l'ormer Portland Dentist Arrested

Yesterday Morning.

W. B. Cassil, formerly a Portland den-tiet, was arrested in Walla Walla Thurs-day afternoon at the telegraphic request of Chief of Police McLauchlan, and he was brought to Portland yesterday morning by a member of the Walla Walla po ing by a memoer of the Walla Walla po-lice force. Dr. Cassil was one of the trio of Alexander, Corbott and Cassil, for whom the police department has been searching since June, 1888, when they left Portland after passing several hun-dred dollars' worth of bogus checks. The same trio conducted the exhibition of the blowing up of the Maine in an East Side park, and gave only one performance of that tragic event before leaving, while owing their creditors hundreds of dollars.

Alexander was supposed to be the leader of the ring, forging checks and drawing them on banks where he had no credit, and Cassell and Corbett are accused of working them off on unsuspecting busi-ness men. Cassil admits having passed these worthless checks on several occa-sions, but denies knowing the fact at the time, asserting that he also was imposed upon by the wily Alexander.

After the trio left Portland Cassil went to California, where he worked at his profession as dentist in Saoramento, San Francisco and Los Angeles. The Sacramento police were requested to watch for him, and he narrowly missed arrest there. After that he was traced to Walla Walla, where he had recently opened up a dentist's office under his own name. No trouble was had in arresting

Cassil, and he came to Portland willing

George Dixon Arrested, With His Confederate, a Woman, for Double Act of Forgery.

One of the most during forgeries and real estate swindles ever perpetrated in Portland came to light resterday after-mon, when the leading member of the poon, when the reading member of the conspiracy, George Dizon, was arrested by Detectives Ford and Cordano, ansisted by James Roberts, Clerk of Police, Dixon's confederate, Mrs. Aaron Frost, was arrested and placed in custody.

Thursday afternoon. Forking a deed to Forging a deed to property which had belonged to a dead man, Henry Wilson; having it recorded as a bona fide trans-fer in the County Recorder's office; makreversi additional transfers, they inally sold their Scittious title to the respectly to J. M. Hodson, of the Irwin-hodson Printing Company, for S215. July one slip was made which drew atrention to the faisity of the first transfer from the dead man. The latter was un-able to write his own name, and always made his mark. After the sale had been the fact was discovered that in the deed transferring the property Henry Wilson had signed his name boldly, with-out smaking his usual mark. The case was investigated and the swindle unsurfined. Both Dixon and Mrs. Frost vigsrously assert their innocence

Dead men telling no tales was conven-ently made use of by the conspirators a staining their ends. Henry Wilson, whose property was transferred, was a is bachelor who had died intes St. Louis bachelor who had died intes-tate in May 1899. He left an estate worth $15.000. Included in the estate were the two lots sold to Mr. Hodson, worth about $1000. Eschent proceedings had already seen begun at the orders of Governor Geer by Attorneys Chester V. Dolph and U. S. Grant Marquam, who were directly instrumental in discovering the fraudu-less transfer by calling stanting to the lent transfer by calling attention to the

Neither Dixon nor Mrs. Frost was known in Portland until several months ago. Dixon's true name is supposed to be B. W. Pana, as his linen has that marking. Mrs. Frost is the wife of Aaron Prost, editor and proprietor of the Ward ner News, and was in Portland engaged In negotiating for the purchase of a lodg-ing-house, offering to pledge for the pay-ment a piece of property, or to borrow money on the property and pay cash. Dixon also tried to borrow $3000 on a piece of land which he said was his, but falled.
On July 31, 1900, Dixon took to the County Recorder's office to be recorded a deed, dated January 11, 1980, transferring from Henry Wilson to Emma Gillette, for nelderation of $1, lots 7 and 8 in block 116, of East Portland. The deed purported to have been signed by Henry Wilson in the presence of Mark Cameron and Henry Ackerman, and is acknowledged by Henry Ackerman as notary public. This deed was recorded July M. 1900, by special order, as Dixon urged that he was in a hurry, and it was re-turned the same day to him by Paul Hut-fer, a messenger boy.

On August 1, the day after the deed was recorded, a velled woman, afterwards identified as Mrs. Frost, went to the office of W. C. Puffer, notary public, with a deed to the property, properly signed and stammed, conveying the lots from Emma Gillette to George Dixon for the consideration of $200. The woman bring-ing the deed signed "Emma Gillette" sessented to Puffer one of her cards, stathing she had been recommended to go to him by a friend to make the acknowledgment of the deed. He saw that it was already scaled and signed in the proper manner, and gave little attention to it, he and his stenographer witnessing the it within reach of all.

