EVE OF CONVENTION

All Is in Readiness for the Meeting Today.

M'KINLEY BY ACCLAMATION

A Three Days' Programme Has Been Arranged by the National Committee.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18 .- Tomorros on the 44th anniversary of the day or which General John C. Fremont was non insted by the first Republican Convention held at Music Fund Hali, on Locus street, in this city, the National Republi can Convention will assemble at the Ex can Convention win assemble at the Ex-position building, in West Philadelphia. The cymbals of a conquering army never clashed with more vigor than they do here tonight. Amid the thousands of warriots there is but one choice for leader. warriots there is but one choice for leader. His face is engraved on banners, it is framed in flowers and in ivy on the walls; it adorns the windows of the shops and looks down upon the swarming crowde from every conspicuous place. McKinley again will lead the gray beards and the poung men in the November battle. Banners are dipped before his portrait, and the mention of his name arouses enthusiasm. When Senator Foraker concludes his speech in the convention Wednesday.

his opecch in the convention Wednesday, a scorn wild and tempestuous will shake the great hall.

But that outburst of enthusiasm will But that outburst of enthuslasm will only be the forerunner of the pandemo-nium that will reign if Roosevelt should be named to stand beside him in the com-ing battle. The stampede in his favor started reveterday throw the town into delirium. It swept through the delega-tions who had come with favorite sons to present like a prairie fire. Like an immense tidal wave it hore down every-thing before it. The booms for the canimmense tidal wave it bore down everything before it. The booms for the candidates of other men collapsed like shells when it struck them. The servet was not hard to find. Platt and Quay, whose object is to humiliate Hanna, claim victory.
They might congratulate themselves on their work. They wielded no magician's wand. The secret lay down in the hearts of the Republicans of the country. Roosevelt's name, unlike that of other candidates, instantly struck a responsive chord dates, instantly struck a responsive chord in the popular breast. It captured the heart of the convention. It mattered nothing to the rank and file that Hanna and Allison and Grosvenor and Thurston and others felt chagrined and strained every nerve to stamp out the fire. It mattered not that even Roosevelt and his friends poured water upon it. Their ef-forts were as futile as hand grenades against a conflagration. The people would hear of no one cise. They wore his pic-tures, they shouted his name. They con-glowed him today as already nominated. The town was Roosevelt mad.

The Governor himself was sincerely anxious to avoid the nomination. Some of the friends of the other candidates, empittered by the havor his sudden acceptants.

created with their favorite's chances, were heard to intimate that he had been filrting with the situation from the first. He appealed to them to stem the tide, and they did what they could, reinforced at every point by Hanna and his lieutenants. General Greens, in his behalf, even called on the delegations and in his name asked them not to support him. But the temper of the convention Human nature has its limits, so at o'clock this afternoon, after a day o terrific pressure from both sides, Roose velt issued a statement. Though it thrust aside the crown in words, it was regarded as a virtual surrender to the will of the convention. The inside history of the struggle which preceded Roosevelt's announcement—the secret conference of Hanna and his friends, the joint conference. cances with Roosevelt, the persuasion, appeals, entreaties and even threats said to have been used—will make a chapter forever memorable. Every sort of story was affoat. It was said that Hanna served notice that Roosevelt's candidacy, although it would have been eminently acceptable at first, put forward as it was by the enemies of the Administration, did not now meet with approval, and that the fight would be carried to the last ditch. Roosevelt was said to have been told by his friends that to yield would be to stand in his own light as a candidate for President four years hence; the Vice-Presi-dency was a graveyard from which he could never be resuscitated. His place, they urged, was at the head of the ticket in New York again this Fall. In the last proposition Rocs-velt concurred.

