections. The first of these sections runs north and south along the Pacific coast and is from 100 to 150 miles wide. The whole of this section is surrounded by the Cascade range of mountains. The two Cascade range of mountains. The two other sections are, topographically, far more irregular and are formed by the Blue mountains and a mountain chain called Kiamath, which, tending to the southwest, ultimately joins the Cascade mountains.

The land suitable for agricultural pur-poses is comparatively limited, but the meadows and pasture lands are extensive. The Ananas and pine tree forests are perhaps without their peers, Gold has been found in many places. Sliver, copper, iron and coal also exist. Large quantities or fruits are raised. Salmon fishing is profitable, and large quantities are canned and

The largest river is the Columbia, which in its windings forms three-fourths of the northern boundary, running west towards its mouth into the Pacific ocean. The most important city, and the largest in the Northwest, is Portland, on the banks of the Willamette river, 12 miles above its junction with the Columbia river. The second city is Astoria, at the mouth of the Columbia river. The capital city is Salem. tal city is Salem.

The most important export products are: Seeds, grain, flour, building lumber, beet and salmon, fruits, etc. The population in 1890 amounted to 313,767. Perhaps it will interest the reader to make a little closer acquaintance with some of the most important places.

The capital city is situated on the east bank of the Willamette river, 52 miles south of Portland. The city contains large leather and iron factories, also water-works, an electric light plant and electric street railways. The city has every prospect of a great and flourishing future. The surrounding country is, with its beautiful topography and great fertility, a veritable paradise. Those who, in Europe, from their husbandry have been accustomed to a meager and poor harvest, will observe that in that respect the returns here are exceedingly large.

Portland.

This is the commercial capital, and supplies the largest traffic carried by the railroads of the Pacific Northwest and compares favorably in that respect with San Francisco. The city is situated on the banks of the Willamette river, a short distance above its junction with the Co lumbia river. In the vicinity of the city commences the Willamette valley, which is the highway into the interior and extends east as far as the Cascade mountains. The best building lumber in the world grows here very extensively.

Gold and silver mines net millions year-ly, giving employment to thousands of miners. Millions of acres of tilled land, on which the grain, hops and the fruit tree bring barvests, the like of which is hardly to be found elsewhere. The exdingly productive fisheries already sufcity.

Portland Industries.

Portland is the industrial and trade center tributary to the Pacific Northwest railroads. Excellent transportation facilities, both by land and water, promote, in a large measure, the transportation and distribution of raw material and manufactures to the markets of the world. A plentiful supply of wood furnishes a cheap fuel, and pure drinking water is to be had in unlimited quantities. A great advantage to the industries of the city comes from the falls in the Williamette river, from which power is obtained to run a large number of factories. The fall supplies 70,000 horsepower throughout the year for the service of industry and even more at certain times of the year. The fall is never frozen, and 10.000 horsepower is consumed by the factories near it, and 12,000 is brought to Portland for the use of its factories, as well as its electric lights and street railways. The number of factories run by these falls is only exceeded by those of Niagara. No other city possesses like power with as plentiful a supply of raw material in its neighborhood and at the same time such handy transportation facilities connecting with the rest of the world. Among the numerous manufacturing es tablishments mention may be made of linen, cloth, iron, paper, leather, canning factories and several other branches of in-

Portland's Trade.

The Columbia river is the only freshwater harbor on the Pacific coast. Among the commercial harbons of the Pacino cean, San Francisco is the only one that ocean, San Francisco is the only one that compares with Fortland in commerce. One can travel on large ocean vessels from Portland along the Columbia far in-land. That portlon of the country not ac-cessible to the river is reached by wagon roads. All the produce that the Pacific Northwest railroads handle reaches the markets of the world best through Portmarkets of the world best through Port-iand, and for this reason Portland has every prospect in the future of being able to preserve her place among the foremost trading cities in this country. Portland's passenger ships go to Alaska, San Fran-cisco, Japan and China, and freight ships carry freight between here and Oriental countries and ocean ports. In addition, a whole fleet of smaller vessels cares for the trade between ports in the United the trade between ports in the United

Portland as a Home Land. Among Portland's most pleasing posses-tions are her home-like residences. The houses are constructed for the occupation of one family, and this custom is so universal that its equal is hardly to be found elsewhere. The houses are in all respects handsome, convenient, santiary and home-like. The city possesses a natural water supply, the purest that can be imagined. Over $3,000,000 was expended in bringing the water through immense pipes a distance of 30 miles, from a lake in the contraint. By the assistance of reserve a distance of 30 miles, from a take in the mountains. By the assistance of reservoirs and branch lines, an unlimited quantity of refreshing water is at all times to be had in every portion of the 15 square miles that approximately composes the area of this city. RAINBOW AT NIGHT. Phenomenon Witnessed Not Long Ago by Residents of Lane County. SPRINGFIELD, Or., Jan. 8 .- (To the Editor.)-I have failed to see in your paer an account of a rare phenomeno that occurred here recently, and which I called my daughter, Miss Jennie, out to witness also. We live here in Springfield. At 5 A. M. Friday, December 15, 1899, two hours before daylight, I saw a perfect rainbow to the east, the full moon being in the west and shining through a rift in the clouds upon the gentle rain that was falling here, while in the east there was a dense cloud, as black as ink. It was on this that the bow was formed—a perfect bow, reaching from the earth on the north to the earth on the south, of full size, perfectly white. It lacked the brilliant light of the sun to bring out the other colors. I have never seen nor heard of anything like it, but I don't doubt that the like has been. T. S. DEAN.
