BASEBALL FOR CHARITY VISITING AND WEDDING CARDS

GREAT GAME TODAY ON MULTNOMAH FIELD.

Railroad Passenger Men Will Meet the Commercial Travelers for the Baby Home Benefit.

The greatest game of the season is to be played this afternoon. The contest teams will be made up of the traveling passenger agents and the commercial drummers. The game will be played on Multnomah Field, the proceeds being devoted to the Baby Home. Play will be called at 2 P. M. sharp. Prior to the game there will be a parade, the procession starting from the clubhouse of the Multnomah Club at 2 P. M. sharp.

The Third Regiment band will head the parade, with C. H. Gleim, of the Colorado Midland, as drum major. Policemen Casey, followed by Mayor Rowe and the umpire, General Summers, of the Second Oregon Volunteers. Then will come the physicians and surgeons—Drs. Andrew C. Smith, Kenneth J. MacKenzie, A. C. Pantan and D. H. Rand. Following these will come the players—the commercial men and the traveling passenger agents. The crowd in attendance will surpass the ambulance, kindly volunteered by the Good Samaritan Hospital.

The route of the parade will be from the Multnomah clubhouse down Chapman street to Washington, Washington to Sixth, Sixth to Burnside, Burnside to Third, Third to Morrison, and Morrison to the grounds.

The players of the contesting teams will be dressed in fantastic costumes, so two being alike. In order that the spectators may not tire of the contest, there will be sufficient innovations to relieve the monotony of the game, the players of each team realizing they cannot play ball sufficiently well to amuse or interest the spectators present. Being played for "charity's sake," it is a good guess that the crowd in attendance will surpass anything that has yet appeared on Multnomah Field.

While the game will be burlesque, yet there is sufficient rivalry between the contesting teams to make the contest one of blood, and neither will submit to defeat if victory is possible. Wagers galore have been made, the road men staking their salaries on their representatives, and the commercial men doing likewise. For weeks past the two teams have been in practice, and while they will do their best, yet it is a question which can put up the better game.

General Summers, who, as umpire, will be master of the field, will do what he can to keep the interest of the Baby Home for whose benefit the game is played. It was stated yesterday that the Governor was already down for a possible.

INTENDED FOR OTHERS.

Difficult to Believe Advice Applies to Us.

"While reading the morning paper at breakfast, I frequently read over the advertisements of Postum Food Coffee, and finally began to wonder if it was a fact that my daily headache and dyspepsia were due to coffee drinking.

"I never occurred to me that the warning fitted my case.

"I had been on the diet card for more than 10 years, having tried a strictly meat diet, also a strictly vegetable diet, and at other times left off breakfast for a time again, yet it is a question which of these efforts were futile in ridding me of the steady half-sick condition under which I labored.

"I had never once thought of overhauling 'dear old coffee,' but when it finally occurred to me to make the trial and take up Postum, I immediately discovered where the difficulty all these years came from. I now eat anything for breakfast, as much as I desire, doing justice to a good meal, and the same at lunch and dinner, with never a headache or other disagreeable symptom. My only 'crankiness' now is to know that I have Postum served as it should be made; that is, properly boiled. There is a vast difference between poorly-made Postum and good.

"C. E. Hasty, of Alameda, Cal., insists that he owes his life to me because I introduced him to Postum. I have a number of friends who have been finally cured of stomach and bowel trouble by the use of Postum Food Coffee in place of regular coffee.

MOVING INTO PORTLAND

PACIFIC STATES TELEPHONE COMPANY GETTING READY.

President John I. Sabin Takes Up His Residence Here—New Building Will Be Occupied.

President John I. Sabin, of the Pacific States Telephone & Telegraph Company, the mammoth organization with $1,500,000 capital, the recently absorbed almost all the Pacific Coast telephone companies, arrived in Portland yesterday and took up his residence at Fourteenth and Morrison streets. President Sabin's presence does not imply that the headquarters of the big company have yet been transferred to Portland, the future home. This will not be accomplished before the middle of August, according to present plans.

About that date Portland will be in a business sense, as well as legally, the principal office and place of business, and the commodious room in the new building at Park and Alder streets will be fitted up for that purpose.

It will be early in November before the switchboards in the new building will have been completed. Work on them will commence immediately. An idea of their magnitude may be obtained by considering that in the present large rooms at Fourth and Washington streets there are 75 sets of switchboards, while in the new building there will be about 200 feet.

When the company entered the Macleay building the extensive system of boards was thought to be ample, but within a very few years a great enlargement became necessary.

