CAMERA CLUB OUTING

ENJOYABLE TRIP UP THE COLUMBIA TO ONONTA GORGE.

Snap Shots at Old Landmarks—Successful Condition of the Club, Financially and Otherwise.

Everyone of the 42 Camera Club enthusiasts who spent yesterday snapping their kodaks at the crags and waterfalls and fish-wheels and entrancing vistas of sun-lit hills of the Upper Columbia voted that it was an ideal day for a club outing. Certainly Dame Nature seemed to smile approval upon the enterprise. The clouds took on their softest hues of gray and rosy pink, and there were such entrancing lights and shadows on the earth below as to drive the most blasé fairly wild with delight. To be sure, about noon the sky squawked out some drizzle or so drops of rain, just enough to rattle a camera lens, but "Oh!" and create a mad panic for umbrellas from such as were on the hurricane deck; but it did not take long for everybody to realize that this was nothing but a merry little joke on the part of Mother Nature.

The Camera Club had arranged to have the new "Harvest Queen" for the occasion, but as it was found that her engines were not yet in a condition to be used, at the last moment, it was necessary to substitute the R. R. Thompson. This was a considerable find, as the club members and their friends, who found themselves provided with all that they could wish in the way of conveniences and creature comforts—caterers who served anything from a cup of coffee and a sandwich to ice-cream soda; a darkroom for developing negatives, a popcorn man, a photographic plate-man, who was in great demand about sunset time, and a practical demonstrator to answer questions. Pray was there anything more for which reasonable people would ask?

Of course, the 300 cameras were snapped at all the old familiar landmarks, Castle Rock, the Pillars of Hercules, Cape Horn and Mount Hood. The latter was a great deal of merry contention for the prizes offered by the club—$5 for the best picture taken on the trip, and $2.50 for second best. No conditions being attached, at 2 o'clock, after a run of five hours, a stop of half an hour was made, and after the easy swim of "swimmers" had all had a chance to turn the button on the 800 feet of tossing spray, Miss White retailed by taking a picture of them, the whole brave array of them, on board the boat.

Here some excitement was engendered by the fact that a small contingent of a dozen or so enterprising members undertook on foot to make a race with the boat to Ononta Gorge, two and a half miles away, a hazardous task, when the speed of the D. F. Thompson is considered. After going about the distance they saw the folly of their venture, and turned back. Meanwhile the boat, steaming on its upward course, was unable to effect a landing at Ononta, because of the low water. As the hour of departure watch by this time pointed to 4 o'clock, and after the excursionists decided to turn back on the homeward journey, it was incidentally discovered that some valuable members of the party were missing, and as it did not seem exactly probable for them all to have tumbled overboard, a committee of investigation was appointed, with instructions to land at Multnomah. There, sure enough, the delinquent company was found, mopping their brows and planning for the night on a bed of fir boughs, wrapped in Multnomah vapors.

A conspicuously attractive flag floating from the bow of the boat is one of the latest acquisitions of the club. It was made expressly for this occasion, and is of white bunting, 15 feet long, with a blue border, and bears the name of the club in letters of fully distinguishable size. As the Thompson neared port on its homeward journey, the passengers enjoyed the twilight hour with gay speeches of song, familiar airs, such as "Sweet Alice," "My Old Kentucky Home," and "Swanee River." Sydney Hodell's fine voice leading the men and Miss Rose d'Almeida's rich soprano, seconded by Miss Alice Thayer, the chorus of women. The landing at Portland was effected at 8:30, making exactly 12 hours of art, nature-worship, and jolly good fun.

Much of the success of the excursion was due to Mr. Gavin, the president, to whose fine executive ability the club owes so much. D. Ellery, W. S. Macrum and J. W. Holmes, constituting the entertainment committee, and A. E. Morris, superintendent of the house committee, were necessarily strong factors in making the affair pass so pleasantly. One of the most energetic workers of the party in looking after everybody's services was Miss Lily E. White, the club demonstrator, to whose valuable features of the Stephens' Addition nine's game were the Stephens' Addition nine's game. The game is the first of a series of three matches to decide the championship team. Up to the seventh inning the score was close, and the Columbus' were picked to win, but heavy batting turned the tide against them. Catcher Slavitt's clever back-stop work, Patterson at short and at the bat and Frenck's excellent fielding were the features of the Stephens' Addition nine's game. For the Columbus' Stupp put up some star work at short, and kept the crowd in a roar by his coaching. White-head captured every fly that came to center field. Gardner played an excellent game at second, and at the bat sent out two three-base hits when runs were needed. The game was played on the Portland field, East Side, where the second game will take place next Sunday afternoon.

Business Before Pleasure.

Corvallis Times. A married couple cannot file on a homestead, but a widow can, and there by a story. Flora E. Floyd, aged 41, an estimable Alsea widow, and J. W. Wadsworth, aged 30, of Lincoln County, married in Corvallis Wednesday.

