KIRK IN CUSTODY. Crime Committed on a Ship in Portland Harbor Last January-

Will Be Brought Back.

SUPPOSED MURDERER OF WILLIAM

James L. Warren, the supposed mur-derer of William Kirk, first mate of the ship Clarence S. Bement, has been appro-hended in Savannah, Ga. Such was the news received yesterday evening by Chief McLauchian, who has scattered over the country the murderer's description and country the murderer's description and characteristic marks that might lead to his identification. A day or two ago the Chief received a telegram from the po-lice authorities of Savannah, Ga., asking whather he market her control of the country of the control of the country whether he wanted Warren, and an af-firmative answer was sent. He received the reply of yesterday evening that the prisoner would be held until sent for. There is no doubt that the right man has ested, as Warren usual marks of identification, such as a cut on the left side of his face, and the index finger of the right hand cut off at ond joint, Chief McLauchlan will send two detectives East immediately to bring him back, and the necessary extradition papers will be drawn up at once.

On the evening of Tuesday, January 23, or the morning of Wednesday, January 24, the murder was committed. The mur-dered man, William Kirk, was first mate on the Clarence S. Bement, then in port, On that evening he was sitting on a lounge in his stateroom when the first was struck, as indicated by the hat the wall behind the lounge was ind the lounge was spattered with blood. There were no evidences of a struggle, the vicious blows having been sufficient to daze him before he could rise to his own defense. The skull behind the left ear was fractured. and an ugly wound appeared just over the door of Kirk's cabin was opened with some difficulty by the second officer, J. P. Guthrie, and the watchman, J. J. Byrne, the only persons on the ship, which was discharging ballast at Weldler's mill. Kirk was found lying in his bunk, covered with blood. The door had been locked on the outside by the murdeer and the key taken away, robbersy having been added to the crime of mur-der. Kirk had in his possession $400 of his own money, and was known to be caring for money belonging to members of the crew, making the total amount stolen between $600 and $700. The motive of the crime was plainly robbery, as Kirk was well liked by all the sallors who worked under him. Kirk was not dead when found, but could not be restored to reason. He was a native of New Eng-land, was 61 years of age, and had a family in New York City.

Suspicion immediately fell upon Warren, the boatswain of the vessel, who appeared at the time of the murder. The police made a vigorous search for him, but no trace could be found. Chief McLauchlan had a suspicion that he would eventually turn up in Savannah, Ga., as he knew the man was married to a Savannah woman. Warren had newly shipped with the vessel, and few knew his name or previous history. He is an American, 30 years old, five feet eight inches tall, with sandy mustache, brown eyes and reddish hair. Detectives traced him to Third and Washington streets where streets, where every clew was lost.

MADE HIM RUN AWAY. Effect of Excited People on a Peace

As a carload of passengers was coming down the incline on Third street, be-tween Hall and Montgomery, about noon yesterday, a horse attached to a delivery wagon was met going along at a jog trot, without a driver. The "runaway" created areat excitement among the reccreated great excitement among the per ple in the car. The motorman leaned as far over as he could and waved his arms as if to encourage the horse. Wemen waved their umbreilas wildly at him, and men shouted orders for him to stop.

The horse looked tired. He had been at work all the morning delivering ice cream or something else, and he felt that it was time to go home, and, as the driver had left him standing a long time, he decided to make a break for his stable and dinner. He was jogging along quietly enough, keeping his own side of the street and bothering no one until he mot the car. Even then he paid no attention to the shouting and waving of arms and umbrellas, and kept on the even tenor of his way.

Finally a young man armed with a cane stepped down from the car, and, placing himself almost in front of the "runaway," flourished his cane and yelled "Whoa!" but as the horse approached he stepped back, and without attempting to grasp the bridle or the trailing lines hit the animal a violent blow across the side of his head with the cane.

This brought things to a climax. The horse broke into a run and the women into screams, and they proceeded to vent their feelings on the unfortunate young man.

"What a shame!" said half a dozen,
and "What an outrage!" said the remainder. "What do you mean by striking a horse that way?" shouted an elderly man; "haven't you any more sense than that?"

