tial Electors—Tilmon Ford, of Mar Fullerton, of Douglas; O. F. Paxton mah; W. J. Furnish, of Umatilla. : J. C. Fe Delegates to National Convention at Phila-delphia—Henry E. Ankeny, of Jackson; John D. Daly, of Beston; Wallace McCamant, of Multromah; H. L. Kuck, of Wasco.

The State Republican Convention met resterday in Portland and nominated a candidate for Supreme Judge, a State Food and Dairy Commissioner, and four Presidential Electors, and elected four delegates to the National Republican Convention at Philadelphia. It was the quietest and most harmonious state gathering publicans in several years, and was in striking contrast to the contests and excitement that attended the State and Congressional Conventions four and two years ago. Supreme Judge Wolverton wes renominated by acclamation, and the wes renominated by accisimation, and the only feature of the entire proceedings that aroused any sort of interest was the nomination of Food Commissioner. No debate arose over the platform. The live Puerto Rico issue was avoided. The speechmaking was confined entirely to perfunctory nominating eulogies and extemporaneous symarks by prominent orators after the remarks by prominent orators, after the business had been dispatched. Chairman Paxton presided in most acceptable style, and by his quickness and diplomacy great-ly expedited matters. The convention ad-journed at 9 P. M.

THE CONVENTION IN DETAIL. tenomination of Judge Wolverton-Delegates and Electors. Chairman Steel, of the State Republican

Central Committee, mounted the platform at the Marquam Grand Theater, at 10:25 and, calling the convention to order, asked for nominations for temporary chairman. Bolse of Multnoman named O. Frank Paxton, of Portland, as "a loyal Republican, and a capable parliamentarian, who would make an impartial presiding officer."

The nomination was seconded by Linn, Union and Clackamas Counties, and Mr. Paxton's election was made unanimous. Temporary Chairman Paxton announced that he would induige in no oratory. The convention was there for business, and therefore he would occasion no delay. C. E. Cochran, of Union, was unanimously named for temporary secretary, and Darwin Bristow, of Lane, for assistant sec-

The convention, after waiting a little while for the committee on credentials to report, took a recess till 1:30 o'clock. The calling to order of the afternoon session was somewhat delayed by the session of the Third Judicial District delegations, which we're trying to settle their District Attorneyship contest. their District Attorneyship contest. first ballot resulted: Hart 40, Duncan 18, Handley 5, Magers 2. Hart was declared tials was submitted and adopted. The committee on permanent organiza-tion and order of business reported, rec-ommending that the temporary organiza-tion be made permanent, and establish-ing the following order of business:

Second-Nomination of the State Central Third—Report of the committee on order of business.

Fourth-Report of the committee on platform.

Fifth—Appointment of tellers.

Sixth—Nomination of Justice of the Supreme Court.

Seventh—Nomination of the Oregon
Dairy and Food Commissioner.
Eighth—Nomination of four delegates and four alternates to Philadelphia.

Ninth-Announcement and ratification of Joint Senators and Representatives.

Tenth-Announcement and ratification of nomination of judicial district officers.

Eleventh-Adoption of resolution instructing State Central Committee to fill vacancies.

The committee on resolutions was not yet ready to report, and the convention at once proceeded to the nomination of Supreme Justice.

Bennett of Coos nominated E. B. Watson, of Multnomah, in a sulogistic speech, and similar office was performed for Charles E. Wotverton, of Linn, by Russell Wyatt, of Linn. There was a very large number of seconds to Wolverton's nomination, and, seeing the drift of sentiment, Bennett, in a happy speech, with-would send the following dispatch to the successful techninee at Salem:

"The Republican State Convention, appreciating your high character and ablility, and the purity and value of your services as a Judge, has just renominated you by acclamation, amid great enthusyou by acclamation, amid great enthus-iasm."