The wedding was nearly two weeks behind time. The original date set was July 21. On that date the prospective bride and groom came to Corvallis to join their fortunes. They applied to the Clerk's office for a license. They then learned that a married woman could not file on a homestead. On a adjoining quarter section of vacant land in Alsea Mrs. Floyd had her eye. To file on it was a part of her errand to Corvallis. To marry and to file at the same time was impossible. If she got the quarter section she must get it as a widow. One job or the other had to be temporarily postponed. It was a struggle between love and land.

The land won. "I can get him for a husband any time," said Mrs. Floyd, after a short deliberation. "but I can only get the land now." So the wedding was postponed. The filing was made, and when the proper papers establishing the lady's right to the quarter section arrived, the ceremony was performed.

Stephens' Addition Nine Won.

An interesting game of baseball yesterday afternoon, between the Stephens' Addition and Columbia nines, resulted in a victory for the Stephens' Addition team, by a score of 16 to 12. The game is the first of a series of three matches to decide the championship team. Up to the seventh inning the score was close, and the Columbus' were picked to win, but heavy batting turned the tide against them. Catcher Slavitt's clever back-stop work, Patterson at short and at the bat and Frenck's excellent fielding were the features of the Stephens' Addition nine's game. For the Columbus' Stupp put up some star work at short, and kept the crowd in a roar by his coaching. White-head captured every fly that came to center field. Gardner played an excellent game at second, and at the bat sent out two three-base hits when runs were needed. The game was played on the Portland field, East Side, where the second game will take place next Sunday afternoon.

TO RECEIVE THE SPEAKER

COMMITTEE WILL ENTERTAIN HON.
DAVID B. HENDERSON.

He Will Be Escorted to Astoria in a Special Car Today—Leaves for the East Tonight.

A meeting of trustees of the Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday afternoon to arrange for the reception of Hon. David B. Henderson, Speaker of the House, who is due here at 2:45 this morning from San Francisco. The distinguished guest will be met at the Grand Central Station by a deputation of 50 prominent citizens, who are expected to accompany the party on the train to Astoria, which leaves at 8 A. M. President Hammond, of the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad, has arranged to place one coach and a parlor car at the disposal of the committee, and he will also accompany the party to Astoria, where lunch is to be provided. Mr. Henderson will then be shown the points of interest on the Lower Columbia, and a visit to the jetty is also on the programme, after which dinner will be served at Astoria and the party will return to Portland, arriving at 5:40 P. M. As Mr. Henderson leaves for the East on the Northern Pacific train which departs at 11:30 P. M., he will spend little or no time in Portland, so those citizens who desire to pay their respects had better repair to the Grand Central Station.

Mr. Henderson has proven himself a friend of the Pacific Coast and of Portland, and this reception and excursion have been planned to impress him with the esteem and appreciation in which he is held here.

E. C. Masten, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, wired Mr. Henderson at Benicia, Cal., yesterday afternoon, acquainting him with the intentions of Portland's citizens in regard to his well-come, and asking him if the arrangements would meet his approval. Answer came in the affirmative, so Mr. Henderson will understand all about it on his arrival.

Senator Corbett, who is at Ilwaco,

Mayor Rowe and George Taylor, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who are at the coast, have been telegraphed for, and are expected to meet the party at Astoria.

The speaker's party consists of his wife and daughter. They expect to meet friends here in the person of Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard, who will accompany them on their trip East.

Government Class in Flatism.
New York Journal of Commerce.

The educational value of the new 2 per cent bonus ought to amount to something, but these securities will be held largely by banks, and entirely by persons and corporations that do not need to learn the alphabet of sound money. If the legal-tender notes were to be inscribed with a declaration that they were redeemable in gold dollars of the weight of fineness provided by law at the time the new act was passed, the educational value of the stipulation would be greatly enhanced. A great part of the currency consists of silver certificates, which recite upon their faces that they are redeemable in silver dollars, and these silver dollars retain their legal tender quality. Not much has been done yet by Congress or the Treasury Department for the financial education of the public, and most of what has been done has been admirably calculated to teach the public what isn't so. So meritorious an act as the resumption of specie payments, and so wise a policy as the maintenance of silver dollars at par in gold, has taught millions of Americans to suppose that the value of a currency does not depend upon the material it is made of, but upon the edict of the Government. This Nation has been teaching "flat" money while upholding the integrity of the currency.

Harvey, 8.

The Pacific County assessment roll shows an increase of about $200,000 over last year, mostly on timber land holdings.

LODGES TO MEET TONIGHT

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES WILL AR-RANGE FOR PARADE.

All Will Take Part in Portland Street Fair and Carnival-Prize Competitions.

An important meeting of the committees from the various fraternal organizations and the Portland Street Fair and Carnival parade committee will be held at headquarters tonight. Representatives from all fraternal orders are requested to participate in the event. Professor Julius Adler, of Tacoma, has composed and dedicated to the association a beautiful two-page, entitled "Portland Cirnival March." He has presented 500 copies of the piece to the carnival association arranged for the piano, which will be sold in all of the news stands of the city for the benefit of the fair.

The parade parade will take place on women's day, September 7. Elaborate preparations are being made for it, and many beautiful designs will be seen.
With the wealth of Oregon flowers, it will undoubtedly be one of the most glorious pageants of the kind ever witnessed anywhere. Previous floral exhibits have proved what Portland can do in this line.