On the other hand it was said Platt emissaries argued that to turn his back on the manifest wish of the Republicans of the country would be to forfelt his right to the future support of the New York organization and the Republicans of the state would look elsewhere for a can-didate for Governor. Of course, there are those who are always uncharitable enough attribute sinister motives to Platt. two birds with one stone eliminate Roosevelt from New York politics and umiliate Hanna for his uncomplimentary riticism of Woodruff. Gossip among New Yorkers even went so far as to suggest that with Roosevelt transferred to the National ticket, Woodruff was already agreed upon as the candidate for Governor of New York. Roosevelt had also delegates are all desirous of carrying out the President's wishes, and if the intimaonce became the conviction that McKinley himself would prefer another candidate, the popular choice would be

Mr. Platt very shrewdly decided that the New York delegation should not formally indorse Roosevelt. It is said that Roosevelt insisted upon this. Then, if he were Pennsylvania delegation to continue to fan the flames.

All day the delegates and the crowds were abandoning themselves to the joys of the hour. From dawn until midnight the air never ceased to throb to the pulsastantly re-echoed the steady tramp of feet of marching clubs parading with flying banners. Tonight the throngs were enthusiastic with delight. As a prelude to the event with the flash and scream of rockets and the giare of Greek fire, turning night into day, 30,000 organized Republicans marched through the streets amid great enthusiasm. The crowds overthe sidewalks till the process to force its way through packed mass of humanity as a strong vessel plows her course up stream through packed ice in Winter. Although the work of the convention compassed within two days, the National committee has arranged a three days' programme, with one session of the convention each day. The nights will be filled in with receptions, smokers, en-tertainments at the clubs, and open-air probably will be brief. It will be called to order by Chairman Hanna and Sena-tor Wolcott, the brilliant Colorade prator, as temporary chairman, will deliver his keynote address. A call of the roll and the announcement of the standing com-mittees, with the perfection of the permanent organization, will wind up the proceedings of the day.

CATHOLIC FEDERATION. Plan to Organize All Societies in the United States. NEW YORK, June 18.—With a view to present action, a project that has for its object the federation of all the societies in the United States composed of Roman Catholic laymen is being discussed in Catholic circles throughout the country. Some influential ciergymen and laymen are interested. By the plan all Catholic societies are to become affiliated, although

CENSUS OF PORTO RICO.

Nearly One Million Inhabitants in the Little Island.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Inspector-General J. P. Sanger, director of the census of Porto-Rico, has issued bulletin No. 1, giving itemized statements of the population of the Island, according to the census taken October 16 last. The population of the Island, as shown by that census, was 503.24, about nine-tenths of the population of the State of Maryland in 1880. There are 384 persons to the square mile, the density of population being about the same as in Massachusetts, twice that in New York, and KNIGHTS OF LABOR. General Assembly Meeting in Wash ington Interrupted.

WASHINGTON, June 18-A special meeting of the general assembly of the Knights of Labor, acting under a call of Master Workman Chemberlain, began nor of New York. Roosevelt had also other advisers who insisted that it would be suicide to decline the nomination.

All day long, Hanna's efforts have been directed to the rebuilding of the booms wrecked yesterday in the Hoosevelt tornado. All favorite sons have been encouraged to remain in the race, and not extracted the hall and arrested Messrs. without some success. The nomination of Wee-Fresident is three days away, by an employe of Mr. Hayes, charging Much can be accomplished in that time by them with maliclous trespars. They were shrewd, hard-headed political leaders. The

Hayes then barricaded the door and pro-ceeded with the meeting. The preliminary work of appointing a credentials committee was proceeded with and the assembly took a recess until af-ternoon, pending the report from that committee After their release from court, Mr. Parsons and his friends returned to beadquarters, and an effort was made nominated, it would be said that the nomination was forced on him. But while the New York delegation refrained from indorsing Roosevelt, Platt is said to have passed the word to Quay and the Pennsylvania delegation to consider the hall and both factions retired. The doors were closed and remained tightly locked for the remainder of the day.