UPRISING NOT GENERAL

RETURNED AMERICAN THINKS THE BOXERS ARE CHECKED.

If Insurrection Spreads, the Allied Troops in China Will Soon Be Wiped Out.

"If the disaffection in China were to become general, the allied troops, as well as all foreigners there, would be exterminated in short order," said J. E. Pamplin yesterday, at the Perkins, Mr. Pamplin had just arrived from Shanghai, where he has been engaged in the business of transporting goods between that point and Ching Kang, via the Grand Canal and the City of Soo Chow. His business was broken up by the disturbances, and so he decided to return to his home in Salt Lake until China is quiet again.
"But the insurrection is not general, "If the disaffection in China were to China is quiet again.

"But the insurrection is not general, and the victories so far gained by the ailles will have the effect of keeping it within limits," he continued. "I have confidence in the final rescue of the foreigners in Pekin, as the Boxers have had leisure to take a second thought over the matter. They realize by this time that to preserve the lives of the Pe-

Also on August 1 this deed was recorded at the County Recorder's office by a special order, and the deed returned to Dixon by a messenger boy, J. J. Curtis.

Then began the active negotiations for the sale. Last week Dixon went to Mark Schlussel, the real estate agent, and offered to sell the property for $2200, representing that he was involved in an oil speculation and needed to sell the property at once in order to get ready cash. Wednesday of this week Dixon made the sale to J. M. Hodson for $125, after the abstract of the property had been carefully examined by Hodson's attorney, and no flaws detected in the title, which was seemingly clear. The work had been cleverly done, and the discovery of the fraud was almost accidental, hinging on a very small point. that to preserve the lives of the Pekin prisoners is the wiser policy."

Mr. Pamplin witnessed the bombardment of Taku, and judging from the way the Chinese manned the guns of the fortifications, he thinks they are good soldlers. He saw between 30 and 40 Chinese gunners killed while bravely operating one piece, and still those living stood to their posts. They have been trained in the art of war, first by Russian officers and afterward by Germans, and were, therefore, quite expert. Mr. Pamplin, however, does not think there are any Caucasian officers in active service with the Chinese troops now.

At Shanghal all foreigners are feeling very uneasy, he said, and many families are moving to Japan for greater security. The white men living in the city fraud was almost accidental, hinging on a very small point.

Mrs. Frost had been living quietly on Sixth street, with her young daughter. 8 or 8 years old, and when arrested denied having signed or acknowledged the deed. Emma Gillette, whose name was signed to the second deed, turns out to be Mrs. Frost's sister, a married woman, living in Oakland, Cal., her present name being Mrs. Emma Gibbs.

After the sale. Dixon went to Tacoma, tain she was married to him in Seattle three years ago. They took lodgings on Sixth street, near Clay, and Dixon gave the detectives a merry chase before they landed him. He was unusually suspicious, and when one of the detectives drove up alongside him on Sixth street he jumped the fence, and ran across lots eluding his successful. married only a ity. The white men living in the city Jumped the fence, and ran across lots, eluding his pursuers. He then prepared to change his lodgings, warned his wife, and they endeavored to clude the detectives until they could get out of the city. Detective Cordano finally located Dixon in a lodging-house near Sevenment and Jefferson, and the arrest was made yesterday noon. When searched Dixor had $1300 sewed in the lining of his vest. He asserts that his deed to the people who have had business relations with foreigners or who have been em-ployed by whites as domestic servants, and they fear a general massacre should When the trouble broke out a few months ago, Mr. Pamplin was in the City of Soo Chow, where his company had an office, but he was compelled to leave there in a hurry, and was giad to get away with his life. His merchandise and office furniture were taken from him without any promise of recompense, property was genuine, and that the trans-action between him and Emma Gillette was bona fide. The police know nothing of his antecedents. A wonderful knowland he will be one of the Americans who edge of Portland events and affairs is evident in the way the swindle was conducted, and if Dixon could not supply over. He had several Chinese partners this information there must have been in the forwarding business, which was carried on with the aid of Chinese junks, lowed by steam launches. The merchan dise he was despoiled of consisted of imported provisions, canned goods, etc., and as such goods are badly needed now in China, his firm would have made a good thing by their sale. He can form no idea of the length of time he will have to wait for a settlement, as things may take a turn which would require United States declaring war on the old empire, and sending 100,000 men over there. The other countries now engaged in marching on Pekin would have to follow suit with an equal number of sol-

