PROSPERITY AT TROUTDALE .- Dr. Locke, of Troutdale, who was in the city yester-day on business, thinks his village is on the high road to prosperity, with all the rest of the country. The Union Meat Company now has about 50 men on its pay-roll at Troutdale, and these men all live within the confines of the town. Then the Come Brow, saw mill gives work to rest of the country. Then the Come Brow', saw mill gives work to 50 more, and the two enterprises thus combe more, and the two enterprises thus combine to make Troutdale quite a manufacturing center. A large number of saw milis are at work along the Sandy, above Troutdale, and there must be at least 50,000 ties in the stream near the station, awaiting shipment to various points easiward along different lines of rail. Cone Bros., he says, have just secured the contract to furnish dimension lumber for 20.

Sunday evening to make up a purse for a parting gift to him. The bishop was saying his farewells to the flock he has had charge of so long prepuratory to taking his departure for his new field of the Columbia are taking steps to get up labor, with headquarters at Victoria, B. C., when D. McGill, in his winning and forcible way, suggested that it would be the proper thing to raise a little purse as a parting gift. To the astonishment and evident distress of the bishop, he ex-pressed the opinion that their offering should amount to at least $1300. The hop protested that he did not need the morey, and endeavored to stay the pro-ceedings, but the hat was passed and kept passing until there was $100 in it.

Valuable Book.—An old and very interesting and valuable book, of which probably very few copies are in existence, has been loaned H. L. Pittock for inspection by George J. Brown, chief engineer of The Dulles Fire Department. Unfortunately, it has met with rough usage in the course of its long career, and the title page and part of the index is gone, but it contains an assonishing s gone, but it contains an astonishing number of historical documents, beginning with the Constitution of the United States and ending with the journals of the Congress held at Carpenters' Hall, Philadelphia, September 5, 1774. The book also phia, September 5, 1774. The book also contains treaties made with many foreign nations and different Indian tribes; acts passed at sessions of Congress in 1778 and 1780, and a great number of other interesting documents. The book would form a valuable addition to the collection of ancient documents of the Oregon Historical Society, and may eventually find its way there.

DEPENDED ON How THEY WERE COKED.—New Oregon potatoes from the clumbia Slough district are in the market. They sell at 3 cents per pound, and as they are not more than one-third grown this is only equal to 1 cent per pound when they are full grown. Many have a great liking for little new potatoes of the size of marbles when dressed with cream. They ought to be good, on the theory of the old Scotchman, who, when ld that mushrooms were nice cooked in butter, replied, with a snort: "Hoot, mon! gravel stones would be good fried in butter." And he was not a member of the golf club "eyether." Old Oregon farmers always made a point of having new potatoes on election day, so the tender tubers are just on time this year. Going to Nome.—Dr. J. A. Mitchell, of Silver City, Idaho, was at the Perkins last evening on his way to Nome, where he has acquired some mining interests, but, as he says himself, he is not going there to mine, but to practice his profes-sion. The doctor has spent most of his lifetime in the mining regions of Montanu and Idaho, and figures that his services me to extract as the miners are not going to respect those claims taken up by power of at-torney, while the law is liable to uphold the wholesale locators in the courts of Alaska Territory. He therefore expects to see lively times in the vicinity of Nome City this Summer, and goes prepared, with probes and lint for a series of local are coming to market in small quantities, just in time to give those who are getting tired of strawberries and can afford it an agreeable change. They sold yesterday at 17% cents per pound, while strawberries brought 5 to 6% cents. Strawberries are on the whole hardly up to standard in quality, though many present a fine ap-pearance. Ripe currents are also coming in. Wild blackberries are beginning to ripen, and it is said they are very plenti-ful. Many prefer them for canning to any other berry, the small huckleberry, which is never plentiful, being about as much filted. In point of flavor, the wild blackberry is away up, and every housekesper