President Sabin is accompanied by A. J. Stead, chief engineer of the new company. The two officials are making an inspection of the new building and other work in course of completion. Neither has much to say regarding the future of the company, except that improvements and extensions will be taken up as fast as possible. Regarding country work President Sabin said that new lines would be run to Sandy, Clatsop, and wherever they were wanted. Three lines are mapped out. One is from East Portland through Lents to Clatskanie, taking in any way offices. Another goes from East Portland to Sandy, Clatsop, and points in that direction, taking in 15 or more offices located in the small towns to the eastward. The third will extend out of Oregon, eastward, taking in towns in that direction.

President Sabin and Engineer Stead came to Portland from Tacoma, where land was purchased and arrangements made for the erection of a new building there. The new company now covers the Pacific Coast from Mexico to British Columbia, extending back to Utah on the east. This vast system will be directed and controlled from the headquarters in Portland. The headquarters officials are president, John I. Sabin; vice-president, and treasurer, J. C. Alsworth; secretary and district manager, J. H. Thatcher; auditor, W. J. Phillips. Some time today or early Monday, a meeting of the directors will be held, for selection of some officers not yet chosen.

HAS STUMPS TO BURN.

Some of the Difficulties of Home-Building in Oregon.

Home-building is carried on under rather peculiar conditions in some parts of Oregon. An old-time river man owns a tract of land mostly covered with timber six miles back from the Columbia. The cedar timber was cut off long ago and brought enough to pay for the land several times over, and he is now building himself a rather cozy house on a cleared tract of his claim. He gets all the rough lumber he wants from a sawmill near by for $1 per 1000, but has to pay $15 per 1000 for all the planned lumber for finishing, which makes it rather expensive.

Fire run through his claim some years ago, killing most of the timber, and the land is now covered with dead trees, most of them from six to 10 feet in diameter. He is inclosing the land with a barbed wire fence, and in clearing a "right of way" for this fence a number of trees as large as 20 feet in diameter have had to be cut down. His saw is only 30 feet long, so when a cut is made in the tree three or four feet the saw has no more play, and

BOATS FOR RIVER PARADE

CARNIVAL COMMITTEE ARRANGES FOR THEM.

O. R. & N. Co. Will Furnish All the Steamers Needed for Grand Marine Parade.

George L. Baker, director of parades for the Portland Steam Fair and Carnival, and Sig Wertheimer of the parade committee, yesterday arranged with the O. R. & N. Co. for the boats they will require for the grand river parade which will be held to welcome the king of the carnival to Portland. W. H. Hurlburt, general passenger agent, Captain George Conway, superintendent of water lines, assured the visitors that the company would place at the disposal of the parade committee all the boats they will need, which means about every one the company will have on hand at that time.

It is the intention of the carnival committee to make the parade feature one of the very biggest things of the whole carnival, and the marine parade will, of course, be the most attractive of all. The steamers in the parade will be gayly decorated with flags and bunting, and will be loaded to their carrying capacity with brilliantly costumed revelers. Around the big steamers, which will move in a single file, the river salutes will be fired from the shore, which will be answered from the boats, and the royal salute will be fired by a battery when the king's flag is hoisted.

The landing will be made at a central wharf on the river front, the location being chosen with the special view to enabling the thousands of people who will be in the city to see the king and his retinue land.

Balloting for the nomination of queen went forward rapidly yesterday. All the votes cast in nomination are free, and every young woman whose name is found in the boxes, whether she receives one vote or one hundred, will be asked to become a candidate. It rests entirely with her whether she does so or not, and the names of those who do not care to stand for election will not be published.

Managers of attractions of merit are writing every day to Manager Cordray, asking to be allowed to show on the street fair grounds. Some of their applications will be considered, but Mr. Cordray secured so many attractions while on his trip to the East that he will hardly be able to find room for more than a few more, and he is thus able to select from among the applicants only those who have something entirely new to offer.

The committee continues to find its hands full of business, which is growing very rapidly. The time when it will be necessary to begin the erection of buildings is now approaching, and very soon Sixth street will be a scene of activity the like of which has never been seen in Portland. The committee intends to start in time, so that everything will be ready on the opening day, and they have notified their exhibitors that every booth must be in readiness on the morning of September 4.

HEADING OFF THE WORM.

One Man Dug a Trench and Filled It With Poisoned Cabbage Leaves.

The army worm continues its ravages in the vegetable gardens adjacent to Portland, and most of the gardeners have begun war on him with Paris green. At the office of H. E. Dosch, yesterday, some onions and carrots were on exhibition, which looked as though rats had been gnawing them. They were from the Langworth garden on Columbia Slough and Mr. Langworth told how he had begun to head the marauders off. He digs a ditch directly in front of the advance, and places cabbage leaves previously saturated in Paris green where the worms can pitch in and take their last feed.

