SATURDAY, APRIL

Date for Republican Primaries

CONVENTION CALLED FOR APRIL 9

There Will Be 128 Delegates, of Whom 104 Will Come From the City-Election Judges.

The Multnomah County and City Republican convention will be held Monday, April 8, at A. O. U. W. Hall. Primaries will be held Saturday, April 7.

At a meeting of the County and City Committees held last night, every member was present, Chairman Donald Mackay presiding. Basis of representa-tion was fixed at one delegate-at-large each ward, one for every 100 votes cast for Governor in 1898, and one for every fraction over 50. The convention will number 128 delegates, of whom 104 will come from the city and 24 from the county. By wards, the representation will

Good Speakers. The Fouth Ward Registered Republican Club held its third regular meeting last night at the headquarters, on Fourth street. The hall was crowded to overflowing, many being unable to get in the building, and the sudience was intensely enthusiastic, interrupting the speakers with applause after nearly every sen-tence. Sixty names were added to the roll, making a total of over 400 members. The talks were all interesting, and the music and vaudeville numbers the kind that would please the most fastidious. The first speaker introduced was City Attorney J. M. Long, who confined his remarks to the subject of expansion. He took up all the phases of the question, however, and spoke of them in an exhaustive manner. He extolled the glorious work of the Second Course. ous work of the Second Oregon Regiment, and declared that the Stars and Stripes would never be pulled down in the Philippine Islands while the American people tical suggestion as to how that can be completed. Pride of Portlanders, in their beautiful city and the grand mountain Boston Lyrics Present the Bright Opera, "Faust."

Comedy was rift and ran rampant at Cordray's Theater last night, when the ston Lyric Opera Company sang the catchy numbers of "La Mascotte," and the comedians cracked jokes new and old, and perpetrated purs that were ex-cusable because they were execrable and uttered at the same time with impunity. Josephine Stanton, as Bettina, the turkey girl, was charming even in her rags of the first act, and sang the pretty songs and duets in her usual brilliant style. Her "Gobble" duet with Pippo was the best work of the evening, and well deserved the spontaneous recall. Maude Leekley. as Flametto, filled her role to perfection. All she had to do was to look pretty Henry Hallam, as Pippo, the shepherd, sang in his most cheery mood, and sang well, and Frank Maslin and Alex Joel sang acceptably. The funmakers John Henderson as the grotesque old Prince Lorenzo, and George Kunkel as Rocco, his lord chamberlain, made the most of the ludicrous situations in the opera. The dialogue hits were brought down to date, puns atrocious, and the make-up most riditulous. These two fellows are a whirlwind of fun. The chorus attracted attention not only for their usual good singing, but the spec-tacular portion lent an added charm. Pretfor the connecting links.

Behavior of the Thirty-fifth,

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 4.—(To the Editor.)

—I ask space to correct an error which appeared in The Oregonian last November, concerning the conduct of the Thirty-fifth United States Volunteers during their sejourn in Honolulu. The depredations committed by the soldiers were not by the Thirty-fifth, but by soldiers of other regiments, whom I will not mention. The writer witnessed such acts as were de-scribed by your paper, and committed by these other soldiers. One of the Hono-lulu papers was loud in praise of the Thirty-fifth, and the citizens accorded with them in praise. When we slowly steamed out the harbor, it was to the strains of music furnished by the famous Honolulu band, an honor rarely ever oc-curring to any regiment on its way to these islands. E. M. MERRELL, Company F, Thirty-fifth Infantry.

Minnesota Man Prophestes a Lively Market.

S. R. Wentworth, a prominent lumber-man, of Duluth, Minn., who has been in Oregon for the past month, looking over the timber resources of the state, returned from Klamath County yesterday. He is much impressed with the magnitude of the timber belt lying along the line of the proposed railroad between Klamathon, Cal., and Klamath Falls, Or., but considers it too remote from market for con-venient shipping, as there are, he says, doubts about the railroad being built very "I find large quantities of timber for sale in Oregon," he said, at the St. Charles yesterday, "and much of it is offered at very reasonable prices; but purchases must be made slowly, as it takes time personally to inspect each quarter offered for sale, especially where the land is remote from railroads or navigable streams.

