RIVER AND HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.—H.
W. Taylor, who has the contract for repairing the north side of the lower entrance to the Cascade locks, is making good progress, and will have the job completed in another week, unless high water interferes. Captain Harts, United States Engineers, has had a greater slope given to the revetment, and the stone above the water line, as well as bezow, laid in mortar, and is confident that it will now stand, as a very good job is being done on the work. There is much repairing to be done to the revetment on the south side, which was also injured by the great flood of 1894, and this will also be made more sloping and durable. Captain Harts receives favorable reports in regard to the progress of the various improvements along the weast of the state, which have been favored by fine weather of late, except at Tillamook Boy. Dry Stocking Bar, at this place, instead of being a deposit of sand and gravel, as has always been supposed, is found to be formed by a deposit of brush and drift, covered with sand. A channel is to be dredged through this, and when the dikes being constructed are finished and this channel dredged this, and when the dikes being constructed are finished and this channel dredged through, there will be no more heard of Dry Stocking Bar.

SIXTH WARD REPUBLICANS.-Bixth Ward Republicans meet this evening for the purpose of selecting the primary ticket of the ward to the county convention. This important work is expected to draw to the meeting the full Republican strength of the ward. The management of the club especially invites every qualified member of the party to be present to see that such delegates shall be selected as shall command the confidence of the voters at the primaries. Aside from the more important work there will be a rousing meeting, that will take on the form of a party rally. A programme of more than ordinary interest is being prepared, which will include well-known speakers, and such ex-cellent music as the club bears the reputa-tion of furnishing. As Colonel Bryan has been here and laid down the National party lesues, several local speakers will party issues, several local speakers win have opportunity to challenge his argu-ments. The meeting will be held in the club's headquarters, at the corner of First and Sheridan streets, commencing at the HISTORIC GAVELS .- General O. Summers has received from ex-Lieutenant G. N. Wolfe, now at Manila, two gavels that have an unusual history. They were made of wood, constituting the familiar gar-roting machine found in the Presidio de Manila, or penitentiary, when the Ameri-can forces took charge of the city, in 1898. The wood is the heavy hardwood charac-teristic of the Islands. On the handle teristic of the Islands. On the handle Filipinos have engraved the name of General Summers, with date and place, and the whole has been neatly varnished. The gavels form valuable souvenirs, without reference to their historic connections, which makes them priceless to the possessor. General Summers will present one to Columbia Lodge of Masons, of which he is a member, and which gave him one of the most royal receptions of the city of the most royal receptions of the city upon his return from the Philippines.

PROSPERITY SHOWN BY 'PHONES, Speaking of the improvement in business conditions in the Northwest, J. H. Thatcher, ditions in the Northwest, J. H. Thatcher, superintendent of the Oregon Telephone & Telegraph Company, asserts that it has come under his observation at various times during the past 15 years that the use of the telephone was a true barometer of the state of business. This being true, he argues that present business conditions in the Northwest must be of the very best and constantly improving as shown by in the Northwest must be of the very best and constantly improving, as shown by the large increase in subscribers at the various offices under his jurisdiction throughout Oregon, the Portland exchange alone showing, since March 1, up to and including last night, 665 new subscribers. The outside exchanges—Salem, Astoria, Ashland, Roseburg, The Dalles and others—showing a proportionate increase.

RUNNING SMOOTHLY.—The new mill of and about 80 men are employed. Six more machines are to arrive for the planing mill, and when these are installed the establishment will be complete, and ready to run day and night if necessary. The mill of the Western Lumber Company, also a band saw mill, is running day and night, and employs about 170 men.

BIG REPUBLICAN MERTING.—The Third Ward Republican Club held a big meeting at 297 Worcester block, last evening. D. J. Quimby acted as chairman, and speeches were made by S. C. Spencer and General Kapus. Mr. Spencer's 29-minute address was a brief but able reply to William Bryan's idiosyncrasies of the day become STEAMERS MEASURED.-Deputy Collector of Customs R. F. Barnes yesterday measured the screw-propellor Cornelia Cook, which is going around to the Sound to help collect salmon for J. W. Cook's canneries at Port Townsend and Blaine. She is 15 feet long, 184 feet wide, and 5.6 feet deep. The steamer Ilwaco, which has been re-built, with new house, etc., was also measured by Deputy Barnes. She is 30 feet long, 17 feet wide and 6 feet deep. Tonnage, 106 gross, 22 net. Another steamer is nearing completion in the yard south of Jefferson street. Ship carpenters, cankers, etc., have been kept busy of late.

RED-HEADED Pica,—A long trainload of cattle was unloaded at the stockyards Testerday, and the pens were pretty well filled. In addition to the eattle there was a lot of Spring lambs in one pen, and several pens of pigs, black, black and white, and one pen of regular red-headed white, and one pen of regular red-headed pigs. In the case of pigs, it of course goes without saying that they were red all over. Auburn or sandy does not begin to express the color of these animals; their bristles were a fiery, flaming red. Whether they have the quick temper which is supposed to be associated with red hair was not ascertained.

