time for publication in the London morning papers. The Morning Post, which is the only paper printing the Chefoo message, says: "Today is not only a day of national rejoicing, it is also a day of congratulation for all the powers of the world."

The Berlin correspondent of the Morning Post says he has had no formal request for an armistice has yet reached the powers and that it is impossible that any such request would be granted.

The other papers comment guardedly on the general situation, but accustom from the lack of definite news from the editorials were written. Most of them advocate a stern inquiry regarding outrages and the punishment of the leaders, even if they have to be pursued all over China.

The Daily Graphic, in a paragraph apparently inspired, says there is no reason to believe that any of the powers will repudiate the previous positions with respect to the integrity of the empire and the dynasty, adding that the proposal to land a British force at Shanghai originated not in the British Government, but with the Chinese who, on the same time, said that this should be done if likely to lead to international complications.

The second edition of the Daily Telegraph publishes a special dispatch from Shanghai, which says: "The allies entered Pekin unopposed, and met with a friendly reception from Prince Ching. All the hostile elements have already escaped from the city. The imperial court left for Shou 28 August 11 with the Manchuria. The reply is favorable, Earl Li has orders to negotiate without delay. Simultaneously the military in Manchuria will be directed to stop hostilities."

THE PROPOSITION LOST.

Typographical Union Refuses to Allow Stereotypers to Withdraw.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 17.—The forenoon session today of the International Typographical Union was almost exclusively devoted to consideration of the proposition of the stereotypers and electrotypers' trade unions for permission from the I. T. U. to grant their withdrawal from that body and to form an International Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union. The stereotypers favored the proposition, only a few of the printers dissenting. A strong argument against withdrawal, stating that every time a branch withdraws, the power of the international body is lessened. He stated that the publishers were only too anxious to see the different bodies in the printing business become independent of each other, so they could play one off against the other.
