lans Outlined at a Meeting Last Night-No Slate Has Been Made Up.

There will be no split in the Democratic City and County Convention, which will reconvene Wednesday morning, over the nominations for city and county officers, but there will be several spirited contests. The delegates met last night in Demo-cratic headquarters and conferred on the availability of candidates for different of-fices. No slate was made or attempted to be made, and no vote was taken on any candidate. Various names were men-tioned for every office, and for some of them it is practically settled who the candidates will be. More than two-thirds der, a resolution was passed that all but delegates to the convention be excluded, and the preceedings were conducted pri-center in the nomination of the ticket for the state Senate and the House of Repre-sentatives. This is yet practically unsetthe future, reasons for tardiness, such as care running off the track, failure of the motive power or of cars to make their trips on schedule time, would not pass muster with him. Many teachers who are in schools some distance from the center of the city are now hearding near the sentatives. This is yet practically absoluted. The most astute politician in the meeting. Pat Powers himself, does not know who the candidates will be. It is rumored that propositions are being made to the delegates from certain Republicans. that may change the complexion of this part of the ticket, and it is likely that a sinte will be made up today. The first spirited fight in the convention will come up on the nomination for Mayor, There are only two candidates—Dr. G. M. Wells chairman of the Democratic comocratic candidate. If th had beer made last night, Dr. Wells would be the candidate, as he has a majority of the delegation. However, Mr. Inman's ids are bringing strong influences to bear upon the convention, and Mr. Inman may be considered to have a fighting may be considered to have a lighting chance. There is a strong faction which is opposed to any attempt at fusion, and which will contend for a ticket made up of old-line regular Democrats, who have always stood by the party. This faction will stand by Dr. Wells.

UNITED PRESBYTERIANS.

First Session of the Presbytery to Be Held Today.

The Presbytery of Oregon began their session last night at the United Presby-terian Church with a stereopticon lecture on "Our Country" by Rev. D. E. Finks, of New York City. His views are princi-pally of the West and South, and the reverend gentleman had either a good story or some moral to accompany each. The pictures of the Indians were exceedingly savage and civilized state. The Rev. Mr. Finks spent considerable time in discussing the Mormon religion and its hold upon the people. He threw a map of the United States on the screen, upon which was a huge black octopus, with its body in Utah and its tentacles reaching out through the surrounding Western country, and one tentacle having a hold on the City of Washington. The speaker said this fairly illustrated in what direction the Mormons were working. He gave as a remedy the chapel scho which the Presbyterians are now eslishing. In this way they hope to educate the young toward Christianity.

The session of the presbytery will continue this morning at 9 o'clock, and the following is the programme:

A request for a Webster's Unabridged Dictionary by the principal of the South Portland School provoked a lively discussion. Professor Rigler stated that many schools had several unabridged dictionaries, some being in use by the lower grades. He suggested instead of expending $10 or $15 for a new dictionary that one be taken from a lower grade room and turned over to the South Portland School, an academic edition being substi-J. E. Chaphelm, Thomas Richardson, H. B. Chap-man, J. W. Shattuck and B. P. Reynolds were mentioned. Charles Herstei will get the nomination for County Treasurer, and Lucius R. Lewis will have the honor of running for County Surveyor. Two can-didates were named for County Assessor —General H. B. Compson and William Poids. School, an academic edition being substi-tuted. This suited the economical mind of Director Thompson exactly. He be-lieved in reducing expenses to the mini-mum, even in the case of small expend-itures. The matter was referred to Su-perintendent Rigler, with power to act.

B. E. Lytle, president of the Colum Southern, was seen yesterday in reference to the dispatch sent out from Baker City, stating that the Burlington would connect with his line, and thus gain entrance to "The Oregonian may say that, so far as the Columbia Southern knows, no such arrangement, nor any talk of such an arlington. While such a thing is possible, it is not at all probable. It requires two parties to make a contract, and we are not one of the two. We have not entered into any such iombination. Our interests and those of the O. R. & N. are too closely allied—in fact, are almost identical—to approximate the contract of such a deal. We are engaged permit of such a deal. We are engaged in developing territory the O. R. & N. did not include in its system. While we not include in its system. While we are at liberty to connect with the Burlington or any other line coming our direction, we are not disposed to do so."

It is generally admitted that the Burlington might not object to an alliance with the Columbia Southern, in order to reach bortland. To do otherwise it wight as Portland. To do otherwise, it might an-tagonize the Northern Pacific, and Great Northern, which it does not desire, nor ton to Portland, thus making an additional through line. Since the Burlington is at this time nearer to Portland than any other of the lines now seeking terminals here, its ultimate extension to Portland Prominent Railroader Thinks Will Not Be Broken. es C. Pond, of Milwaukee, Wis., the general passenger agent of the Wisconsin Central, arrived here from Spokane yes-terday morning. He visited Heiena and Butte while en route.

Mr. Pond is one of the best-known and most popular general passenger agents in the country. He worked his way up from the country. He worked his way up from humble beginnings to his present position. For 15 years he was assistant general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, and left that company in September, 1891, to accept his present position. Mr. Pond has not visited Portland for three years, Yesterday he renewed old-time acquaintances, accompanied by General Agent Clock, of the company, and M. J. Roach, of the Rio Grande Western. Mr. Pond says that the business of all the Eastern roads, both passenger and freight, was never better. passenger and freight, was never better It is his opinion that the New York agree ment of the railroad presidents will not be broken. He admits that the Eastern railroad men did not take kindly to the en-forcement of the rule abolishing commis-sions, but will be compelled to abide by it. Mr. Pond will leave for home tonight.

PENNOYER'S MILL BUSY. Gold Standard Times Have Wakened It Into Life.

All is bustle about the new Pennoyer mill, where some $\overline{7}$ hands are now em-ployed in changing log rafts into lumber piles, and in extending acres of docks and thousands of feet of heavy timber runways. The saws are busy turning out planking and cape for the new docks which are to reach to deep water on one hand and to the substantial river bank, 1100 feet away, on the other. The heavy painted timbers of the old Madison-street bridge have been utilized to support the lumber runways which are built on the acres of sawdust deposited there from the old mill in the years agone. Mr. Ritan, the manager, said yesterday: "We have a good deal to do yet in the way of preparation, before we can turn out lumber for the market. This mill was built for the retail Portland trade, but we must now reach out all over the world for a market. We must therefore prepare to load sea-going ships as well as freight cars, and our docks and platforms must be extended on all sides."

Mr. Ritan did not explain how the new company proposed to reach the Terminal grounds, but he expressed a hope that the opposition to the Front-street franchise would cease, so that the mill would have an outlet in that way.
