d Jary Sworn In-Large Nam ber of Jury Cases Set for an Early Hearing.

The March term of the State Circuit Court opened yesterday with a large at-tendance of allorneys. Judge George and District Attorney Sewall decided that a grand jury is not required at this time, and none was impaneled. The trial jury will be kept busy until March M, as cases have been sot for trial in rapid succession until that date. The idea is to get through with the jury as soon as possible Jurors Excused. Jurors were excused for the term as follows: E. V. Gottfried, J. S. Bradley, Clinton Bonzer, A. W. Ocobock, H. C. Breeden, Felix W. Isherwood, A. J. Dy-gert, Fabian Byerly, J. M. Merchant, J. N. Bristol, Paul Wessinger, J. J. Rob-Aaron Fox. Henry Jasper, Edward Hughes. Jurors who have not served were H. G. Morgan and L. M. Spiegi, both of whom are out of the city. Cases Set for Trial.

Under the new court rules, Judge France sets all of the law and criminal cases for trial this term, and the following have been set:

These cases will be tried severally in departments Nos. 1, 2 and 4, and the new plan is to keep all three courts going all of the time until the trials are all concluded. By the new arrangement, Judge George will sit in law as well as criminal cases, which he has been doing for some little time past. Judge Cleland will try all of the equity suits while the other courts are engaged with jury trials, and when the latter is finished he will dis-tribute any remaining equity suits with the other judges, and in this manner the

Demonstration of La Vida Corsets

By MISS PAULINE KEPPLER Of NEW YORK

There was a time when the French corset found favor in the eyes of the American woman of fashion, but that time has gone, and American skill has triumphed. It had to be. The French corset was not and is not adapted to the American figure. Nine out of every ten pairs of the best imported gored corsets sold in this city have to be altered, a fact which speaks for itself.

The symmetry of the figure and the fit of the gown depend upon the corset you wear. La Vida Corsets are constructed to fit the American figure, and are absolutely perfect in every way.

Our latest-model straight-front Corset stands unrivalled as a masterpiece in the Corset world.

CRITICISES THE GAME LAWS

One Man Who Wants "Birds" During the Close Season.

The Oregonian is in receipt of a communication from an old subscriber, a man who likes good things at his table the year around, criticising the law which prevents dealers from selling game caught or killed in other states during Oregon's close season. He says:
"Fish and gamedealers and hotel and restaurant men. as well, complain bitterly of the game laws in force here. It is not so much the law forbidding the shoot-ing of game or the catching of trout, etc., that they complain of as the fact that they are not allowed to handle any game or trout killed in another state. This, they trout killed in another state. This, they say, is unreasonable and unjust, and injurious to the dealers in game and fish and also to the cold-storage business, and also to the cold-storage business. receives price lists of game, trout, etc., from dealers in Chicago, Minneapolis St. Poul and other places, who would supply them with trout, quall, partridges, ducks them with trout, quall, partridges, ducks of all kinds, snipe, plover, etc. They, however, cannot handle these articles, and people who desire them and are able and willing to pay for them cannot have them Just what good end is served by prevent-ing game which is in cold storage in St. Paul or elsewhere being chipped here, it is difficult to imagine. It is also difficult to see the justice of a law which forbids fish or game which has been inwfully ac-quired in the proper season and placed in old storage being sold during the close season. The game laws of Oregon as they stand on the books now and as they have been for years are considered by dealers a sad commentary on the intelligence of the legislators and courts of the state." With reference to this communication, State Game and Forestry Warden Quimby says that the law does work some injustice from the standpoint of the dealers and restaurant men, but, looking at the matter from the side of preservation of our wild animals and birds, it does not. Mr. Quimby states that the laws of ninetenths of the states and also of Canada are similar to Oregon in this particular, and if they were not, the game of the country would be killed off in a very short time, as it is impossible, after the animal in the market, to tell whether it was killed in this state or imported. It is be-cause of this great chance of imposition

Activity at the New Penneyer Mill-More Wharf Room.

At the Pennoyer mill a force of men to actively engaged in preparing the plant for business. The old round tower which formerly belonged to the City Waterworks has been razed to the level of the dock, with the aid of giant powder, and plies are being driven for an L-shaped wharf to extend 164 feet further out into the river, where deep-water vessels may load with lumber. A second piledriver is being fitted up to work on the land, and this will drive piling to support the new rail-road switch 1100 feet long, to connect the mill with the Southern Pacific near the roundhouse, foot of Harrison street, Piles will have to be driven through a bed of old sawdust some 20 feet deep, in order to provide solld support for ties and rails. The ties are to be sawed at the mill, and this will probably be the first work d by the plant after its long period of idle-

More dock room will be needed by the new regime, and so a tract of land lying west of the mill has been leased from the railroad company for a period of five years. Plies are to be driven in the tract out planking will support the output of the mill.

