XVI. CHARLES SUMNER

BY JAMES ALBERT WOODBURN, PH. D. THESE ARE THOSE WHO BELIEVE THAT A NATION'S HISTORY IS INVOLVED IN THE LIVES OF ITS GREAT MEN.

down a historic barrier against slavery it at the same time placed the great antagonists, Freedom and Slavery, face to face and bade them grapple. He was denounced and buffeted and badgered in the senate as a fanatic, a traitor and a perturbed violator of his oath, on account of his public utterance against returning the fugitive slave.

Summer, the Scholar and Jurist.

Little need be said of Sumner's early life. Born in Boston, January 6, 1811, he became a graduate of Harvard in 1834. Like Maynor, he enjoyed early affluence and advantage, and succeeded in spite of them. In 1831 he entered the Harvard law school, where he studied under the renowned Judge Joseph Story.

Summer, the Free-Souler.

But of greater interest is Sumner the anti-slavery senator and moral reformer. The inspiration of Sumner's early public career is found in the cause of free soil. He became interested very early in the anti-slavery movement. He was a subscriber to the Liberator in its early years, and he was a friend of Garrison, Phillips and Channing.

Summer and the Fugitive Slave Law.

On November 6, 1850, in Faneuil hall, soon after the passage of the fugitive slave law of 1850, Sumner spoke on "Our Immediate Anti-Slavery Duties." This was a remarkable speech. He denounced the fugitive slave law and deliberately conceived resistance to it.

GOOD-BY, ROBERTS.

Peace Go With Him to His Labyrinth of Woes and Wives. REPUBLICAN, Wash., Jan. 27.—(To the Editor.)—After a play that was hardly a success from a dramatic standpoint, congress has found that Roberts is a polygamist. In reference to public opinion, Roberts is denied a seat in the hall.

ADVICE GRADIS TO SALAM.

FILIPINOS NOT WARLIKE

INTERVIEW WITH AN EX-MEMBER OF AGUINALDO'S CABINET. Future Peace of the Philippines Depends on Course Pursued by the Washington Government.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—One of the Western senators has just received a copy of the Manila tribune of December 10, in which is printed an extended interview with Senor Mabina, formerly a member of the cabinet of the late chief, Aguinaldo, and who, according to the paper, is considered to be one of the brains, diplomats among them.

THE PRO-BOER MEETING.

Here is a Correspondent Who Risks for information.

PORTLAND, Feb. 1.—(To the Editor.)—It was my good fortune to attend the pro-Boer meeting last Saturday night, and to be most highly edified and entertained by the satirical and eloquent speakers. Especially did the observations of the Hon. Judge O'Day strike me when he stated what a thorough American citizen he was, and that the United States, through its executive and legislative branches in Washington, D. C., should send some tangible expression of its sympathy with the Boers in the shape of resolutions of condolence.

INSPECTING COOS BAY.

Captain Harts Finds Improvements Progressing Well.

Harts, United States engineer, who has charge of government work on the coast of Oregon, having been invited to inspect the work on Coos bay, and the Coquille river, from which he has just returned. He took passage on the steamer Homer, which is running for the Astoria, and was four days on the trip. SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

An Equation of Right and Wrong to Battle the Most Ateate Casani.

PORTLAND, Jan. 11.—(To the Editor.)—A portion involving the immolation of a nation could not fail to elicit world-wide interest and criticism. The Transvaal and Natal are today the amphitheatrum round which the nations gather, awaiting the signal, "Habet!" from the victor's lips. And it is a certainty that the thumbs will be turned down when the victim lies prostrate. The merits of the case have been exhaustively discussed, and it is not my purpose to dwell upon them.

ANGLO-BOER WAR.

American History as a Source of Anti-British Feeling.

PORTLAND, Jan. 11.—(To the Editor.)—Many persons are saying a few words, without saying a great deal—both sides of the question—of the position of the South African war, and if you can spare space I would be glad to express my views on the subject. In the first place, this war would probably not have been so earnestly discussed in this country, had it not been for the attitude of our high officials and that of many papers published in the United States. It is not, however, the English language, which has had so much influence on our sentiment for white war with England, but rather the fact that we spoke this same language. Then, again, all Americans are not descendants of English people, and in this country have any reason to feel they owe sympathy or allegiance to Great Britain because of our language.

The heart is affected, the brain follows suit, and every part in the body is dragged into the trouble.