EASTERN MULTNOMAH

Daily Mail Service and Free Delivery for August.

GRESHAM, Or., Aug. 4.—A petition has been circulated and extensively signed by the residents of Hurburt and vicinity, asking for a daily mail service to that point from Terry instead of tri-weekly, as at present. A communication has been received from Representative Moody in regard to the matter, in which he says that he has presented the petition to the Postoffice Department and hopes for favorable consideration. The subject of free rural delivery is also being agitated and will be investigated by the special agent, H. J. Ormsby, when he arrives here within the next few days.
Free delivery around Gresham has been considered first and then the other districts will receive attention. From present indications it is highly probable that the whole of Eastern Multnomah will have free delivery in a short time.

Hay All In.
Haying is all done in this section, and harvesting is fully under way. The hay crop was unusually large, so much so that many farmers had to stack a part of their crops in the fields where it will be baled for shipment, there being several machines here which travel about from place to place during the fall putting the crops in bales. The grain yield will be up to the average, although the bright and clear cutworms have injured it somewhat.

Store at Gage.
Stm Stafford is making arrangements to open a general merchandise store at Gage, the newly-established postoffice beyond the city limits. This will be the only store east of Terry, except on the line of the railroad, and will be a great convenience for the people of a large section.
It is understood that Mr. Clifford will put up a commodious building and will have charge of the postoffice when ready for business.

New Cheese Factory.
R. Carlson, living at Fairview, is arranging to open a general merchandise store at that place. He has made a canvass of the farmers living along the Columbia slough and has received assurances of ample supply of cheese. He hopes the success of the enterprise. He will begin operations as soon as he can get a building ready and the necessary machinery in it for the making of cheese.

Another Sawmill.
Frank Hiney has just begun operations at his new sawmill, recently finished. The two miles southwest of Gresham, it is located near a fine body of timber and will engage in cutting ties for the O. R. & N. The mill has a capacity of about 600 feet per day, and gives employment to 15 men. Hiney and the teamsters who are engaged in hauling the ties to the railroad at Fairview.

Brief Notes.
R. D. Mason, working in a blacksmith shop at Troutdale, was kicked four times by a vicious horse the other day, and severely injured. One arm was fractured, necessitating surgical attention.

Troutdale is enjoying an era of prosperity, there not being an empty house in the place, and rents have increased considerably. All kinds of business is flourishing and laborers are being looked for every day.

Mrs. Louis Dinger and daughter, and Miss Edna Roberts, both of whom were injured in the street-car accident at Gresham, nearby recovered. Mrs. Dinger's father, J. P. Roberts, brought them home on Saturday last.

A petition is now before the County Commissioners, to be acted upon September 2, asking for the vacation of road No. 11. It connects Gresham and Stanley avenues at the south end of Melville farm and will be closed to the public if the petition is granted.

E. S. Roberts, proprietor of the Bramhall sawmill on the Sandy, is at the residence of his son-in-law, F. D.
Owens, near here, under the care of a physician. He fell from an elevated tower at Troutdale and injured himself internally. He is quite aged and recovery will be slow.

LOW RATE.
Via Union Pacific Railroad to G. A.
R. Encampment, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 27 to Sept. 1, 1900.

For the above occasion, the Union Pacific Railroad will make a special rate of $1.50 to Chicago and return. Tickets on sale August 21 and 22. For further details contact the ticket agent at

CEDAR PARK FOR PICNICS

Grounds open to the public every day in the week. Music Sunday afternoons.
Seats, swings, tables and large pavilions for dancing. Pure, cold water through new galvanized pipe, just completed.
Mount Tabor for picnics. Large, open cars every 15 minutes.

proves the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

UP MOUNT JEFFERSON

MAZAMAS WILL LEAVE TODAY FOR ASCENT OF THE MOUNTAIN.

To go to Mount Jefferson! This evening on the 8:30 Southern Pacific train the Mazamas will leave for Detroit on their annual mountain-climbing trip. This year Mount Jefferson has been chosen as the peak to be conquered, and the party anticipates not only an enjoyable outing but also the glory of a difficult achievement. All the arrangements for the trip are complete. F. A. Routledge, one of the advance guard, left last evening for Detroit, and will have everything in readiness for the arrival of the main party. Twenty-five members will leave from Portland, and others may go who have not yet definitely settled upon their plans. A number of Mazamas and others will join the party en route through the Valley.

Arriving at Detroit, Tuesday morning at 11:00, the start will be made on Wednesday morning, and the journey carried on in easy stages. Camping places have been selected and the commissary department well-equipped, under the direction of two competent cooks. Pack-horses will be pressed into service to carry the baggage and camping paraphernalia. The ascent of the mountain is scheduled to take place Saturday evening, but the trip will not be hurried and the climbers tried out in the beginning to make the trip proceed precisely on schedule time.

Major Rowe and George Taylor, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who are at the coast, have been telegraphed for, and are expected to meet the party at Astoria.

The speaker's party consists of his wife and daughter. They expect to meet friends here in the person of Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard, who will accompany them on their trip East.
