Third Annual Convention Meets El Fort Worth.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 16,-The third annual convention of the National Live-stock Association of America began here today with a large attendance of delestock Ass gates. After an address of welcome, the annual address of the president was deliv-ered by Professor Springer. At the conclusion of the president's address, Sec-retary Martin read the annual report of the executive committee. The attendance is estimated at nearly 5000. Robert H. West, ex-president of the Cin-clurati Commercial Club, introduced a res-olution asking for a modification of the quarantine restrictions, and asked that a committee be appointed to lay the matter before the secretary of agriculture. This afternoon five-minute talks on the condi-tion of the livestock industry in the United States were made by delegates from 36 states and territories. The question of leasing arid lands will cause considerable favorable and adverse discussion. Those who oppose the project fear that the lands may get into politics if they are leased. The Chicago terminal charges on cattle shipments is not likely to cut as prominent a figure as last year, as the matter is in a fair way of satisfactory settlement. The executive committee this morning laid on the table a letter and resolution from Susan B. Anthony bearing on woman's suffrage.

A resolution was offered by T. W. Tomof Illinois, asking the convention to indone the senate bill to empower the interstate commerce commission to correct unjust discriminations of railroads, and to empower the commission to fix maximum and minimum rates. It was referred to a committee. Five-minute papers on the condition of livestock industry in the various states and territories were read by some 20 delegates.

All participants in the tragedy were in Bastrup in connection with a murder case in change of venue in Colorado county. J. W. Townsend is accused of having killed his uncle, ex-Sheriff Reese, about three years ago, at Coloumbus. A brother of ex-Sheriff Reese was also murdered a short time afterward. The case against Townsend for the killing of ex-Sheriff ese was being heard and more than 200 residents of Coluombus had come to attend ourt.

Shortly after court adjourned the shooting took place. Arthur Burford and Depity Sheriff Clements were walking along Main street and were fired on from a building, and fell to the sidewalk, unable to draw their weapons. The tragedy is another chapter in the worst feud ever known in Texas. The Townsends and Reeses 20 years ago both claimed ownership of an unbranded steer. Since then more than $100,000 has been spent in lawsuits and more than 200 men have lost their lives because of the steer.

China Mutual's Latest Ship Is One of the Finest Afloat.

'But few steamships which have visited Portland ever attracted more attention than the China Mutual Steam Navigation Company's Hyson. This was the first of the big steamers to load wheat at Portland, and so successful was her trip to Portland that her owners sent many vessels here afterward. The Hyson came here in command of Captain John Hogg, senior commander in the line, and on his arrival in England he was detailed to superintend the construction of two new steamers for the company. These ves-sels were the Ping Suey and the Yangtse, both 9000-ton steamers, but built under Captain Hogg's instructions on models which will admit of their loading here as easily as did the other steamers of the line. Before these big steamers were completed, the Hyson, which visited Port-land, was sold at a big figure, and the company at once commenced work on another steamer to take her place and bear her name. This steamer has just been completed, and is now en route from Liverpool to Japan, in command of Captain John Hogg. According to the Liver-pool Journal of Commerce, she is one of the finest cargo steamers that has ever left the port. She is 465 feet over all, 53 feet beam and 34 feet depth of hold, her net register being 4232 tons, and dead-weight carrying capacity 9200 tons, gross measured capacity 13,416 tons.

The Hyson is propelled by a single acrew, worked by a pair of ordinary in-verted triple expansion direct-acting engines. The cylinders measure 2514, 49 and 78 inches diameter, respectively, having a piston stroke of 60 inches, and working at a pressure of 190 pounds per square inch. A speed of 13.37 knots was made on the official trials on the Clyde. auxiliary engines comprise patent feed pumps, feed heaters, and feed filters: evaporators, condensing apparatus, and ballast and circulating pumps, and fan the boilers being provided with forced draught on the open stokehold principle. The engines are lubricated by patent lubricators. The funnel is a double one, the space between the inner and outer stacks serving to extract the hot air and gases from below. A means of escape from the shaft tunnel is provided by a 22-inch ventilator right aft commu nicating with the poop deck, and fitted with bar steps. Water ballast is carried in the cellular double bottom, which takes 1697 tons, including two side tanks under the boiler space for trimming purposes. The peaks are also fitted for water ballast. A deep tank capable of holding 985 tons of water is situate in No. 5 hold. The bunkering capacity is $9,010 cubic feet, the side bunkers accommodating 704 tons themselves up with the aid of bushes and bunches of grass, and reaching the rocks above, found several insurgents there. who fired on them, but were soon put to flight. Tompkins then took a position overlooking the entire rebel force, and ook them completely by surprise, as they evidently never supposed that the Americans could climb an almost vertial hill and flank them out of their posian illusion. tion. The company on the hill and the harpshooters on the knoll poured in a murderous fire, and at the same time March, with three companies below charged up the hill shooting and yelling The insurgents broke from behind the rocks and trenches and every other posi-tion and fied up the trail and into the thick underbrush, and the fight was over "Their force was not large, probably not over 200, but only 25 passed in retreat over the trail through Auguagui to Cer-vantes. The remainder were killed or younded or escaped into the brush. Pilar's body was found in the road, where his men had been compelled to abandon it. The bodies of six others, including a licutenant, were found, but this was only a small proportion of their loss, for a number were seen to fall from the rocks and mountain side into an inaccessible abyss below, and bloody trails led in every direction, showing where the dead and wounded had been carried into the brush. The American loss was two killed and nine wounded. "Part of the battle was fought in the clouds, as a heavy mist settled over the mountains, concealing the trail. The two American dead were buried where they fell, and the remainder of the column moved on in search of the hiding place of the Filipino refugee president."

AN OBJECT LESSON In a Restaurant. A physician puts the query: Have you never noticed in any large restaurant at lunch or dinner time the large number of hearty, vigorous old men at the tables; men whose ages run from 60 to 80 years many of them bald and all perhaps gray, but none of them feeble or senile? Perhaps the spectacle is so common as to have escaped your observation or comment, but nevertheless it is an object lesson, which means something. If you will notice what these hearty
