ENGLISH PARTRIDGES. Description of the Birds and n Pro

pount to Figraish Them. BYTON, Dorrington, Shrewsbury, Eng. Jan. 8.—(To the Editor.)—I see from The Oregonian that the sportsmen of the Valley have not yet been able to get the English partridges which they got up a purse for. I see that a certain gentleman says he can procure the birds in Saxony. But they are not the English partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all, if, as he considered the english partridges at all t says, they have red logs. From what I gather, they are the French bird, which is a very poor game bird, as it only rises once, should it be hunted for a day—the rest of the time using his legs.

The genuine English partridge is a gray bird, with brown legs, and is in every way a tip-top game bird, and would make a fine adjunct to our other Valley game birds. I have had large experience with the Eng-lish bird, and consider it the only one worth shipping to Oregon. Should the committee who have the purchasing of the birds like me to give them quotations for, may, 160 pairs, should be pleased to do so -would have them cruied and shipped so as to arrive in first-class condition. Should they want references, can give Hon. John Hunt, Clymer, Or.: Miss Jennie Griffith, of Denny pheasant fame, Clymer, Or.; Pro fessor Peebles, Weston, Or. Hoping I am not troubling you too much to kindly put this letter where the Portland gun club's bers can see it, I thank you in an-tion. W. F. BURCH.
