NO NEW EVIDENCE FOUND

NOT A REASONABLE DOUBT OF GUILT OF GEORGE WEBSTER.

So Conclude Judge Prather and Pros. ecutor Moore, Who Notify Gov. ernor Rogers Accordingly.

SPOKANE, March 28.-Superior Judge Prather and County Attorney Moore toany completed one of the most remarka-ble quasi-judicial proceedings in the his-tory of this country. Webster, condemned for the murder of Mrs. Aspland three years ago, was to be executed here Friday. His attorneys claimed the discovery of new evidence, and Governor Rogers referred to these officials the duty of hearing it. The inquiry took on many of the features of a regular trial. It was completed this afternoon, and the officials telegraphed Governor Rogers that noth-ing new had been developed that would raise a reasonable doubt as to the identity of the man who fired the fatal shot. Webster's attorneys declared that they considered the hearing a judicial pro-ceeding and would appeal to the Supreme Court, but Judge Prather said no appeal could lie. There is scarcely a doubt that Webster will be hanged Friday.

No Respite Granted.

OLYMPIA, March 28.-In reference to the statement in the morning papers that the hearing in the Webster case would be prolonged after Friday, in order to se-cure a respite from Governor Rogers, the Governor today stated that, as far as he was concerned, he had made a final disposition of the case when he turned the alleged new evidence over to Judges Pra-ther and Moore for examination. Unless their findings show that some other person might possibly have fired the fatal shot, Webster will be executed at the appointed time, Friday, March 30.

He admits that the gun was in his hands, but says the shot was accidental. A small boy was the only other occupant of the

AN ESSAY ON "GODSMITHS."

Their Low Conception of Duty and of His Moral Government. VANCOUVER, Wash., March 26.-(To the Editor.)-Your editorial remarks in The Oregonian of the 15th inst., relative to Lord Roberts' dispatch to the Queen, contain a great deal of truth done up in a small package.

The tendency of modern nations to thank God for victory in battle, and to make great demonstrations of joy, feasting and prayer, is but a survival of the beliefs and customs of the ancient pagan peoples who made war at the command of their gods and sacrificed, perhaps, hu-man victims to celebrate victory or ap-pease the anger of the gods in case of de-

Truly "Godsmiths are the most nu-merous class of mechanicians known among men," for every man has his God-or conception of God, and this is why. perhaps, that all attempts to enforce stated beliefs have resulted in confusion. "No nation or individual has ever risen above their conception of God." The Israelitish nation under Moses and other leaders and prophets, believed in a God with all common attributes of humanity.

with all common attributes of humanity; anger, jealousy, etc., a God to be appeased by bloody sacrifices and imposing cere-monies. And what a record of blood they monies. And what a record of blood they left behind them! We find them thanking God for victory over the heathen, much as we do in these modern times. True we no longer offer burnt sacrifices to an angry or jealous God, nor, in taking "promised lands" do we "utterly desiroy all that breathe"; still wars go on at the command of modern "profits," and civilization and the right to private belief are zation and the right to private belief are being carried forward to the ends of the earth.

We speak of our war with Spain as a holy war, and our present duties in the Philippines as specially placed upon us by God, and we certainly have abundant rea-son for thanks and to pray for strength to carry out our obligations justly; yet to accept the same price as a man who Spain entered that war with God's special blessing, bestowed by the Pope upon her arms, and would, no doubt, have thanked God for victory more fervently than we have. From the same Bible and a belief in the same God, the Boer justifies his holding of slaves and concubines, and the Briton justifies his extension of empire and the hammering of modern ideas of justice and equality into the thick skulls of the Boers.

It has been said that since the birth of the Prince of Peace, over 2,000,000,000 of men have lost their lives on the field of battle. Of this vast number a goodly portion have been sacrificed by the differ-ences of men's conception of his message and a tendency to force the other fellow to believe as I do.