DEATH OF LAURA RIGHT.-The death of Laura Rigby, of Woodstock, the notice of which appears in another column, was a peculiarly sail one. Her father, Mr. a peculiarly sad one. Her father, Mr. John Rigby, and grandfather, Cantain Elliott, are both on their way to Nome, and cannot hear the news for some time. The young lady was a student in the Portland High School, and was exceptionally bright and universally beloved by her friends and schoolmates. Mrs. Rigby is left alone with one child, a son. The funeral services were beld at 4 P. M. yesterday. An uncle. Mr. Warren Rigby, started lost evening for Oakland, Cal. started lest evening for Oakland, Cal.,

INCREASE IN CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.—The Custom-House officials are figuring on an increase in the amount of duties for the increase in the amount of duties for the present fiscal year over last year's receipts of considerably over $100,000. The receipts of considerably over $100,000. The receipts from duties last year amounted to $407,000, while the receipts for the present up to the end of May amount to $407,000, and there is about $80,000 more in sight from the bax ship now in port, and there is a cargo ship and an Oriental liner due this month. These could swell the receipts to considerable more than $100,000 above the receipts of last year, which more to the receipts of last year, which goes to show that the business of this port is not CENTRAL W. C. T. U.—The regular weekly meeting of the Central W. C. T. U.

Average Carce of Salmon.—Manager Harrington, of the Pillar Rock cannery, reports the casch of salmon about as good as can be expected at this time. Considerably more salmon are being received at Pillar Rock than at this time last year, as now all the seines are being operated, while last year the water was so high that the seines had to be hung up. No high water to put a stop to selfning operations is expected this year, and when a big is expected this year, and when a big run of flah comes in the seiners will be in clover. A very large simper area is yet tributary to Troutdale, and it will take years to exhaust the supply Troutdale's proximity to Portland, the doctor thinks is one of its main advantages, as the farmers in that vicinity can run their produce into a never-failing market, at short notice, while being free from the taxation necessarily imposed to support city government.

Poor Trout - Fishing generally has been a failure this season, and fish stories are practically a thing of the past. The law prohibiting the taking of trout under 5 inches in length has materially reduced the number caught, and there doesn't seem to be many trout of any length, great or small. Two fairment visited Dairy Creek a few days since and made a very good catch, and the cascades, a few days ago, and catching something over 380 fine trout. He ran Poor Trout - Fishing. - Trout - fishin GIFT TO BISHOP CRYH.—The high esteem in which Hishop Orth is held by the congregation of St. Laurence Catholic Church, who have been his purishioners for a number of years, was evinced by the liberal manner in which they chipped in Sunday evening to make up a purse for a pursue of them.

LOSGERS TO COMBINE-Loggers along the Columbia are taking steps to get up an organization similar to that in which the loggers on the Sound have for some time been combined. Circulars have been prepared to send to all the loggers along the Columbia inviting them to attend a meeting in this city a few days hence to bring about the proposed combination. The object of the combination will not be to raise the price of logs, but to keep an eye on the output of logs and endeavor to see that this does not exceed the demand and thus prevent the price from being cut down. The sawnill men say that the log-gers are making all the money this year, for the price of logs has been advanced, while the price of lumber has not. Loggers assert that when logs were away down in price the sawmill men made more than their share of the money, and they desire a fair shake in future.

New Street-Railwar Chossing.—The Portland Railway Company yesterday commenced the work of removing the old crossing on their Fifth-street line at the intersection of Fifth and Morrison streets preparatory to putting in a new one, which has been sadly needed for some time. The new crowling, which has been made at the company's carshops, is said by the foreman to be a "dandy." It is of extra heavy fron, and so braced and bolted that an earthquake cannot phase it. The rails an earthquake cannot phase it. The rails will be laid on 10-inch steel girders, laid in cement, and the whole structure will be as solid and permanent as it is possi-ble to make it.