The platform committee made its re-port, through E. L. Smith, chairman, and E. W. Haines, secretary. It will be found Brownell of Clackamas wanted to make a suggestion. He would like to see inserted in the platform a plank declaring in favor of the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people. The suggestion was received with continuous applianse. Chalman Smith accepted the suggestion, and a suitable declaration was added.

Ford of Marton wanted the delegation was added.

Ford of Marion wanted the delegation in Congress to be instructed to work for the adoption of the amendment, and sean appropriate expression to that effect was included.

For Food and Dairy Commissioner, Clark of Marion named J. W. Bailey, of Multnomah; seconded by Cleeton of Columbia, Fulton of Clatsop, Spencer of Umatilla.

J. W. Maxwell, of Tillamook, was nominated by McCamant of Multnomah; seconded by Isenberg of Wasco, Nash of Lincoln, Huntington of Umatilla, Griffin of Multnomah, Hume of Linn, Gurdane of Umatilla.

Lincoln, Huntington of Umatilla, Griffin of Multnomah, Hume of Linn, Gurdane of Umatilla.

Several of the speakers in the seconding speeches had referred to Mr. Maxwell's Grand Army record, and made severe references to the secondon record of the Democratic party. This finally brought Chandler of Baker to his feet with the complaint that his toes were being stepped on. "Some of us." he said, "had the misfortune to belong to that party, and we don't like to be told of our faults." A great laugh followed this sally. The vote resulted: Bailey 175, Maxwell 147. The nomination of Bailey was made unanimous.

147. The nomination of Bailey was made unanimous.

For Presidential elector, Tilmon Ford, of Marion, was nominated by Gatch of Marion, as a campaigner of ability, a legislator of experience, and a thorough believer in our Government.

W. J. Furnish, of Umatilia, was nominated by Alexander of Umatilia, as a popular son of that county.

O. F. Paxton, of Multnomah, was nominated by Harvey W. Scott, of Multnomah, as a man of acute mind, a good campaigner, and a leader among the young men.

J. C. Fullerton, of Douglas, was nominated by Crawford of Douglas, as a son of a pioneer jurist and legislator.
W. J. Furnish was seconded by Eilis of Morrow.

Messrs. Ford, Paxton, Furnish and Fullerton were nominated by acciamation.

For delegate-at-large at Philadelphis, Wellace McCamant was nominated by Scott of Multnomeh, as an active young man, and one of the best representatives of the Republican party.

Henry Ankeny, of Jackson, was nominated by Macrum of Washington, as a pioneer, a sound and good citizen, and an exponent of true Republicanism.

H. L. Kuck, of Wasco County, was nominated by a delegate from Crook.

John D. Daly, of Benton, was named by Thomas McEwan, of Baker, was nominated by Dodson of Baker, as a "Republican from time immemorial."

For alternates, the following were nominated: Lewis Simpson, of Coos: H. L. Holgate, of Benton; Wallis Nash, of Lincoln: John W. Knowies, of Union.

The four delegates and alternates were declared elected by acclamation.

While the vote was being taken, Murdock of Klamath suggested that, through oversight, the administration of Governor Geer had not been indorsed, and proposed the following, which was unanimously adopted:

A motion made by Mr. Fulton, of Clatsop, to instruct the delegation for McKinley, met with mild opposition from Mr. Ross, on account of the very sparse attendance. The chair was disposed to sus-tain the point of order, but the motion was finally permitted to go through for want of objection or sufficient interest in the matter.

The various district and legislative nominations were announced to the convention, at the evening session, and were duly ratified. The State Central Committee was authorized to fill any vacancies that may occur in any of the nominations. The usual votes of thanks were tendered to the chairman and secretary. Lively five-minute speeches were made by C. W. Fulton of Astoria; George C. Brownell, of Oregon City; and Wallace

The Democratic State Convention was in session from 10 A. M. to 11 P. M. yesterday without accomplishing anything beyond the election of delegates to the National Convention, instructed for Bryan. The principal incidents of the day were the throwing out of the glad hand of fusion to the regular Populists, and through them to the Middle-of-the-Roaders; the turning down of the only Gold Democrat who tried to get recognition, and the re-election of R. S. Sheridan to the chairmanship of the state committee over H. B. Nicholas, Multnomah County's candidate. When the convention adjourned last night the prospects seemed good for fusion. The platform and fusion committees had been working in harmony the greater part of the afternoon and evening, and no hitch was apparent.