"There is a destiny that shapes our ends, rough hew them as we will"; and, in the continued evolution and development of the race, men may arrive at a sufficient knowledge of the divine purpose to cease killing each other and then celebrating the event by prayers and thankogiving in His name.

By the way, here is a nut for some theo-logian to crack, and one which I have never heard hammered in the pulpit, or mentioned in Sunday school. What re-lation is the Lord of the children of Israel to the one we are commanded to worship? Is the Lord who sent lying spirits stir up strife, and who commanded to siay innocent women and children-di-recting the bloody murders of that period -one with the Lord who "died" on Calvary, and whose message was peace on earth and good will to men?

One might, with propriety give thanks to the God of Moses for the slaughter of his enemy, but not to the gentle Christ who said "forgive your enemy," and even on the cross forgave the ignorant mob who were taking his human life.

There were bills and vouchers among his papers which footed up $300,000, but this by no means accounted for all his treasures. Unique among the 3787 lots in the catalogue is a green morocco case which con-tains the original title deeds of the house in Pall Mail which the Merry Monarch gave to Nell Gwyn. There are five parch-ment documents, and one bears the great seal of England in wax. Three times on the parchment appears Nell Gwyn's signa-ture. Mr. Daly paid $3800 for these deeds. Another treasure is the original manu-script of the "School for Scandal," in Sheridan's handwriting, with the note submitting it to the Lord Chamberlain, May 7, 1777. Mr. Daly bought this for about

PRO RATA DIVISION FOUND TO BE IMPRACTICABLE.

Mortgagees Raise Objections, and Blue Mold Also Makes Trouble for the Original Scheme.

GERVAIS, Or., March 28.—The directors of the Oregon Hopgrowers' Association have decided to make a radical and very important change in the plan of dividing the proceeds of the sales of association hops. According to a circular letter that has been received by hopgrowers who turned their hops into the pool, it has been found impracticable to divide the proceeds pro rata, and it is now proposed to pay each member of the association the net proceeds of his hops as soon as they are sold. Under the original plan, which has been in force until now, the hops turned over to the association were classified and the owners of hops in each class were to receive the proceeds of the sales of that class of hops, in proportion to the quan-tity of hops each man owned. Each man who put his hops into the pool signed an agreement that the division should be made in that manner. Although the association has been selling hops for several months, no division of proceeds has been made, and growers have become dissatisfied.

According to the circular letter receive today, there are several reasons for the change in the plan. It is stated that growers want their money as soon as their hops are sold, and that men who hold mortgages upon the hops are unwilling to consent to the pro rata arrangement. It is also stated in the letter that the blue mold which has appeared makes it im-possible to sell hops as of the class under which they were listed when received. This being the case, it appears that if the old plan were adhered to a grower who to accept the same price as a man who turned in hops that were apparently first class but are now moldy and of little value

Each circular letter is accompanied with an agreement which growers are asked to sign, thereby consenting to the new arrangement. How the new plan will be received by those whose hops have become moldy since being turned over to the asso ciation, is a question.

PATENTS FOR INDIAN LANDS. Have Been Issued to Allottees on Umntilla Reservation.

PENDLETON, Or., March 28.-Major Charles Wilkins, Indian Agent at the Umatilla reservation here, has received notification from Indian Commissioner Jones, of Washington, that patents have been issued to all allottees on the Uma-tilia reservation, and that these patents have been mailed to his address. The number of patents which have been sent is about 850, that being the number of allotments made to the members of the tribes on the reservation, the Walla Wallas, the Umatillas and the Cayuses, in

It is not understood here just what is the meaning of Commissioner Jones' let-ter, nor what will be the exact status of these allotted lands upon the receipt of these patents, inasmuch as the allotments were made under a law providing that the Government would hold the lands in trust for a period of 25 years from the year 1891, there being 16 years remaining under that provision of the law. It is not known at the present time whether these patents are a transfer in full of title from the Government to the Indians or merely what might be called preliminary patents, evidencing the allotment and the prospective title which the allottee has in the land he holds.

