CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Amusements Tonight.

LISKY'S WINTER GARDEN (Third and Morrison streets)—Concert nightly.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.—Edwin McMahon, a very hearty-appearing laboring man, is at the St. Vincent's Hospital suffering from a peculiar stroke of paralysis. McMahon was found in an unconscious condition on the walk near Hood and Lincoln streets yesterday morning. When the police removed him he was unable to give any information concerning himself or even his name. None of his papers revealed this. The man's identity, home, relatives and past seemed likely to remain unknown, as his affliction was dangerous. Late in the afternoon he rallied and indicated where a paper could be found with his name, which also stated that he had been in the employ of the American Woolen Mills, of Chicago. McMahon regained the use of his right hand and partial use of his lower limbs, but the organs of speech remained paralyzed. His efforts to speak were distressing. After an arduous trial, he at times could articulate a word or two, but seemed unable to command the words he desired. By writing as best he could with the right hand and nodding assents or negatives to questions, he indicated that he had suffered from a similar stroke previously. As he was reviving appreciably late in the afternoon, it was hoped by the Sisters that he would be on the road to recovery by today.

STILL VIOLATING THE LAW.—A fisherman who arrived in Portland yesterday from the lower river says there has been an enormous quantity of salmon taken on the Washington side of the river since the season closed, and that Fish Commissioner F. C. Little, of Washington, is being soundly cussed by all decent fishermen for his vacillating, law-breaking policy. He saw Warren's boat passing up the river Thursday with 20 tons of salmon from the traps in Baker's Bay. Etard, the combine's boat, passed up to their cannery at Eureka with a deckload, in addition to a hold full. Cook & Nugent, at Jim Crow Sands, have been fishing right along ever since the season closed, and have averaged over seven tons per day. All the other seiners ceased operations on the 10th, so the Jim Crow fiends have had a benefit. A trap in the river near Cathlamet on Thursday night caught six tons of salmon—four tons of chinook. Those who stopped fishing at the end of the season in order to allow some fish to pass up to their spawning grounds feel pathy to see a few fish hogs capturing they can in violation of law and decency.

RECEIVING A NEW PUMP.—The dredge Portland is at Wolff & Zwicker's Iron Works having a new pump put in. The old pump was looked upon as practically worn out a year ago or more, and a new one was ordered. When it was finished the board could not find time for making the change, and the old pump was stitched up and has been running and doing efficient work ever since. It has worked over 5000 hours, which is five times as long as such pumps usually last, the life of the pumps in the dredges on the Mississippi averaging 1000 working hours. The old pump has at last reached a condition which renders further patching impracticable, and the "flyer" or wheel inside is so worn that it is not desirable to put it in a new case made for it a short time ago. When the new pump is ready a new "flyer" can be made for the new case on hand, and a new pump will be in reserve. It is expected that the new pump will be installed and all in readiness for the dredge to resume operations by September 1.

FUSION HEADQUARTERS.—Headquarters for the fusion Democrats and Populists were secured in the Commercial block yesterday. Will R. King, chairman of the Populist State Central Committee, and C. E. Burke, secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee, engaged the rooms, and will attend to having them fitted up for work during the coming Presidential campaign. Ernest Kroner will act as secretary for the Populists, the work of which office will be divided between him and Burke. Dr. Ernest Lyman, the regular secretary of the Populist committee, is unable to fill the office, owing to the demands of his professional work. While these preliminaries have been attended to, Chairman King states that active work in the campaign will not be commenced before October 1.

CREMATORY WANTED AT NORTH BEACH.—Letters from North Beach bewail the fact that the monster blackfish ever arrived there. It is a whale in size, and is given undisturbed possession of far more space than its body covers. Between tides residents thereabout have taken to saturating the huge carcass with oil as much as possible and igniting the combustible. The big fish cremates slowly. Some have suggested that crematory odors are not a very delightful breath for loading the sea breeze, but people who know from experience state that they would tolerate a dozen crematories in preference to one big blackfish. If there is any enterprising cremastery man who will guarantee to have the carcass consumed, he can have any tribute on the settlement near where the hapless fish landed.

TRANSFER BUSINESS CHANGED.—Transfer companies and truckmen are all busy now, and all their teams are kept going. There has been a great change in this business within a few years, owing to the development of the warehouse business in connection with the various railroads. Many teams used to be kept employed hauling wheat and many more hauling agricultural implements. Now there is no more work of this kind, as the cars and all wheat and machinery at the warehouses. All teams are kept busy hauling merchandise, and teamsters say that if there was as much hauling of wheat and machinery to be done as there was 10 years ago there would not be room for the teams on the streets.

