SIGNS OF A RISING IN NANKIN Canton on the Eve of a Scene of Bloodshed—More Massacres in the Province of Che Li.

LONDON, June 26. A fresh phase of the ebullition in China is the probability of immediate outbreaks in the great southern provincial dominions. The populace there is daily assuming a more hostile attitude toward foreigners, and the latter perceive symptoms of a general rising, especially at Nankin, where recently he has been on duty in the office of the Adjutant-General in the city.

The Viceroy himself trusts the Americans in this crisis. He says that they alone want no territory, and he places himself largely almost unreservedly in their hands. At an important conference today he reiterated this statement. All the missionaries have been notified of their immediate peril through confidential runners.

The Canton population reaches 2,000,000, in addition to 250,000 on the narrow and flat-bottomed river boats. Most of the people are disaffected, and incendiary proclamations are increasing the number of the violent.