The Indians have been notified that their patents are en route from Washington. They will refuse at the present time to accept them, or at any rate, have indi-cated a desire to wait before receiving the instruments. Their reason for hesitating in the matter is that they desire to escape taxation. They fear that if they accept the patents they will at once be compelled to go upon the assessment roll, and to pay annually their share of the public burden of taxation.

It is a matter of some importance to the people of this county, since the allotments aggregate no less than 80,000 than $2000 a quarter, making the total valuation of the property thus added to the taxable list $1,000,000.

On other reservations in similar in-stances the Indians have refused to accept the patents, and, persisting in their course, have apparently been upheld by the Government. This is notable on the Warm Springs reservation, where, several years ago, patents were offered and refused by the Indians, and have not, up to this time, been accepted.

According to a telegram received from Indian Commissioner Jones by Agent Wilkins, all the junketing to Washington engaged in by Indian chieftains and legal representatives who accompanied them are of no avail. Judging from the com-missioner's telegram, the big men of the tribes will return from the National capital with no fruits resulting from their missions. Paul Show-a-way and Peo have been in Washington for some weeks, and ng Chief and No Shirt were app ed at a later pow-wow to proceed thither and interview the great father on subjects pertaining to reservation matters.

At the meeting when Young Chief and No Shirt were appointed ambassadors to Washington from the royal courts of the tribes here, Agent Wilkins was also re-quested by the Indians to accompany them. Being doubtful of the propriety of this step and desirous of following carefully the wishes of the department, Mafor Wilkins telegraphed to Washington for instructions in the premises. The Commissioner replied tersely, but pointed-

"Wish no delegations to visit Washington from Indian agencies. Let grievances be submitted in letter through proper channels, and prompt attention will be paid them." This settles the matter, and Agent Wil-kins and the two chiefs who were to go with him have given up the trip.

LIVESTOCK BUYER QUITS. Says He's Out of the Market-Prices Asked Are Too High.

Pendleton East Oregonian. S. Knox, who represents the Swift Packing Company's interests in this section, departed this morning for

"I am called in," said Mr. Knox, "with instructions to attempt no more buying in the West during the present season.

Only radical changes and unlooked for conditions will bring any of our buyers into this field prior to the fall." Mr. Knox was asked why he was or-dered to report at the home office. Simply because every grower of livestock in this country has such high ideas as to prices that we cannot do business with them. They mean prices which are with them. They mean prices which are not consistent with the market conditions present and prospective. The livestock raiser, like the wheatgrower, in this region, has apparently decided to combine the business of producing with that of speculating. The two vocations are entirely separate. The experience of the wheatraiser during the past two years has demonstrated that holding for higher prices is unprofitable. There is no exercprices is unprofitable. There is no essential difference between the livestock and grain markets so far as concerns the element of speculation. It is an adage in the East and Middle West that selling at close of the harvest is more profitable than to hold. This would be wise for the stockman, also.

PARMERS GETTING OUT OF THE RUT Creameries, Livestock and Poultry

Taking Place of Wheat and Hops. INDEPENDENCE, Or., March 21.-A acres of arid land lie under the ditch, farming community of Polk County in the last few months-greater than in five years before. The low prices for the large crops raised in this part of the country last year, such as wheat and hops, set th farmers to thinking, and now, instead of putting in great fields of wheat, tame grasses are being sown and taking the place of the large wheat fields. Many hopyards have been plowed up and planted to other crops, principally potatoes, as the bottom land is better adapted to this crop than the upland is. Many of the farmers about this city have already begun to pre-pare for keeping cows and supplying the creamery at this place with milk, and to do this several hundred extra cows will be brought to this vicinity. Plans are under way to bring about 100 head of fine Jersey cows from the Tillamook country for this purpose. Besides this, the farmers are providing themselves with a few head of cattle that will do to turn off for beef, and sheep, goats and hogs are claiming a great deal of attention. The chicken es has also taken the attention of a great many in this vicinity.