The young man clambered to his seat in the car, looking as if he was very much ashamed of himself, and wished he had never been born, and, during the remainder of the trip, listened to all sorts of uncomplimentary comment on his silly

"No one," said a fat man, "Is called upon to imperil life or limb in inter-fering with a runaway horse, unless it is necessary to do so because some one is in danger. Waying hats or umbrelias or dancing about and shouting in front of a runaway horse only frightens the animal. A man ought never to draw a pistol un-A man ought never to draw a pistol un-less he is prepared to use it, and ought never to attempt to stop a runaway horse by scaring him."

AL SMITH WOUNDED BUT NOT KILLED BY HIS WIFE.

Woman Says the Shooting Was Aceldental-Marder of Emms Golden.

Early yesterthy morning the report of a pistol was heard on First street between Alder and Morrison, followed by the screams of a man's voice. The police department was immediately informed of the shooting, and the patrol wagon sent out. Al Smith, the engineer of the river steamnedistely informed of the ar Suith, the engineer of the river steam-ar Vulcan, was found upstairs in the opariments occupied by himself and wife in the Heggele bulking, lying on the floor in gress agony, having been shot in the back. Mrs. Smith was doing everything possible to minister to the wounded man's suffering, and the pistol was found on the floor.

Inquiries from the police officers falled inquiries from the police officers falled to elicit much information as to how the shooting took place. Mrs. Smith first usked, "Do I have to tell you?" and when answered "Not necessarily," stated that the shooting was accidental. Subsequently size admitted having shot him, though deckaring that the discharge was accidental. Jealousy is believed to have been the cause of the domestic trouble, which he cause of the domestic trouble, which

The bullet lodged in Smith's back, a few inches from the spine. He was removed restorday to St. Vincent's Hospital, and was placed under the care of City Physician Wheeler. The wound did not prove to be serious, and his recovery is certain. His wife was not arrested.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER. Killing of Emma Golden Apparently

Deliberate.

Deliberate.

The murder of Emma Golden, a colored woman, in the North End early yesterday morning by Fay Severe, also colored, seems to have been one of the most cold-blooded that has ever disturbed that guarter of the city. Suspicion that Emma Golden was attempting to allevate the affections of her husband was the motive for the crime, and there is every evidence for believing that it was premeditated and perpetrated at the earliest opportuinty. The stabbing occurred at 2:15 A. M. inty. The stabbing occurred at 2:15 A. M. in front of the "Dollar Bill" saloon, at Fourth and Everett. The weapon used was a villainous-looking dirk about eight inches long, and the viotim was killed by

Yesterday morning, before the report of the stabbing affray was received at the poice station, Julius Severe, accompanied by his wife, Fay Severe, walked into the office at Second and Oak and informed Captain Homan that there had been a little cutting scrape down town, in which his wife was mixed up, and he wished to arrange for her reand he wished to arrange for her re-lease on bonds. While they were talking of the affair, the patrol wagon had vis-lted the place where the murder hap-pened, and found the Golden woman dead. Fay Severe was accordingly placed in

About 2 o'clock in the morning Fay Severe had even her husband, Julius Severe drinking in a saloon with Emma Golden, and her jealousy was immediately aroused. Arming hereelf with a dirk, she went in search of Emma Golden, dirk, she went in scarch of Emma Golden, whom she found in company with another colored woman in front of the "Dollar Hill" saloen. With a yell of warning, "You fool with my man and I'll cut out your heart!" she selzed Emma Golden and canbbed her through the brart. The latter cried for help, and the spectators separated them before anothes blow could be struck, a white spectator securing the knife for evidence. Emma Golden died a few seconds later.

HUMES IS IN THE LEAD

TANDS THE BEST CHANCE OF BE-ING WASHINGTON'S GOVERNOR.

enttle Man Talks About Politics in That State-Wilson Out of It.

George U. Piper, of Seattle, is spending a few days in Portland. Mr. Piper is low in business in Seattle, and finds con-iderable time to engage in politics, being me of the active friends of Judge Humes, candidate for the Republican nomination or Governor. He was seen at the Hotel Portland yesterday by an Oregonian re-porter and questioned as to the political situation in Washington.

"Yes, everybody is talking politics over our way," replied Mr. Piper, "and we will doubtless see a very interesting cam-paign both before and after the nominating conventions. In the Republican ranks the Governorship is the all-absorbing is-sue, and there are numerous candidates in the field, but I think I can say with confidence that Mayor Thomas Jefferson Humes, of Seattle, will be the next chief executive. The ex-Senator Wilson wing of the Republican party is opposed to Humes' candidacy, and has centered its He remarked that he had heard that the support on ex-State Senator Frink, of Seattle, but the recent Ellensburg conworld was growing better all the time, and, judging from the work being done on Third street, this ought to be true.