The platform was still pending when the convention adjourned. The contest is upon the third plank, favoring legislation protecting railroad employes and denouncing government by injunction. Chairman Sheridan, of the state committee, put in half an hour scattering the cards that assigned the various county delegations to seats in the hall. Henry Gray, of Portland, hung a big American flag back of the platform. The large pictures of President McKinley and the late Vice-President Hobart, which had decorated the north, wall since 18%, had been carefully removed before the delegates began assembling. In place of McKinley was a gold-framed picture of Bryan, and the Hobart picture had given way to one of ex-Vice-President Adial E. Stevenson, Cleveland's running mate in 1892. Evidently Stevenson was more acceptible to the Oregon Democrats than Bryan's tailenders in 1896, Sewall and Watson.

Chairman Sheridan's Introductory.
Chairman Sheridan dropped the gavel at 10:38. He prefaced a short and rather acrid speech by thanking the state committee for its support of him in the past two years. He said he had done the best he could to build up the party, and if any mistakes had been made, they were his. Chairman Sheridan concluded his remarks in this dramatic fashion: "We who are assembled here today represent the principles of the Democracic party as they were represented by Jefferson, Jackson and William J. Bryan (Applause.) This country is ruled today by a man who is a creature of the trusts, and who does their bidding like a stave. (Applause.) The State of Oregon has for its Governor a man who has been indicted by the public press for taking bribes. We have a Legislature that is a diagrace to the state. And, to cap the climax, Oregon has elected that Judas Iscariot, Joseph Simon, to the United States Senate, and he is a disgrace to any state." (Applause.) Miller of Linn, who has Vice-Presidential aspirations, nominated George E. Chamberialin for temporary chairman. Davidson of Marion, ex-Clerk of the Supreme Court. Mr. Holmes withdrew his name, and, on motion of Criswford of Union, seconded, "with great pleasure" by Foley of Multinomah, Chamberiain's election was made unanimous. Mesers. Holmes, Crawford and Foley were appointed to escort Mr. Chamberlain to the chair.

Mr. Chamberiain's High Hopes.

Mr. Chamberiain was disincilined to make a speech. He said the occasion was not a proper one for talking, as the delegates had come to do business. He said: "All I care to say to you, gentlemen of the jury—I mean gentlemen of the convention—is that harmony has characterized the procedings of every Democratic convention that has been held in Oregon this year. There is harmony in this convention. Oregon cuts a big figure in National politics. I am reliably informed that our National convention was called to meet at Kansas City, July 4, expressly because Oregon votes so early. If, in June, Oregon should send news that she has become a Democratic state. I have no doubt that it will lend courage to the Eastern states, and inspire them to follow are lead." (Appliance.)

C. E. Redfield, of Morrow, was elected temporary secretary, and L. L. Burtenshaw, of Coos, temporary assistant, secretary. Both elections were by acclamation.

Gold Democraty Turned Down.

E. R. Skipworth of Lane, moved the appointment of a committee of II on platform. Skipworth was a gold Democrat in the troublesome period of finance, but report has it that he has become Styanized of late. His motion was considered a shrewd move to put an ex-gold man at the head of the platform committee, and the silverites proceeded to riddle it. Milliner of Multnomah moved to amend that the committee be one from each county, and Garland of Linn that it be one from each judicial district. O'Day of Multnomah and Bennett of Wasco favored a large committee. Burnett raised the point that the committee was not in order, as the credentials committee had not reported, and there was no tetting who were entitled to seats. Townsend of Polk, member of the National Committee, asked for a ruling on Burnett's point, and Chairman Chamberlain declared it well taken. "I think it's lots of nerve for a gold man to come into a Democratic convention and move the appointment of a platform committee." man to come into a Democratic convention and move the appointment of a platform committee," said Mr. Townsend, after the issue had gone his way.

