

STOREY BUYING "BOOZE"

HIS HONOR A REFORM CANDIDATE NO LONGER.

Showing His Hand in the North End - Work of Central Committee - Fusion Men Are Listless.

Mayor Storey's effort to break into the good government camp and pose as a disciple of reform having conspicuously failed, he has gone to the other extreme and is buying beer for the rounders in the North End at a rate which he evidently thinks will make him sold in that quarter of the city.

That is usually all the reply that is necessary. During the early part of the campaign, Mayor Storey spent much of his time among the mills, where he believed himself unusually strong, and where he hoped to get all the votes of the workmen.

Joe Meyer, independent candidate for Councilman in the Third Ward, and the solid vote of the neighborhood, Storey landed in his present office, is one of his warm supporters, but Fred T. Merrill, another independent candidate for the same office, who has been a member of the North End that things will be all right when he is elected.

DOING GOOD WORK.

Effective Methods of Republican State Central Committee.

Although the Republican State Central Committee has received no money with which to prosecute an aggressive campaign in Oregon, it is conducting its work systematically, and the returns from various parts of the state show that its efforts are bearing fruit.

Nearly all of the cities in the state are arranging for big Republican demonstrations, and have applied to the central committee for speakers.