The solution he uses is that used on the codlin moth and consists of six ounces of Paris green and four pounds of lime to 40 gallons of water. This is poisonous and will not do to spray any vegetable or fruit intended for the human stomach, but on cabbage leaves fixed for the worm, it is a desander.

The worm has learned to climb trees within the past week, Mr. Dosch says, and the foliage of several prune trees had been entirely stripped off, as a result of the worm's omnivorous appetite and excellent digestion. A spray of Paris green on these trees will "fix him plenty," and as there are very few prunes in the way, the loss of fruit will not be great. The worm can be headed off, but it will take rustling to do it.

BUILT UP ON 50-CENT WHEAT

How Walla Walla Farmers and Merchants Have Prospered.

Nat Webb, a well-known farmer and stockman of Walla Walla, now in Portland, says harvesting is about one-third over in his locality. Hands are not scarce there, as men usually strike out for Walla Walla as a center just before harvest, and so no delay is expected from scarcity of help, though a short distance north and south farmers are short-handed.

Harvesting, Mr. Webb says, usually begins in the lower levels toward the Columbia River, and when these fields have been taken care of, the men are at liberty to assist on the farms near the foothills of the Blue Mountains. This trade will be most plentiful as the season advances.

"If we can only net 50 cents a bushel for our wheat," he said yesterday, "we will be all right in the Walla Walla region. Our country has been built up on 50-cent wheat. Walla Walla's great business houses and fine homes were all created on the basis of 50-cent wheat, and we can raise the grain at a profit on 50 cents a bushel. Of course, we would like to see it go higher, as that would be like finding that much more of our farmers confidently expect a good price this season, as the grain is of splendid quality and we hear of crop failures from all portions of the world. If prices, and so the principal cause of wheat, we feel assured of a good foreign demand."

Wheat is now selling at 46 cents, he said, and for 2 weeks the Summer 50 cents was offered. He therefore has a good foundation for his hope in regard to at least 50 cents being paid this fall. He estimates the average yield of the Walla Walla Valley this year at 25 bushels per acre.

PORTLAND HOTELS BUSY.

Despite the Season, All Classes of Houses Are Doing Well.

Portland hotels are all doing a good business, although this is usually considered the dull season of the year. Travel has not slackened with the growing heat of Summer, but has rather shown an increase, and so the principal cause of the city are comfortably full. Tourist travel is noticeably on the increase and people of means always include Portland when making in any portion of the Coast, especially in the heated term, as this city is now known abroad as a cool and comfortable place while many Coast towns are sweating under the fierce heat of the sun. Tourists from California are always struck with the beauty of our green fields and wealth of shade trees, as the travelers have just emerged from cloudless skies, intolerable heat, mephitic dust and inferior drinking water. Travelers, as a rule, are always glad to tarry here as long as their business at home will permit, and so Portland's hotel-keepers become the beneficiaries of the matches. Portland climate.

Home people, coming in from heated valleys of the interior, are also glad to tarry in the mellow breezes which are wafted in over the western hills from the ocean, every afternoon; and even people resident of the Coast counties find it a pleasant change, which quickens the life-blood and gives elasticity to the step. Add to all these natural advantages the fact that business of all kinds continues brisk in the interior and this explains why there is no cessation of travel on the part of up-country merchants, farmers, miners and stockmen, who are obliged to visit the metropolis quite often.

There is a very large volume of home-seeker travel, and people are coming out by the hundred to settle in our valleys or go to work on the farms. The longer camps, or in the construction of railroads, opening of mines or the thousand different enterprises being pushed in these days of returning prosperity. All this travel inures to the benefit of the cheaper hotels, whose landlords report a good Summer's business. And if hotel traffic is so good when it ought to be dull, how will it be when thrashing and fishing are done, and the representatives of the industries come to town to enjoy a rest while getting rid of their surplus change?

EXCURSION TO BONNEVILLE

A feature of the O. R. & N. excursion to Bonneville next Sunday will be the vaudeville performance under the pavilion and the good music. This is free to all who attend the picnic. Train leaves Union depot Sunday morning at 9:30. Passengers have the privilege of getting off train at any point this side of Bonneville if they prefer, and train will stop coming back. Fare, 50 cents, round trip.

RUINED HER CHANCES.

Impetuosity and Frankness of a Teacher Who Wanted a Position.

The corps of teachers for the public schools of Portland were elected immediately after the close of the last school year, in order that the teachers and the Board of Directors might be care free during vacation. There are, however, frequent applications from persons who either desire to secure a situation at once or to be placed on the list of eligibles, so as to be in line for any position that may become vacant
