TWO WELL-KNOWN LAWYERS ARE IN CONTEMPT.

Judge Frazer Orders Commitmen of Thomas O'Day and L. H. Tarpley-They Take an Appeal.

Judge Thomas O'Day, Democratic boss and lawyer, and his partner, L. H. Tar-pley, were ordered committed to the counthey obeyed the order of the court turning over the property of the estate of P. C. Judge O'Day was present in court, and took his sentence coolly, considering it was a rather warm day, but as he and his cartner did not feel like changing their places of residence just now, they gave notice, through their attorney, W. D. Fenof an appeal to the Supreme Court. appeal will serve to stay the decree of Judge Frazer.

Mr. Tarpley was not in attendance, but both were released on their own recognizance until the appeal papers are filed.

Meaers. O'Day and Tarpley hold the money, etc., as counsel for James McCann, Kate Wood and Annie McDonogh, heirs of P. C. McCann, deceased, and to whom Judge Cake, in the County Court, ordered the estate distributed. Chester V. Dolph, as attorney for the State of Oregon, about that same time began proceedings to es-cheat the property, denying that these persons are the heirs, and Judge Cleland appointed F. C. Miller as receiver. The case next got into Judge Frazer's department, and has been stubbornly con-

European cities and the demand is increasing from year to year.

"The prime crop of Oregon and Washington is lighter this year, on account of unfavorable conditions after the trees blessomed in the Spring, but in Idaho the yield is well up to the average. A good many new driers are being built in the Snake River Valley, in consequence of the increased yield. Were conditions as favorable in Oregon and Washington, the three states would ship 1200 carloads, instead of 500. The association will not handle green truit.

"But 500 carloads of dried primes means $500,000 to the producers of the Northwest, and this amount of money scattered among the prune-raisers will eventually make itself felt in the whole community." HUNTING HATCHERY SITES

Fish Commissioner Goes to the Ump qua-Sea Lions Still Active.

Fish Commissioner Reed left Portland Fish Commissioner Reed left Fortians this morning for Roseburg. From there he will go by private conveyance to a point 20 or 25 miles above, on the Umpqua River, for the purpose of selecting a hatchery site. He has two points on the river in view, which he selected early in the Spring. The water was too high then for him to determine which of the two places was the better suited to his purpose. He will make the choice this trip, and will arrange to have a rack put in and will arrange to have a rack put in first to determine the supply of fish that can be taken. When this is done, if he finds the supply justifies it, a complete hatchery will be put in at that point. Hollister D. McGuire was hunting for a location for this same hatchery on the Umpqua when he lost his life, more than a year ago. Mr. Reed says he shall take no such chance as Mr. McGnire did with the treacherous stream, but will travel on land most of the way along the river. Next week Mr. Reed will go to Coos Bay o hunt for a hatchery site there. He topes to have hatcherles going on both the Umpqua and the Coos in time to get a good supply of small fry for those for it. Lim has no debt, so we are paying no interest on county warrants, and there is very little grumbling about taxes. The 14% mill levy this year, however, only raises $15,000 for county expenses, but the actual cost of running the county for a year is $34,000. Whether the levy was put down for campaign purposes this year, I cannot say, but I think the County Clerk will have to issue some warrants before next year's taxes are all paid. This would mean a higher levy in 1901."

Mr. Parrish thinks the reason taxes are so low in Linn is due to the size and wealth of the county. Beveral attempts have been made in recent years, he says, to create a new county out of the more remote sections, but these have all falled. Scio, he says, was an aspirant for county seat of a proposed county at one time, and He says that the salmon run on the Lower Columbia is showing slight signs of improvement the past day or two, but that the run is light yet. It is his opinthat the sea lions are getting as many fish as the fishermen are. He says that he is confident that the lions devour as many fish every season as are turned lated the cannerles. It is the purpose of the the cannerles. It is the purpose of the Fish Commissioner to try to get some sort of an appropriation next year to help him exterminate this pest. He thinks many of them can be killed by mining the sand heds where they play with dynamite. But to do this takes time and some money. The fishermen and cannerymen do not care to put up the money, and Mr. Reed does not feel justified in taking it all out of his own pocket, though he says he is willing to subscribe liberally to the fund. "I think," said he yesterday, "that the

PROGRAMME FOR BIG CELEBRA-TION ON THE FOURTH.

Meeting of the General Committee Last Evening-Progress Made In Soliciting Subscriptions.

At the meeting of the General Fourth of July Committee last evening enthusi-asm, mixed with good, hard common sense, predominated, and as a result there will be witnessed in the City of Portland during the three days of the carnival week a celebration that, from the standpoint of the spectator, could not be surpassed, while it will be also well managed in every respect by the business men in charge. It was voted last evening that

It was voted last evening that the complete subscription list of this year's fund should be published, as well as the report of the finance committee, showing the expenditure of all money received. The energetic work of the committee, in collecting subscriptions is almost over, and a few days' more vigorous canvassing will provide the entire amount needed for the three days' celebration. No feature will be slighted, and rethe funds will be apportioned liberally and wisely for the parade, music, fire-works, balloon ascensions, literary exercises and amusements that will form the hackbone of the programme.