> "One can have no idea of how numer ous the Chinese are unless he goes and sees for himself," he said, "and as they have been importing 1899 firearms and ar-tillery on a huge scale, they will make a dangerous foe if they get stirred up pretty well. If the Boxers knew enough to close in behind the allies now, and then cut the civilized forces off from their base of supplies, matters would take a very serious turn, as the allier have no reserves on the Chinese coast." Mr. Pamplin thinks that when the atmosphere has cleared on the Chinese horizon again, a good many American missionaries and interior Consuls will have turned up missing, having been mur-dered before they had time to get away. He believes that there are none now exposed to danger in North China, as those desiring to get away have done so by this time. On returning bome, Mr. Pamplin left Shanghai on the transport Logan, with a number of other American refugees, arriving in San Francisco on the 7th

No Danger of Smallpox Contagion WHITE SALMON, Wash., Aug. 9.—(To the Editor.)—I wish to call your attention to the articles in your issues of the 7th and 8th, on smallpox, as they are won-derfully misleading. One would think that White Salmon was all alive and about dead with the smallpox. The facts in the case are these: The cases that do exist are situated in a little valley, known as Strawberry Valley, five miles from White Salmon Postoffice, on the White Salmon River's bank, adjoining Underwood's Landing, this valley's shipping point, and there a few families are under strict quarantine placed there by the Health Officer of Klickitat County, with deputies to look after the welfare of the few cases (four in number), as well as that of the entire country near and far. Had the public taken the trouble to investigate the facts (matters pertaining to the safety and welfare of the people one and all), much of this wild excitement and detriment to business would have been avoided. There is not the least danger at White Saimon proper of contagion—not half so much as in a city.

Then the Committee on Sewers Could Not Reach a Conclusion.

At the meeting of the committee on sewers and drainage yesterday, the peti-tion for a sewer in Bancroft avenue and a remonstrance against the same came up for consideration. Some of the peti-tioners and some of the remonstrators appeared to give their views on the mat ter, and a rather lively tilt ensued. The committee despairing of deriving any deli-nite information from the warring fac-tions, laid the matter over until it can go out and examine into the merits and demerits of the proposed sewer for itself.
A petition for a sewer in Ross street, which had been granted by the Council and the City Engineer ordered to prepare specifications therefor, came before committee with a communication from the City Engineer to the effect that it was impracticable to build a sewer up a hill and have it answer the purpose intended. The matter was referred back to the Council. Councilman Merrill was trying to find a quorum of the park committee to con-sider the purchase of more wire settees for the Plaza blocks. The Council some time ago refused to purchase any more out now that the fountain between Piaza blocks is nearly completed, Mr. Merrill thinks it very desirable that some settees should be placed around it for people to sit on while admiring the foun

SHOWS FOR THE MIDWAY

GAY ATTRACTIONS WILL BE EN-GAGED FOR THE STREET FAIR.

Sixth Street Will Swarm With Interesting Exhibits-Voting for Queen Is Lively.

President Rowe, of the Board of Directors of the Portland Street Fair and Carnival, and Manager Cordray, of the concessions department, spent yesterday afternoon examining the applications of a large number of Midway attractions which want to show in Portland during the fair. There are shows with elephants, shows with camels, shows with Persian dancers, shows with every strange people of the world, and all of them have heard about the Portland Street Fair and want to come here and take part in it.

Many fine attractions were engaged by Mr. Cordray while he was in the East, but there will be room for a few more, and as soon as these are selected the name and a description of the different shows will be given to the public. One thing is certain, and that is everything will be first class, for there is plenty of material from which to select, and only shows which can furnish ample proofs material from which to select, and only shows which can furnish ample proofs that they are first-class attractions will

The Midway will be located on the lower end of the street. It will be gayly dec-orated, and will fairly swarm with in-teresting features, while the streets will be alive with the gayly dressed men and be alive with the gayly dressed men and women from the booths, and the air will be vocal with the sound of the music of many nations. It is sure to be one of the sirong features of she fair, and will with-out doubt amply repay the committee for alf the trouble they are expending upon it. Voting for the Queen is much livelier as the close of the contest draws near. The friends of every young woman on the list have apparently determined that none other than their favorite shall get that plano, and there is little doubt that when the vote is counted this afternoon it will be found that the names on the list have changed places since the last count. The race is not going to be a walkover for any one, as is apparent from the way ballots were bought yesterday, and at the close of the contest the rush to cast ballots will be so great that many who can-nof get to a box will wish that they had voted earlier in the game. Yesterday a line of booths was begun on the west side of Sixth street between Morrison and Alder, and now the entire tract to be covered by the fair is a scene of activity. New buildings are rising in every direction. Canvas is beginning to cover the stately opening arch, and the music pavilion spanning Washington street is nearly ready for the plaster which will form its walls. From the plat-form or main deck of this pavilion a mag-nificent view of the street may be ob-tained, and when the band is playing there and the madding crowd is underneath, it will be one of the favority places of the whole street

EAST SIDE AFFAIRS

Old Man's Quarrel Aired in Court-Other Matters.