Humes is indorsed by King County he will be certain of nomination. Realizing this, the Wilson people started a move ment for Frink in King County, immedi-ately after the convention adjourned at Ellenaburg. Humes had to be headed off. Wilson's Post-intelligencer, assisted by the populistic evening paper, began to boom Frink, and, at the same time, en-deavored to make it appear that Humes deavored to make it appear that Humes was not even a factor; that the people had elected him Mayor and did not propose that he should, run for Governor, So the fight started early, and has been going on ever since, with the primaries yet several weeks in the future. Humes' friends have no been idle, and, while they have no newspaper to tell their side of the story, most of the influential workers in the party are loyal to their candidate, and there is little doubt that they will win a decisive victory.

"Wilson and his friends have reason for opposing Judge Humes, for the latter is probably more directly the cause of the former's failure of re-election to the United States Senate than any other man onited States Senate than any other man in the state. Humes and his friends pre-vented Wilson from securing the Legis-lative vote of King County, as did Senafor Foster prevent him getting Pierce, and Levi Ankeny the southeastern counties. Wilson is a candidate again, and hopes, through his newspaper and other cor-poration interests, to succeed Senator Turner. To get hold of the party mahinery, of course, he would like to name friend for Governor, who, in turn, could use the influence and patronage of his high office in his behalf. His selection is Frink, and every Federal office-holder in the state (nearly all of whom Wilson appointed), is shouting Frink's praises in the four directions. Mr. Ankeny is the only one mentioned, so far, as a candidate for the Senate against Wilson, and it is conceded that the fight will narrow down to these two. Mr. Wilson knows that Judge Humes will oppose him.

"E. Helster Guie, of Seattle, a young attorney of ability, who was speaker of the lower house at the last session of the Legislature, is also a candidate for Governor. Mr. Guie is opposed to Wilson, and has always heretofore affiliated with the Humes people. Mr. Guie and Judge Humes are good friends, and there is no one in King County whom the Humespeo-ple would rather he indorsed for Governor in case flumes should fail. Hon, J. O'B. Scobey, of Olympia. Is also a candidate. He is an anti-Wilson man, and has al-ready been indorsed by Thurston County. He will undoubtedly have a considerable following in the convention. So, as a matter of fact, it is Wilson and Prink against the field, with the field in much the strongest position.

The people of Seattle would like to have a representative in Congress, but it is conceded that Congressman Jones, of Yakima, and Cougressman Cushman, of Tacoma, are entitled to renomination; and King will probably have to be content to wait a while longer before securing rep-resentation at Washington, D. C. By every consideration of right, Seattle, the largest city in the state, and the most important scaport on Puget Sound, should have representation in Congress. This is oubly true now that our Oriental com-

Already there is a fight on between Prosecuting Attorney McEliroy and ex-Mayor Ronald for control of the King County delegation. RETURN THE BATTLE-FLAGS

A Union Veteran Who Wants to Do the Right Thing.

PORTLAND, June 24 .- (To the Editor.) -Permit me, a veteran of the Civil War, most emphatically to indorse the article in your Sunday's issue under the cap-tion of "Why Not Return the Battle-Flagst" I am ashamed that the present head of the National G. A. R. could utter such words as "the time is not yet ripe." The time has been ripe ever since Ap pomattox, when that greatest of sol-diers, General U. S. Grant, said, "Let us have peace," and had the motion to return these battle-flags been put to a vote, the real veterans of the fighting lines then and there would have carried it with a hurrah.

No Confederate soldier has cause to feel dishonor in the lost battle-flags. For proof ask the Federals who actually took ithem in. The trouble at this late day is the G. A. R. is infested with too many officials whose war record will not bear the X-rays of history. In the hearts of those who stood in front of the Confederate firing lines from the beginning to the end there is a deeper respect for the valor of the Confederate soldier than expressed by the spirit of the coffeecoolers. I am sure that all real veterans of the Federal armies are proud of the courage shown under all trying con-ditions by the Johnnies. I hear that yell still, and feel proud to say those men were Americans.