A new feature elaborated last evening, that will prove attractive and more than novel, was the adoption of General Summers' suggestion for a morning parade made up of divisions of plug-uglies, floral-secontal blevyles and carriages and inobliged to compete with each other in dis-posing of their prunes." Mr. Dosch said, sectorday, "but now each will ship through interests of all, and at a much smaller commission than the brokers have been decorated bicycles and carriages and industrial floats. The plug-ugly division will introduce clowns and mummers in costume, Chinese and paper-mache bands, and all of the mirth-producing adjuncts of a circus or Wild West show, and every effort will be made to give full sway to the fantastic element so pleasing to the juvenile population. In the floral division liberal prizes will be offered for the most artistically W. G. Muckle, a second of the most artistically w. G. Muckle, a second of the most artistical w. G. In the industrial division, no fake advertising schemes will be allowed, but the committee is anxious to have all the manufacturing and industrial enferprises. the committee is anxious to have an the manufacturing and industrial enterprises represented by appropriate floats. With every division will go a band of music and also a float in which daylight fireworks will be set off. These are unique and make noise as well as produce pretty fire effects, one of which will be the unfurling of a large American flag in mid-air, after the bursting of an explosive

For the evening parade arrangements are going on nicely; fireworks have been ordered, and fire floats with glaring disordered, and fire floats with glaring dis-plays will be scattered at intervals through its length. There will be six divisions. Following the grand marshal and his aids will be an emblematical float, with the figures of Uncle Sam and Columbia, draped with the Stars and Stripes, with red, white and blue electri-cal effects. Next will follow the military troops two divisions of civic organizacal effects. Next will follow the ministry troops, two divisions of civic organizations, the Chinese division, with its fantastic dragon and fireworks, and the mounted cavalry and artillery. The outside military companies will be invited to attend, and also a battalion of the Seventh Regiment from Vancouver. All of the civic organizations will be invited to the civic organizations will be invited to be represented by floats, and to march in the parade, and many are already plan-ning characteristic representations. Gen-eral C. U. Gantenbein, chalrman of the parade committee, is anxious to get in immediate communication with all the organizations desiring representation in

"ORIGINAL" REPUBLICANS. The Party Was Organized in Many

States About the Same Time. PORTLAND, June 11 .- (To the Editor.)

PORTLAND, June II.—(To the Editor.)
—There seems to be confusion as to the original Republicans who are invited to attend the National Convention at Philadelphia on the 19th inst.

Those invited as survivors of the Pittaburg convention of the Winter of 1856, and not the survivors of the Fremont convention of June II, 1856. Of the latter, there must be many more than the 14 or 15 referred to. I know of several myself. They are scattered throughout the Central West. The Philadelphians, in their invitation, seem to have made a local af-tral West. The Philadelphians, in their livertation, seem to have made a local affair out of it. This is not a matter of much importance, but it is well to keep history straight.

The claim is also made that the Pittsburg convention gave birth to the Republican party. The truth is the Republican party surgang me spontaneously all these

The party was organized in Illi-nois, at Bloomington in June, 1856, and it elected Mr. Bissell, its candidate for Gov-ernor. LEVI W. MYERS.

PLAY BALL

Now that the baseball season has got fully on its feet, about 99 men out of every 100 are more or less interested. It's a very ancient game. According to history, Adam was the first "base" man, Cain was the second "base" man. He put out Abel. Noah took in the "game." Moses went in among the "rushes." The ser-pent was the first "catcher." He caught Eve with an apple. Lot and Mrs. Lot had a lot of trouble. They were both "put out." Goliath made a "hit." So you see this idea that baseball is something new is all wrong. Of course, curve-pitching is of recent date. "Stealing bases" can now be done without one of Chief McLauchlan's men arresting the thief. But think of the improvement in the National game-think of the improvement in everything-think of the improvement in clothes since Adam's time-think of what

NERVY WOMAN FRIGHTENS BOLD, BAD MAN.

Made Him Come Out From Under Bed and Read Him a Scvere Lecture.

A sneak thief found his way into the residence of F. Sealy, at Second and Morrison streets Friday and reached the second floor without being observed. Mrs. Sealy, hearing a noise upstairs, went up and discovered the fellow's feet protruding from under a bed, where he had sought to hide when he heard her coming.

Some women look under the bed for a man all their lives without ever finding one, but Mrs. Sealy, who is not one of the nervous kind, found this man without looking for him. Bhe was alone in the house, with the exception of the unbidden guest, but she summoned up all her courage and ordered the villian to come forth. He crawled out, looking very sheepish, age and ordered the villian to come forth. He crawled out, looking very sheepish, and was asked what he meant by being there. He said he had been attacked by a ruffian, and had succeeded in escaping from him and had ran into the house to hide from him. When asked if he had stolen anything, he protested his innocence.

He was told to step out on the upper story porch until a search could be made, but he protested against this arrangement, saying the villian was still pursuing him, and would see him. Mrs. Sealy then or-dered him to stand in a corner till fur-ther orders. She made an inspection and found that no money or other valuables were missing, and having no warrant for the arrest of the man, allowed him to depart.

He tried the door of another house in the neighborhood, but failed to gain admission, and is still at large. With this fellow and others of the same stripe roaming the town, people should be very careful about leaving doors open or unlocked, and if any man finds him in or prowling about a house he should be turned over to the police.

Were Treated Royally.

Captain A. M. Cox, who accepted the invitation to give the ritualistic services at the unveiling of the monument of the Woodmen at Rainier, Sunday, arrived Woodmen at Rainier, Sunday, arrived back Sunday night at 19 o'clock with the party, well pleased with his trip. He suid that all who went were treated in a royal manner. There were about 40 in the party, including the degree team from Multnoman Camp, No. 7. They were met by a delegation at Rainier and escoried to the hall, where they received refreshments. Then after the unveiling ceremonics, which took place in the cemetery, the mests were served with a fine dinner. The guests were served with a fine dinner. The Rainier people seemed bent on seeing that their visitors should get a good impres-sion of the hospitality of the place.