Mrs. Jane Darling was tried yesterday morning before Justice Vreeland on a charge of assault and battery on A. W. Moudy at the home of the former at Montavilla. This is the outcome of a situation that is likely to trouble the parties for an indefinite period. They have al-ready been in the criminal and civil courts before. Mouldy is an old resident of the East Side, left alone about two years ago by the death of his wife. He had a house and lot, a cow and some chickens at Montavilla, and Mrs. Darling and her husband entered into an agree-ment to provide for Moudy for the rest of his life on condition that he deed Mrs. Darling the property. This was done about a year ago.

Moudy is 75 years old, and of crotchety disposition, and Mrs. Darling is a woman of firm disposition, and very strong physically as well. All went well for a short time, and then came the first disagreement. Moudy was brought up for assault on Mrs. Darling before Justice Vreeland. It was shown that Moudy was too feeble to commit an assault. Then Moudy undertook to regain his property but the Clevili Court held the head erty, but the Circuit Court held that he had lost even this.

became penitent and went back to the house and begged Mrs. Darling to take him in, promising to be decile and obedient. Mrs. Darling agreed, and all wan smoothly until a month ago, when trouble arose, Moudy charged that Mrs. Darling apart grabbed him by the nape of the neck and the state of the head and the state of the state arm and shook the breath out of him, and to knock his brains out. All this hap-pened in the kitchen.

Mrs. Darling told a different story on the witness-stand. She told how she gave the witness-stand. She told now she gave him a breakfast of eggs and toast, and then said that Moudy demanded a new suit of clothes, and that unless she gave him money he would sell the cow. She said she told Moudy they were all poor and had no money, but Moudy grew very angry, and finally Mrs. Darling said that she put him out of the kilchen in as case. angry, and many Mrs. Daring said has she put him out of the kilchen in as easy a way as possible, and made no assault with a hatchet, and did not shake him. A transcript of the recent decision of the Circuit Court on the property rights of Mrs. Darling and Moudy was sent for and read to the Justice. Twenty Miles an Hour Awheel. "Dode" and Archie Parrott were out on the Little Sandy and at the batchery with Albert Klein and family for four days th's week. They were at Ashoff's on the old mountain road and caught all the fish they wanted. The time the Parrotts made from Revenue's, at Sandy, to their home is most remarkable and the fastest ever made over that road. They made the run from Revenue's to their home, on Fast Pifteenth and East Couch streets. In 1 hour and 35 minutes. The distance is 25 miles. The first eight miles is over plank road to Pleasant Home, which they covered in 30 minutes, but they lost one minute on the way. They then made Gresham, a distance of seven miles, in 25 minutes. In another 30 minutes they covening the seven miles, in 25 minutes. from Revenue's, at Sandy, to their home minutes. In another 30 minutes they cov ered the distance to the lower reservois and in 13 minutes they reached their home. With the exception of a stop of one minute they never dismounted till they reached their home. This is about they reached their nome. This is about 20 miles an hour, over all sorts of roads, up and down hills. This is the fastest time ever made between Revenue's and Portland, and about as fast as ever made on a wheel in the state for that distance.

Good progress is making on the new schoolhouse in No. 25, on the Section road, near County Commissioner Steele's home. It is now inclosed, and the contractor is crowding the work forward. It will be a neat structure, and a credit to the district. It will cost about $1000. An attempt was made to rob the salson on the corner of East Twentieth and Di-taion streets several nights ago. George Zeillnger, the proprietor, was aroused by the noise, and took a shot at the burglar, but missed him. The latter ran off at the report of the pistol. He got away with some Hquor from the saloon. Tom Parrott, who was the famous pitcher for the Willamette Basepall Club in early days, is playing with the Pueblo club this season, and is doing good all-around work. He was with the Denoor club, but had a disagreement with the manager, and joined the Pueblo club. He is well satisfied with his engagement, and oes not speak of returning to Portland. Mrs. F. S. Dunning, of the west Side, esterday received a telephone message from Salem to the effect that her aunt, Mrs. E. N. Cook, who had been danger-ously ill the night before, had improved. Mrs. Dunning had expected to go to Suem, but changed her plans on receipt of the message. Mrs. Cook is a well-kno ploneer. She has been in failing health