At 11 o'clock the convention adjourned until 1 P. M.

To keep it out of the state convention, the Marion County delegation elected six alternates to the state convention who were authorised to become the regular delegates in case of the absence of any of them. Under this ruling the credentials committee gave Downing's seat to Webster Holmes, alternate, and Fairbanks' to Henry Pape, alternate, Fry was effectually closed out, for he had been a member of the credentials committee.

George fi. Downing protested that he had a proxy from a regularly elected delegate. Remarks were not in order at the time he spoke, and at the suggestion of Chairman Chamberlain he cat down until a motion to adopt the report had been made. When that motion came up, Downing made ne further effort to set aside the report of the committee.

On motion of Hazzard of Coos, the counties were given power to vote for the absentees of their delegations.

Fusion Recommended. The only recommendation in the report of the committee on permanent organization and order of business was the "appointment of a committee of five by the chair to confer with the Populist convention to bring about a union of forces." The remainder of the report outlined an order of making nominations and recommended that the temporary officers be made permanent.

mended that the temporary officers be made permanent.

Apparently there was not an anti-fusion delegate in the entire convention, for not the mercet suggestion of a protest against fusion was heard from any quarter.

As a committee to confer with the Populats, Chairman Chamberlain appointed J. H. Robbins, of Baker; John M. Raiston of Linn; E. D. Boyd, of Umatilia; W. H. Wehrung, of Washington, and J. O. Boothe, of Josephine.

Skipworth Downed Again

As the report made no provision for the number of persons who should constitute the platform committee. Milner of Multinomah moved that it be composed of one delegate from each county.

Skipworth of Lane amended that the committee consist of nine, appointed by the chair. Skipworth's amendment was defeated by a vote of about 16 to 1, and the gentleman from Lane was reminded for the second time that sheep with golden fleeces are not wanted in the Democratic fold.

present incumbent, and H. B. Nicholas, of Portland. Mr. Nicholas was agreed upon at a caucus of the Multnomah members in the morning, but he did not receive the full support of his delegation. W. E. Burke, who has had previous experience as a caucus bolter, and W. E. Robertson, as a convention bolter, refused to be bound by the caucus, and so etated in the convention. The caucus also agreed upon Dr. John Welch and N. A. Peery for delegates to the National convention Dell Stuart for Presidential elector, Alexander Sweek for Judge of Department No. 4. State Circuit Court, and George E. Chamberlain, for District Attorney. The caucus offered the Congressional nomination in the Second district to Rôbert D. Inman, of Portland, but he declined the honor.

Inman, of Portland, but he declined the honor.

Mr. Nicholas was put forward by Frederick V. Eloiman for his great work at an anti-imperialist, and for his efforts in behalf of Democratic organization. Inman, Powers and Milner, of Muitnomah, seconded Nicholas. Pierce of Umatilla nominated Sheridan who was seconded by Butcher of Baker, Robertson of Muitnomah, Fisher of Douglas, Garland organization of Muitnomah, Fisher of Douglas, Garland organization. nomah, Fisher of Douglas, Garland of Linn, Burtenshay of Coos and Burke of Multnomah. He said there were 22 votes in the caucus, and that all agreed to stand by the caucus nominations. "If Mulinomah is not solid this time," said Powers, "the lie is out somewhere."

Sheridan got the support of the National committeeman, Townsend, and all the aid the state committee could throw to him, and won "hands down." Five Multnomah votes went against Nicholas, and five Delegates to National Convention.