Woodworkers' Strike.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Nearly 2000 mem-bers of the Amalgamated Woodworkers' Union met last evening in secret session to consider the refusal of the manufacturers to enter into a new agreement granting a 10 per cent increase of wages. The result of the meeting will not be of-ficially declared before Wednesday, but it is believed that the union decided to strike in the event of a second refusal on the part of the manufacturers. Between now and Wednesday a committee representing the woodworkers will con cate with the manufacturers and endeav-or to reach an amicable understanding on the wage question.

The demand for an increase of wages comes from the employes, numbering about 3000. In the event of a general strike of the woodworkers, fully 5000 men would be affected.

AMERICA IN CHINA.

Mantla Next Door to World's Grentest Markets.

Minister Wu Ting Fang in Ainsite's Minister Wu Ting Fang in Ainsile's.
America has a magnificent opportunity in the Orient, if she will only reach out and take it. A people which has done so much and has taken advantage of so many chances will surely not fall to reap for its commerce the benefits which it has carned by its bravery. The poression of the Fullippine Isands brings the United States close up to the greatest markets in the world-markets which have not just begun to be developed, but which have already shown a capacity for development that a great commercial propic will understand. There are many millions of people in China and they are people will understand. There are many millions of people in Caina and they are ready to buy from other nations the things which they can use. Some in America seem to think that the Chinese now manufacture practically all that is sufficient for their cwn needs. Far from it. Of course, it is true that for centu-ries before China was open to foreign trade its people made the goods they used, and this seemed sufficient; but now China is open to foreign trade, and now China is spen to foreign these, and manufactured goods come from America and Europe. We buy them readily. America can sell us goods more cheaply than our people could manufacture them. This is true especially of cotton cloth. That which we manufacture currelves we weave with our own hands, and it is very durable; but the American prod-uct is very fine in comparison, and now it has come to be in common use with us. In some parts of the empire American and English cottons have taken almost entirely the place of our native manufacture. With finer dresses, silks and that sort of thing, it is not yet true;

but with cheaper articles it is.

China takes kindly to improvements
We have not only the railroad, but the telegraph and the telephone. The telegraph lines extend throughout the length and breadth of China. There is not a province now without the telegraph. The first cable in China was laid by the Dau-leh company, and our principal telegraph company is now superintended by a Dansh engineer. The first telegraph company was organized by an official named Sheng Hsuan Hual, commonly known as Sheng Taotai. He induced Chinese merchants to subscribe and built the under government protection. The line extended from Tien Tsin for a short dis-tance: then it was continued to Shang-hal; then to Pekin, and so branched out from north to south, from east to west. This was 30 years ago, and the telegraph built by private enterprise under govern-ment control, with Danish operatives, in the main now covers a wide extent of territory. When it came to extending the system to more remote parts of the country, the private commercial company did not like to undertake the construc-tion and so the government has built these lines itself. Thus there are practically two systems, one semiofficial, the other solely under government control.

The telephone has been introduced more recently. The first telephones were brought in by foreigners for their own convenience, and their use spread gradually. The first line was put up at Shanghal and others followed in different treaty ports. They are all managed by different private companies. We have no long-distance telephone as yet, but that will come in time. With the railroad, the cally two systems, one semiofficial, the will come in time. With the railroad, the telegraph, the telephone, and a great population thickly settling a vast extent of territory, the future possibilities of the Chinese trade must appeal to the commercial instincts of the United States. With a footbold in the Philippines, Ame ica will have a great advantage over other nations which lack possessions in that part of the world. If Americans, know how to turn this to good account, they will be able to do wonders.

result of repeated colds. My nose was continually stopping up and at times I could not breathe through it at all, but was forced to breathe through my mouth, which had the tendency to keep the throat irritated and dry. There was a watery discharge from the nose and dripping into the throat.

As long as the disease was confined to my head and throat I didn't pay much attention to it. Finally its effects became constitutional, and when I became constitutional, and when I be gan treatment at the Copejand Institute I was in bad shape. Everything I at caused me great distress: I had heart-
