

PACIFIC CABLE BILL

Senate Passed It After Very Little Debate.

PROVIDES FOR A LINE TO HONOLULU

Appropriates $3,000,000, the Work to Be Done by the Navy Department.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—With little debate of importance, the Senate today passed the Pacific cable bill, a measure appropriating $3,000,000 for the construction of a cable between San Francisco and Honolulu.

The bill was unanimously reported by the committee on naval affairs, and that it was passed without serious objection is regarded as a compliment to the committee.

During the greater part of the session the District of Columbia appropriation bill was under consideration.

As passed, it carries nearly $3,000,000.

The bill provides for a cable from San Francisco to Honolulu, the work to be done under the direction of the Navy Department, which has made surveys and determined the practicability of the route.

The Navy Department may use any of its ships that can be adapted to the task of laying the cable, and it may charter other ships, it may charter them.

It provides that the Secretary of the Navy, in his discretion, if he finds it not practicable to lay the cable by the force of the navy, may contract for its construction under specifications and due advertisement, for the construction, laying and equipment of the cable.

All materials and apparatus shall be of first-class quality. Sections of the cable, wires and other instruments, materials, appliances and apparatus necessary in the work of laying the cable shall be of American manufacture.

Provided that the same can be procured at the same price as can be procured for the same in foreign markets.

Hale explained that the bill provided for the building of the cable from San Francisco to Honolulu, that it would be in the nature of an experiment, and upon the result of it would depend in a measure the future course of the Government.

It might be deemed desirable, in the light of experiment, to start the Pacific cable from some point like Seattle and proceed to Japan by the northern route.

Pettus (Dem. Ala.) moved to strike out section 5 of the bill.

"W. G.," he inquired, "should the Government consent to be taxed on its own business for the benefit of certain manufactures? It is an absurdity. Even if you go to rob the people by your taxes, you ought not to rob the Government."

Tillman (Dem. S. C.), as a member of the naval committee, defended the bill, in the report of which all the Democratic members of the committee had joined.

While he was not, as a protectionist or in favor of subsidies, he regarded the provision in section 5 of this bill in the interest of the people, as it would be a sort of nursing bottle to the industries interested. He deemed it a desirable experiment in Government ownership and control, and expressed the opinion that it might prove a good thing for Alabama.

"Up to this date," said Pettus, "Alabama will not accept your bribe. I have seen one great state near me accept the sugar bribe, and I don't like it."

Tillman disclaimed any effort to bribe the Senator Pettus or the State of Alabama, but he was anxious to increase the struggling iron and steel industries of Alabama, and he hoped to see the day when a Government armor-plate factory would be located in Alabama.

"Alabama is not struggling at all," retorted Pettus, with spirit. "Alabama is master of the situation both as to iron and coal. But the great-grandchildren of the Senator (Tillman) will be here in the Senate before any Government armor-plates are manufactured in Alabama. This thing is wrong, and Senators know it."

Pettus' amendment was defeated, 11 to 25, and the bill passed without division.

Public buildings were authorized and amounts appropriated for them as follows:

- Allentown, Pa., $123,000
Cathage, Mo., 12,000
Reno, Nev., 20,000
Blaine, W. Va., 20,000

The following bills were passed: Appropriation bill to establish a branch home of the National Home for disabled soldiers at Castle Pinery, Charleston Harbor, S. C.; authorizing the President to invite the International Congress of Navigation to hold its ninth session in Washington, D. C., and appropriating $5,000 for the expenses.

After a brief executive session, the Senate, at 5:15 P. M., adjourned.

Favored by Lands Committee.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The House committee on public lands today acted favorably on bills granting right of way for electric power lines and ditches for irrigation and power through Government reservations and parks, except the Yellowstone; giving 50,000 acres of public lands to Wyoming for a Soldiers' Home, to which Chairman Lacey makes a minority report, and authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to reserve lands occupied by the cliff-dwellers and prehistoric monuments.

WATERS ARE RECEDED.

No Further Damage Expected From the Texas Flood.

AUSTIN, Tex., April 11.—The waters are receding rapidly, and no further damage is expected. The Texas Flood Commission, under the leadership of Governor Leander, has reported that the waters are subsiding, and that the aftermath presents an appalling loss to the farmers and stockmen of the State. Fields are washed almost beyond recognition, and fencing has been washed from places heretofore considered beyond the reach of any flood.

THE SUPPRESSED OPINION

CONGRESS GETS INFORMATION ON THE MAGOON MATTER.

Assistant Secretary Melickjohn Says the Memorandum Was Unofficial and for Private Use.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The War Department today complied with the recent resolution of the House of Representatives calling for an opinion on the Magoon, law officer of the Insular Division, relative to the extension of the Constitution over Puerto Rico.

The opinion was given in a memorandum, dated May 1, 1898, to the President, in which the opinion says: "Thereupon the territory conveyed became a part of the United States, and, as such, subject to the Constitution. No further action by Congress was necessary or possible. The Constitution does not depend upon Congress for authority in any part of the United States. The reverse of the proposition is the fact. From this time on, Congress must look to the Constitution for authority to legislate for Puerto Rico."

Mr. Melickjohn, in transmitting the opinion, says that when criticism was made on the practice of the War Department in maintaining the tariff schedule adopted by the military government, he requested Mr. Magoon to prepare a memorandum. This memorandum was not made in any case official, and intended for personal use only. Upon consideration, the argument against continuation was not considered to be founded, and no change was made in said tariff regulations.

Subsequently, Mr. Melickjohn says Mr. Magoon furnished an opinion on the general subject, which has been made public heretofore.

The Secretary of the Navy has written a letter to the Senate committee on naval affairs urging such a change in the laws relating to appointment to the Naval Academy as will fill the vacancies in the line of the Navy, and also calling attention to the necessity for immediately enacting such legislation as will substantially increase the authorized quota.

The Secretary of the Department finds it absolutely unable to commission another warship "without reducing in some other particular our already meager fleet."

"Congress has from time to time authorized the construction of powerful vessels for our naval defense, and at the present time four of these are about ready for active service. The Kearsarge has been recently commissioned, and the Kentucky should be commissioned about May 15, the Alabama should be ready by July 1, and the Wisconsin within a few weeks thereafter. In order that serious errors may be avoided and in order that they may not deteriorate, that part of their value may be lost to the country, they should be put into full commission, with an adequate number of officers and men.

Indeed, in these vessels we have gained nothing for the naval defense of the country unless we have the means to man and equip them."

He adds that the Kearsarge is at present very greatly under-officed, having only 22 officers; whereas, the British warship of the same class, the Ardent, has 30 officers. The Secretary warns the committee and Congress that conditions are growing steadily more exigent.

NEW YORK'S POPULATION

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The Census Bureau is reaping the first fruits of Director Merriam's experiment in trying to learn the number of New York City residents who are out of town during the month of June. The experiment consists in sending agents to residents in New York to inform the Bureau if they will be out of town during that month.

The reports sent by Superintendent Charles A. Wilbur are surprising. Mr. Wilbur has so far received 700 replies to his cards, and out of this number 2100 announce that they will be away from New York during the month of June. If this proportion is kept up, it will appear that New York's population has been represented as smaller than it really is by tens of thousands.