At the evening session began electing Delegates to the National Convention. Those placed in nomination were: James H. Raley, of Pendleton, by Pierce, of Umatilia; Jefferson Myers, of Salem, by Kaiser, of Marion; M. A. Miller, of Lebanon, by Garland, of Linn; R. M. Veatch, of Cottage Grove, by Baker, of Lane; N. A. Peery, of Multnomah, by Robertson, of Multnomah; Dr. John Welch, of Portland, by Stuart, of Multnomah; W. F. Butcher, of Baker City, by White, of Baker; J. O. Roothe, of Josephine, by Reames, of Jackson; Dan J. Fry, of Salem, by Weaver, of Marion; J. D. McKinnon, of La Grande, by Carroll, of Union; H. Taylor Hill, of Crook, by Van Vactor, of Gilliam; A. J. Knott, of Portland, by Powers, of Multnomah; C. N. Wait, of Canby, by Baker, of Clacksams; E. E. Wilson, of Corvallis, by Bryan, of Benton; Charles Nickell, of Jacksonville, by Soliss, of Jackson; A. S. Bennett, of The Dalles, by Bingham, of Wasco; C. D. Latourette, of Oregon City, by Cheney, of Clacksams; H. L. Herzinger, of Enterprise, by Shehan, of Wallowa.

The nomination of A. J. Knott, of Portland, was the result of the caucus bolt on Nicholas for the chairmanship of the state committee. Pat Powers, who nominated Knott, thought that if five delegates had a right to break away from Nicholas, he had a right to call the caucus off in any particular he chose.

The ballot resulted:

The Platform.

Chairman Crawford reported the plat-form at 10 o'clock. As originally drafted by the committee it was, with the ex-ception of the words inclosed in brackets, as printed below. As reported to the con-vention, the first plank merely affirmed the money plank of the Democratic, Populist and Free Silver state conventions of This was giving too little considera-1898. This was giving too little considera-tion to the Chicago platform, and Haz-zard of Coos, Peery of Multnomah, and Butcher of Baker protested. Peery said to ignore the National platform of 1874 would be to give the platform and Bryan a black eye. A squabble followed, and, to get out of it, the first plank, as originally drafted, was adopted, and the words in brackets inserted. The platform now pending before the convention follows:

We favor amendments to the Federal Constitution, specially authorizing an income tax and providing for the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people.

We oppose government by injunction and the blacklist, and tawor arbitration as a means of settling disputes between corporations and their employes, and recognizing the fact that a corporation is a creature of law, we believe in and favor a reasonable supervis on by state inspection, of mines, machinery, manufactories and railways, to the end that injury to employes be avoided and life rendered secure; we favor the passage of £ reasonable employers' liability act, similar to those enacted in other states.

We reaffirm our former declaration in favor of the initiative and referendum and pledge our candidates, for the Legislature to support the pending amendment to the Constitution submitting the question of direct legislation to the people.

We denounce the doctrine that an Executive or a Congress created and limited by the Constitution, can exercise lawful authority beyond that Constitution, and in violation of it. Believing that a Nation can not long endure half republic and haif empire, we oppose wars of conquest and colonial possessions.

The Filipinos can not be citizens without endangering our civilization; they cannot be subjects without endangering our civilization of the Nation's purpose to give to the Filipinos, first, a stable form of government, and as we are not willing to surrender our civilization of the Nation's purpose to give to the Filipinos, first, a stable form of government; second, independence, and, third, protection from outside interference, as it has for nearly a century given protection to the republics of Central and South America. Substitute Voted Down.
'After the platform had been read, Colonel Boyd, of Umatilla, attacked the plank relating to the Filipinos. He said it was not defensible, and moved to strike it out and insert the following: "We are op-posed to imperialism in any form, and favor giving to every people a cepublican form of government."

The substitute was lost by a big vote.

The convention then discussed the third plank, and a motion was made to strike it out and insert the Populist plank bear-ing on the subject. It was then discovered that the Populist plank was not in the hands of the convention, it having been returned to the Populist convention. At 11 o'clock, with the platform still pend ing, the convention adjourned until 16 this morning.