SEVENTH WARD REPUBLICANS.—The non-appearance of George C. Brownell at the meeting of the Seventh Ward Republican meeting of the Seventh Ward Republican Club last evening was a disappointment to the many Republicans who had come to hear him speak. However, other speakers more local made up the deficiency, and put the crowd in excellent spirits before it departed. Mayor Storey was called upon by President Saylor for remarks, and responded with a vigorous discussion of local affairs. The Mayor held that National lasues were a little foreign to the present affairs. The Mayor held that National issues were a little foreign to the present municipal campaign, until local affairs had been given all possible attention. Registration and other matters interesting the party were included in his topic. President Saylor introduced Gustav Anderson as one of the candidates for the nomination of Municipal Judge. Mr. Anderson took upthe gauntlet cast before the party by Bryan, and discussed some of the points made by the high priest of Democracy and Populism. A new candidate for the nomination of Municipal Judge, J. J. Johnson, spoke briefly, devoting more of his time to the common interests of himself and the people at large. The chair announced that Mr. Brownell's absence was due to sudden sickness in his family. Mr. Verstag diversified the evening with several banjo solos, that were highly appreciated.

Impostor Assoan.—The police are informed that an elderly, well-dressed man is representing himself as a Salvation Army agent in the northwestern quarter of the city, and collecting considerable money from the charitably disposed. He tells nearly he is collecting money to start of the city, and collecting considerable money from the charitably disposed. He tells people he is collecting money to start an orphan asylum under the auspices of the army, and his neat appearance and glib tongue help him out in the deception. He is described as 50 years of age, of light complexion, and wearing a neat blue suit, ornamented with mohair braid. Chief McLauchlan telephoned to all the patrolmen in the city yesterday: "If you see such a man, run him in." Both the Saivation Army and the City Board of Charities have requested The Oregonian to warn the people against the fellow.

BUILDING NEW TROLLEY LANE.—The bridge across Tannery Creek, on the line of the extension of the Metropolitan Street Railway from Second street to Southern Portland, is very nearly completed, and will be finished in a day or two. The grading for the track is completed nearly to will be finished in a day or two. The grading for the track is completed nearly to the line of Southern Portland, and the poles to support the trolley are strung for some distance along the south end of the line. The rails for the extension are at hand, and track-laying will commence as soon as the grading is completed. As to whether the company intends to run its line along the Macadam road or on the street one block west, there is no definite street one block west, there is no definite information as yet.

Information as yet.

Two Universities to Contest.—E. M. McArthy, manager of the University of Oregon track team, arrived in Portland yesterday from Seattle, where he has completed arrangements for a meet between his school and the University of Washington, in Seattle, on May 19. He says the college has a good team, and it is going to take all the energy the Portland boys have to defeat it, but he thinks this will be the probable result. The agreement was that next year the games be held was that next year the games be held in Portland. Mr. McArthy is now trying to get a meet with Multnomah, and also one between the Oregon freshmen and Portland High School, in this city.

SLOW ABOUT PAYING .- Quarterly licenses throughout Oregon, the Portiand exchange alone showing, since March 1, up to and including last night, 650 new subscribers. The outside exchanges—Salem, Astoria, Ashland, Roseburg, The Dalles and others—showing a proportionate increase.

RUNNING SMOOTHLY.—The new mill of the Eastern Lumber Company is running daily, and piles of lumber of all sizes are rapidly growing up on the grounds, which are laid out in a much more orderly manner than is usual in such places. The mill was intended to be the most modern even better satisfaction than was expected. It is run only in the day time so far,

BLOW ABOUT PAYING.—Quarterly licenses are being taken out at the City Hall in a deliberate manner, as is customary for the first week in the month, but there will be a rush the first of next week in order to save the penalty imposed if license fees are not paid in by the 10th. It is expected that about the same number of licenses will be taken out as for last quarter. Some restaurants found paying license for retailing ilquors a pretty steep tax, but they would lose a number of patrons if they did not furnish beer to the thirsty, and so most of them will probably continue to take out the license.

Buow About Paying.—Quarterly licenses are being taken out at the City Hall in a deliberate manner, as is customary for a small boat and not wing to a small boat and rowing to her assistance. People who witnessed the woman's rash act say she stood on the north side of the draw, near the west end, and, after throwing her purse on the deck of the bridge, climbed over the rail and fell off. She took two somersaults as she went down, and struck the water with the back of her head and shoulders, sinking out of sight, but immediately rose to the surface, when her dress keep ther affoat as and complete on the Coast, and is giving to the court and th to the election of delegates.