HAWTHORNE AVENUE HILL.—The Board of County Commissioners is going out today to investigate the condition of things in connection with the widening and lowering of the grade of Hawthorne avenue at the summit of the hill. It appears that the old Board of Commissioners was informed that in making the improvement some 12,000 or 15,000 cubic yards of earth would be excavated, and it promised to supply a man with 2000 yards to make a fill. It turns out that there will be only about 3000 yards of excavation, and therefore it will not be practicable to furnish 3000 yards of earth. The Commissioners have caused work on the job to be stopped until they have looked into the situation.

APPRECIATED THE SOUVENIR.—While Charles J. Schnabel was in Washington, D. C., recently he presented to the National Museum one of the souvenir buttons being sold by the Volunteers for the benefit of the monument fund. In the presentation, Mr. Schnabel explained that it was made from Spanish cannon [illegible], brought from the Philippines. In recognition, the museum authorities returned Mr. Schnabel an engraved receipt, expressing gratitude for the gift. It has been suggested that the museum would be glad to receive a sample of the bronze medals being presented by the state to ex-soldiers, which are also made of Spanish cannon bronze captured in the Philippines.

REMOVING OLD RAILS.—The Metropolitan Street Railway Company has resumed work on the Corbett-street extension to Fulton. The track running along the line to Fulton Park is being torn up and the rails removed to the new line, which will be ready for operation to Fulton in a week or two.

POSTPONED.—The O. R. & N. low excursion rates to Bonneville and Columbia River points will be discontinued Sunday on account of a special chartered excursion train to Bonneville and Cascade Locks.

BACK FROM ALASKA CRUISE.—Captain Langfitt, United States Engineer, engineer of the 13th lighthouse district, who left Portland June 20 with Captain Day, lighthouse inspector, for a cruise in Alaskan waters on the tender Columbine, arrived home yesterday morning. He left the Columbine at Seattle, and Captain Day is coming around to the Columbia on her. The object of the trip was to inspect aids to navigation and select suitable sites for several lighthouses. They inspected some 60 aids to navigation and established several new ones; also selected a site for a lighthouse at Dutch Harbor and several others in Southeast Alaska. The trip was a very enjoyable one, owing to the fine scenery, and some good halibut fishing was enjoyed. The monotony of the cruise was relieved by a lively storm encountered on the passage from Sitka to Dutch Harbor. With the fish and lumber of Alaska and the development of the mining interests there, the commerce is bound to increase, and it will not be many years before the coast line is dotted with lighthouses.

FOR KILLING AN ELK.—Game and Forestry Warden Quimby is having an investigation made of the case of a man named Heckler accused of killing an elk in Clackamas County. The case was first brought up in Wasco County against Matt Busick, but the charge was dismissed, as the testimony showed that the elk was shot two and one-half miles inside the Clackamas County line. It was also proven at the trial that Busick shot at the elk and missed, but that Heckler shot and killed it. Both of the men dressed the elk, carried it to camp together, and ate of it together, but the elk was in possession of Heckler. In case the investigations prove that Heckler really killed the elk, he will be prosecuted in Clackamas County.

OREGON WAS REPRESENTED.—Lieutenant C. H. Meussdorffer, Company F, Second Oregon Volunteers, who is now in Washington, D. C., employed in the Census Bureau, was a member of General Lawton Camp, Eighth Army Corps Veterans, organized there August 6. The camp is composed entirely of men who saw service in the Eighth Army Corps. One would not expect to find many veterans so far East as Washington, but in response to the call for a meeting a considerable number responded, representing nearly all the Western States. Lieutenant Meussdorffer and H. L. Holgate represented Oregon.

INCORPORATIONS.—Articles of incorporation of the Goodman Bros.' Shoe Company were filed in the County Clerk's office yesterday. The objects are to carry on a wholesale boot and shoe business and to manufacture boots and shoes. Capital stock, $50,000. Incorporators, M. Goodman, Joseph Goodman and T. R. Goodman. Articles of incorporation were filed of the Columbia Engineering Works. The objects are to carry on iron works, brass works, boiler works, etc. The incorporators are J. C. Flanders, S. B. Linthicum and A. E. Gebhardt. Capital stock, $5000.

SLOT MACHINES ROBBED.—Burglars broke into the Cricket saloon, 187 North Third street, early yesterday morning and robbed the slot machines belonging to the proprietors, Anderson & Johnson, of $50 in small change. The machines had not cashed in for over a week, and the cracksmen got an unusually good haul. Nothing else was stolen save two bottles of whisky to serve as refreshment after the labors of breaking open the till and cash boxes of the money and card machines.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.—Pioneers appreciate the efforts of the Oregon Historical Society in endeavoring to gather into a place of safe-keeping the relics of the journey across the plains and those relating to the primitive conditions of early life in Oregon. To give them and the public generally the opportunity for inspection, the Historical Society rooms will be open today, from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M., in the City Hall, top floor, northwest corner.