WISCONSIN LUMBERMEN TO ESTAB-LISH SAWMILLS.

Do Not Appreciate Wealth

A party of prominent lumbermen from Ashland, Wis., registered at the Imperial yesterday. They are C. N. Cramet, D. D. Kennedy, George H. MoCloud, S. H. Hanna, and James McCully. Their business in Oregon is to purchase timber lands, erect sawmills, and ship lumber East by rail, and by the ocean. In conversation yesterday they said the timber versation yesterday they said the timber versation yesterday they said the timber supply of the East is within five years of utter depletion, and so Oregon and Washington must now be drawn on. There is considerable timber in the South, they said, but it is scattered and remote. Out here they are finding vast forests of, huge trees, but belts of timber convenient to railroads or water courses are very scarce. Parties intending to turn trees into lumber must therefore prepare to build railroads also.

"If we should get the Nicaragua Canal through," one of the gentlemen said, "we could land lumber in New York as cheaply as can be done now from the Great Lakes bordering Wisconstn and Michigan, but we cannot ship that far East until this canal is finished. Railroads cannot be expected to move lumber as cheaply as it can be done by water, as such freight is heavy as well as bulky. We have no doubt, however, that we can ship to Mississippi River points and that the railroads terminating in Portland will give us the best terms they can." In regard to the present supply of tim-ber in Oregon this man thought 25 years would see it become very scarce here even at the present rate of consumption In the meantime, timber lands will be come high and timber will advance. "I wonder that you people out here have not realized this before, and taken steps to obtain a goodly share of these forests for yourselves," he said. "That you have no done so, shows that you have failed to realize the changes being made in the The party will make its headquarters in Portland for several days.

BEAUTIFUL NEEDLINORK. Embroidery Which a Portland Woman Will Send to World's Fair. Hundreds of people visited Miss Oberg's ome yesterday to see the linen embroidcred banquet set that she has just fin-ished for the Paris Exposition. And the odd thing about it was that there were almost as many mendas women among the visitors. The air was filled with exclamations of surprise and delight over the great beauty of the work. The centerpiece is 44 inches square, of the finest white linen that is made by the loom. It was obtained in Berlin, Germany, whither also Miss Oberg obtained the various grades of linen and cotton thread she used, as these are not manufactured in this country of sufficient fineness to answer her purpose. No. 5000 was needed for the shadow markings on the faces, a for its for the shadow markings on the faces, a for its simple, homely speeches. The number that most art needle-workers have change of 20 years was accomplished well. never even heard of.

There are eight raised medallions on this center-piece, the four in the corners containing pictures of Washington, La Fay-ette, Abraham Lincoln, and McKinley, while between these were Dewey, General Miles, Admiral Sampson and the Confederate General Lee, of the Civil War. The corner medallions are seven inches in di-ameter, and the others four inches. They are marvellously perfect portraits, quite qual, and in many cases superior to the pictures commonly found of these famous eroes. The intertwining border of grape eaves and fruit clambers over three seveninch bars, on which sit beautifully formed cupids, with hands outstretched toward outterflies. The whole design is one of marvelous grace and beauty. The faces were drawn by a Norwegian artist, Oscar Wallzin, who happened to be passing through Portland at the time Miss Oberg was planning her work. All the rest of the design is by Miss Oberg herself. The dollies are 12 in number, round in shape, fringed and scalloped, each being nine inches in diameter. The same design is reproduced on them, the portraits being smaller in size, of course, namely, only two inches in diameter. When one considers the fact that not one stitch taken in the face of one of these portraits could be taken out without leaving a trace behind it to mar the perfect beauty of the effect, the difficulties that the artist had to contend with will be understood. Every stitch had to be planned with nicest care. The work as a whole is sure to attract universal atten-tion from art-lovers, not only for its in-trinsic merit, but theo because it is the only specimen of its kind that is known to having originated in the fertile brain of Kristine Oberg.

"Rip" is played very acceptably by Charles W. King, who has the very dis-creet actor sense to enact the role just as well as he can and not strive travagant flights. Mr. King did his bit of pathos with good effect, and throughout, his performance was even smooth. He makes the play worth seeing Miss Adams, Miss Cooper and Eddie Holland raise the curtain, with special-ties. It would seem as if these numbers could be sandwiched in the four acts with just as good effect instead of coming first. M'ss Adams, whose deep contralto voice has many admirers, rendered "Der Was-serfall" and "The Miller's Song," earning an encore. The spirited Georgie Cooper, her pleasing smiles, obliged with from other portions of the ward.
