"Her Husband's Title."

NORTH YAKIMA, Feb. 18.—(To the Edi-or.)—Being a physician, I should like to add my opinion to the query and answer under above heading in The Oregonian of the 15th. A title in all cases should be of worth and intrinsic value to the per-son possessing it, and should be protected and defended against usurpation. The title of "Dr." should apply only to the man or woman who has honestly earned it by long and persistent labor. I do not it by long and persistent labor. I do not believe in reflected honors, and I know of nothing that has so retarded the advancement of women physicians as the prevailing custom of calling the wife of a physician "Mrs. Dr." Many ladies have said to me: "Mrs. Adair, have you met Mrs. Dr. So and So?" (referring to the wife of some physician). This always brings the hot blood of resentment to the face of every woman physician blooms. Corn was inclined towards firmness, but finally encounted to the whent weakness. Trade generally was quiet. Country offerings were fair, but the shipping domain was pour. May closed after down, at $45,050 kg.

The trade in sale was small, and influenced most of the time by over. In view of the weakness about it, the market was remarkably steady. May closed a shade depressed, at Digo.

"The Man With the Hoe." PORTLAND, Feb. 22.-(To the Editor.)-Like your correspondent, Georgie Curts, I find it "hard to understand why this poem has created such widespread aninosity," but I also wonder why this ani-nosity has all been directed at the poet, and has spared the painter whose work mostly has all been directed at the poet, and has spared the painter whose work inspired the poem. The fact that the picture, "The Man With the Hoe," stands behind the poem, seems wholly lost sight times reply, "Oh, you mean the Doctor's wife?" or "I did not know there was a lady physician of that name." My husband and myself frequently receive letters addressed "Colonel and Mrs. Adair," and I am sometimes addressed as "Mrs. Colonel Adair." My reply is always, "I am not a colonel, but I am a doctor." And now, since the time has come when many women have justly earned the title of "Dr." permit me to enter my protest against the common fashion of addressing the wife of an M. D. ag "Mrs. Dr. ..."

L. P. Lathrop, Chicago L. Lathrop, Chica the description in the poem fit him, then is he aggrieved; but if there are any such they are not likely to read the poem.

One other point. Where in this poem is expressed any scorn or contempt for labor or the laborer? Even in that much-quoted phrase. "A brother to the ox." I see only a profound and sorrowful pity. The scorn, the reproach is directed at those who have "shaped him to the thing he is." not alone a laborer, but one without the power or wish to rise in any way, and it is to them the warning is also given.

Leasing Range Lands. ENTERPRISE, Or., Feb. 20.—(To the Editor.)—Is it, or is it not, a fact that the Secretary of Agriculture or the Secretary of the Interior, or both, are in favor of leasing the public grazing lands west of the 20th meridian? GEORGE S. CRAIG.

They are understood to favor leasing with many qualifications, as to rates, areas, terms, etc. It is not understood that they favor indiscriminate leasing of vast areas of grazing land on terms that would shut out settlers.