SAMPLES OF NEW MAIL BOXES.-Person who desire to secure one of the new-style mail boxes, which will enable them to en-joy the privileges of the "house-to-house" collection of mail scheme, can see a sam-ple box at the private office of Postmaster Crossman, where it will remain for a few days. The boxes are provided with flags, which show when there is mail in them for the carrier to take away or mail left for the house. They are of metal, and very neat and durable.

Yesterday a fine, portly, benevolentlooking man from Pillar Bock way found a lot of coops of such fowls, which appeared to him to be suffering for both food and drink. He marched back into the store they were in front of and brought out a bucket of wheat, with which he proceeded to feed the fowls, and then he filled the drinking troughs with water.

Next he accuracy a big watering not and he filled the drinking troughs with water. Next he secured a big watering pot and played the rain-maker act, sprinkling the fowle till they were wet as drowned rats, and looked as if they had been dipped in thin mud. Then he found that some of the coops were so arranged that the inmates could not get their heads between the slats to get a drink, and he hunted up a hammer and ripped off some of the slate and placed them wider apart, so that the ducks were not only able to get a drink, but to crawl out, and in a few moments the sidewalk was covered few moments the sidewalk was covered with a flock of the worst bedruggled and most disreputable looking ducks imagina-

About this time one of the employes of the house came to the front, and as he raced after the ducke and got them back into the coops he suid things which will not hear repeating, and which quite shocked the benevolent and portly Good Samaritan, who will not be likely to undertake feeding another person's ducks and chickens again for a long time. Farmers who send fowls to market in coops in which they are not able to stand up or from which they are unable to get a drink should be punished by having their fowls confiscated by the Humane Officer. the house came to the front, and as he mane Officer.

GREAT SCENIC DRAMA. "Quo Vadis?" Pleasing Crowds at Cordray's Theater.

The magnificent production of "Que Vadis?" which Manager Cordray has provided for his patrons this week, is appreciated, judging from the large and enthu-siastic audience which witnessed the per-formance last night. The succeeding scenes surpass one another in beauty, till the last, with its magnificent scenery and its lions. The company is one of unusual strength, and gives a fine rendition of the play, which is one of the strongest that was ever put on the stage. There has been an unusually large advance sale, and there is no doubt that the house will be rowded all the week.

WILL THE TURK REARM.

The Porte Evidently Is Not Withou Money, and Is Not Defenseless.

Philadelphia Bulletin, The report that Turkey is purchasing new field artillery and Mauser rifles and that it is about to enter on an extensive policy of naval increase and renovation indicates that the Sultan's Government is less destitute than has been supposed The Porte may permit the salaries of its civil officials and the pay of its sol-diers to fall into arrears, but it cannot diers to fail into arrears, but it cannot buy costly military equipment or have its warships rebuilt in foreign yards without a plentiful expenditure of hard cash. That the Turkish army is still a formidable force is conceded by European military experts, and the ease with which the Sultan's War Minister mobilized a powerful army of fighting men in the war with Greece is a widence, that the "sick with Greece is evidence that the "sick man" would be an exceedingly ugly cus-tomer if he were attacked on land, in spite of the corruption and maladministration that are said to prevail in all branches of the government. It is worth while to recall the fact, also, that Turkey ranked as a strong naval power only a quarter of a century ago. During the last conflict with Russia the Turkish armor-clads dis-tinctly overmatched the Muscovite navy. and it seems probable that some of these vessels are capable of a degree of re-habilitation that would make them an important factor in warfare today.

It may be that the projected improve-ments will fail to materialize, but it will not do to assume, as certain newspapers in this country have done, that the Porte is weak and defenseless. It is doubtful if any fleet in the world could force the passage of the Dardanelles without suffering tremendous loss from the batteries of modern heavy guns which command it at many points. It is well to bear these considerations in mind, when the advisability of assailing the Sultan to obl-lect the American indemnity claim of $90,-600 is under discussion.