"There is a world of fine timber in Oregon, and quarter-sections carrying $,000,000 feet are by no means uncommon. Just think of the timber on a whole township, each quarter-section of which carries $,000,000 feet. This would make $2,000,000 feet to the section, and 1,152,000,000 feet on a township. These figures are enough to stagger a man used to the sparse forests and smaller trees of the East.

ests and smaller trees of the East.
"There will be a market for it all, however, as the timber of Michigan and Wisconsin is nearly all gone, and even now the cities of Duluth and Superior are be-ing built largely of your Oregon fir." Mr. Wentworth thinks the extreme East must shortly look to the Pacific Coast for its lumber, as the Atlantic forests have about given out, as well as those of the Mississippi Valley states, and New York and Boston, which have been getting lumber by the Lake route, will shortly be shipping Oregon lumber all the way by rail. The long haul of the heavy fir, he shipping Oregon lumber all the way by rail. The long haul of the heavy fir, he realizes, is a problem, to be solved by the railroad companies, but the increasing demand will find a way to overcome this. "If we have the Nicaragua Canal, the cities of the Atalantic seaboard would be our best customers, as lumber could be loaded on deep-water vessels right here in Portland, and the cost of transporta-tion via the canal would not be great. tion via the canal would not be great.
"I expect to see a large number of Eastern lumbermen interested in Oregon fir within a short time, and this condition will be followed by the erection of modern sawmills in many portions of the yet unbroken forest. Mr. Wentworth will re-

Score of Sturdy Young German

Seeking Webfoot Homes.

A party of 20 newcomers from Pennsylvania registered at the St. Charles last evening. The members are mostly young men, and some of them have considerable means, while others are open for the first work that offers. They are out here under the auspices of A. C. Mowrey, a timber dealer, of Stella, Wash., who is from the same portion of Pennsylvania (Schuylkili County) himself. The newcomers pride themselves on being of Pennsylvania Ger-man stock, and although their ancestors for the past four generations have been American born, the Teutonic accent is strong enough in their language to enable them to pass for recent arrivals from Germany. In fact, most of them speak very poor English, giving as an excuse for this that their schools in Schuylkill County are very poor and taught by young people who have grown up in their own locality. They propose to ecatter out in Oregon and Washington, however, and expect to im-prove their English and pass for the native-born Americans they are in the near future. If they like it out here they will be the means of bringing many more of their neighbors to the Coast.

They ay wages are poor in Pennsylvania and they find that the 12-year-old boy of their number can earn more money out here than a grown man can back on the

The Straight Republican Club, of the Ninth Ward, held a largely attended meet-ing last evening at the Justice Courtroom on East Morrison street. For most of the evening there was standing room only. A. W. Lambert presided at this meeting. Lively music was supplied by the Usona quartet, made up of local singers, and they were heartily encored. W. Stapleton, formerly of Vancouver, delivered the opening address of the evening, and spoke with much force for nearly an hour, main-ly on expansion and the commercial progress of the Northwest. Mr. Stapleton also referred to the Puerto Rican tariff as proposed, and said that it was wrong in prin-ciple and should not be enacted. He con-sidered that this island has become a part of the United States, and that as such its people are entitled to free intercourse with this courkry. The speaker intimated that the enactment of a tariff would oper-ate as a death blow to real expansion, and that it were better at once to declare the island independent than to undertake to enact this tariff. The closing portion of Mr. Stapleton's address was devoted to a discussion of trusts. After music by the Usona quartet, Robert Bell was introduced, and he made a vigorous talk. In the course of the evening there were other addresses interspersed with music.