TOOK & UNIFORM.-Raiph G. Garretson was arrested last night on a charge of larceny on the complaint of Commander Walter Bird, of the Naval Battalion, Garretson is said to have taken a paval uhi-form from the Armory some time last January, and to have sold it to a Third-street second-hand dealer, named Stein. The loss was discovered yesterday and the charge was accordingly preferred.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

"Have You Seen Smith?" The mistakes and complications in "Have You Seen Smith?" which will be the next attraction at Cordray's, and the necessary clearing up of the mysteries, seasoned with merriment and music of late design and ornamented with gracelate design and ornamented with grace-ful terpsichorean efforts, will soon arouse theater-goers. Those who enjoy fun of the better kind have a treat in store. The play is set forth by the author to be a means of affording amusement of the joy-ful kind for two hours and a haif. A still further claim that a plot and coherent story accompanies the play is also ad-vanced from the same quarter. Such a possibility, in connection with farce-com-edy, has been hinted at before, but by the time the performance is reached the plot vanishes into thin air. "Have You Seen Smith?" is said to contain the usual number of comedy characters; there is the old man, affluent and well to do, who has a wife and marriageable daughter. It is the fancy of the wife that the daughter shall give her hand to a follower in the wake of Wagner, but the daughter loves a handsome military man, who manages culiar fads and fancies, but he is not alone in that line, and therein lies the whole trouble. The mother of the daughter who is afflanced to the Teutonic Wagnerite has fads and fancies also, and it is the complications arising out of the exploiting of these that afford the amusement. Of course, there are a round dozen of other characters, who mingle and help things along. It is branded as the most novel and unique farce-comedy produced in a decade. culiar fads and fancies, but he is not alone

FINE DOUBLE BILL.

Boston Lyrics Present the "Pretty Persinn" and "Lucia."

A double bill was sung by the Boston A double bill was sung by the Boston Lyric Opera Company at Cordray's The-ater last night. A new opera, both to Portland and to the company, was pre-sented in "The Pretty Persian."

From a spectacular view the opera was a decided success, as the stage grouping, pictures and costumes were striking. It was by far the prettiest and most dresset was by far the prettlest and most dressy of the numerous attractions given. Musically, the ensemble work is by far the more attractive and weighty. In the first two acts the chorus and principals seemed to have wakened from the tempo-rary trance of "Boccacio" and sang with their old-time vigor and swing. The weak point of the opera is the last act, as there is very little music, and the comedy work is of the "rough house" order. However, Colonel Thompson has arranged for the introduction of good musical numbers for the act hereafter, so the performance should be bright and catchy throughout. Miss Stanton was, indeed, a very "pret-ty Persian," and sang as usual, well. Daisy Howard was clever as the supposed boy, in the early part, and was very fetching in her elaborate gown in the third act. Bertha Nilsson seems to be a master hand at disfiguring herself, as a master hand at disfiguring herself, as her comedy make-up was a sight.

John Henderson, as the "Colah," was in a peck of trouble, and let everybody know it. His "Aaron and M. ees" topical song was funnier than ever. George Kunkel and Charles Van Dyne rounded out the grotesque trio in their usual roiseless. The summer is the same of their earnings in Sitka during the Winter.

An interesting fact in connection with by Miss Stanton and Mass Howard is that they were designed by and made under the personal supervision of Mas.

The third act of "Lucia di Lammermoor" was sung as an afterplece, with Signor Russo, the central figure, as Edgardo. The tragic, plaintive music of this famous opera was admirably adapted to Russo's interpretation, and his efforts met with merited approval. Not only was the scene well acted, but his flexible, vibrant tenor vol e met the didicuit d'amatic requirements most satisfactorily.

The same double bill will be sung to-'The Merry War' tomorrow matnee, and "Maritana" tomorrow evening.

JUMPED FROM A BRIDGE.

Ida Aurlington Tries to Drown Herself in the River. A woman known as Ida Aurlington, 32 years of age, threw herself off the Morri-son-street bridge yesterday afternoon, with suicidal intent, but was rescued by two deckhands of the steamer Sarah Dixwas lying at the foot of Washington street near by, and the rescuers acted promptly. When one of the men tried to pull the woman out of the water, she struggled and swore, and called him names, saying:

"I want to die." As she could not be pulled into the boat she was towed to the steamer, where help had been summoned from police headquarters, and the patrol wagon was used in removing her to the station. She was placed in the matron's care, and became quite rational shortly afterward.

Disappointment in her affections is said to have been the cause of her attempt on her life. She formerly lived in Portland, but is more recently from Salem, where she had been lately released from the insane asylum.

PLEASED WITH SITKA.

Merchant Who Enjoys Life in Alaska's Capital.

T. Guertin, a merchant of Sitka, Alaska, is at the Perkins, while ordering his Sum-mer stock from Portland wholesalers. Mr. Guertin has lived in Sitka for the past 13 years, and says he has no desire whatever to return to the States, unless he should become very wealthy, when he might be induced to bring his family to a temperate climate again. Sitks, he says, is some-what off the line of travel to the Klon-dike or to Nome, but the people there enjoy the quiet life, secure in their isola-tion from the follies and temptations of the busy outside world. His town is the seat of government of Alaska, and stands on the shores of a beautiful harbor on the Island of Baranov. The climate is very temperate for that latitude, and closely