HIGHEST IN HIS CLASS.—In the last issue of the Army and Navy Review appears the statement that Neil Johnson, well known in Portland, stands highest in his class at the Annapolis Naval Academy this year. Mr. Johnson entered the naval school three years ago, about the same time his brother went to West Point. Both had lived in Portland eight or 10 years previously, and had many friends.

UP THE CLACKAMAS.—Governor Geer, Secretary of State Dunbar and Fish Commissioner Reed went up to the Clackamas hatchery yesterday to see what they could see. The river has been full of fish since the season closed, but the fishermen on the Washington side have been hard at work capturing dozens of tons, and it will be fortunate if there are any left to furnish eggs for the hatcheries.

BISHOP MORRIS' APPOINTMENTS.—August 24, Gardner; August 26, forenoon, Empire City; August 26, evening, Marshfield; August 27, Bandon; September 2, Port Orford; September 4 and 5, Bandon; September 9, forenoon, Coquille City; September 9, evening, Myrtle Point; September 16, Seaside; September 23, Seaside.

MAIL FOR THE YUKON.—Information is given by the office of the chief clerk of the Railway Mail Service that a steamer will leave Seattle on the 22d inst. carrying mails for St. Michael and all points on the Yukon River. A railway postal clerk will be in charge of all mails on this trip.

THE First Presbyterian Church, Alder and Twelfth streets. The Rev. Wallace Nutting, D. D., of Providence, R. I., will preach Sunday morning on "What Are Safe Subjects of Thought?" and in the evening on "The Stirring Spirit of Christianity."

STRUCK A HOT PACE.

A Notable Day's Work by an Oregonian Linotype Operator.

Yesterday Hugh Glen, who manipulates the keyboard of one of The Oregonian's linotype machines, performed what is considered by his fellow-operators a remarkable day's work, in view of the fact that it was accomplished under the ordinary routine conditions of work, with his machine running at usual speed, and taking copy from the hook in his turn, dumping his matter, correcting his proof, etc. In eight hours Mr. Glen set 2830 lines of type, making 73,850 ems. At the speed his machine was run, 3200 lines was the limit of its casting ability, so it will be seen the output was within 370 lines of the capacity of the machine. As there is an average of 40 characters to the line, during the eight hours Mr. Glen assembled into lines 113,200 separate matrices, or what would fill more than 13 columns of The Oregonian. Under special speed conditions—a longer line, machine running faster, selected copy, etc.—better records have been reported, but working under the same conditions Mr. Glen did, it is not believed his performance can be beaten.

CABLE PARK, FOR AN OUTING

Cable Park, Portland Heights, 800 feet above the city, at terminus of Portland Railway, open to the public. Fine view of the snow-clad peaks, city and country, pleasant shade, good refreshment stand, comfortable seats and swings, with monkeys and young bears to amuse the children. Open cars leave the entrance every seven and one-half minutes.

A. O. U. W. LODGES TO JOIN

THEY WILL BE IN STREET PARADE AT FAIR OPENING.

Wasco County Will Send Carloads of Her Products to the Grain Palace.

The A. O. U. W. lodges of Portland are going to take a prominent part in the Street Fair. Last evening committees from city lodges met at A. O. U. W. hall, in the Hirsch-Selling block, to arrange preliminaries. Ralph Feeney, grand master workman, was chosen chairman, and J. W. Paddock, secretary. The sentiment was unanimously in favor of full representation at the carnival on opening day. A booth will also be fitted up by the lodges, which hope to make it one of the most attractive of the fair. Committees were appointed to take charge of the preparations, issue circulars, etc. The next meeting of the committees will be held Friday evening, August 24, at the same hall.

Judge Bradshaw and Peter De Huff, a committee from The Dalles lodge of Elks, were here yesterday arranging for the exhibit of Wasco County in the grain palace, in which they were allotted a liberal space and their plans received with favor by the executive committee of the fair. H. E. Dosch is kept busy allotting the space in that building which will be one of the most interesting on the street. Colonel Judson's grain which has been collected in Eastern Oregon and Washington has already been shipped and it will be here the first of next week. President Lytle, of the Columbia Southern Railroad, informed the managers of the carnival yesterday that his company would ship to Portland several carloads of grain and other products of the territory tapped by the railroad.

The woman's building was completed yesterday and will be turned over today to the women's auxiliary committee for decoration and the arrangement of the interior. Finishing touches are being put on the Washington-street pavilion, and the Morrison-street arch. Work on the manufacturers' building and the extension of the midway was begun yesterday. The Elks' garden in front of the Portland Hotel is plotted out and is ready for the decorations of trees and grass. By next week all of the construction work of the fair will be finished, and every building and booth ready to receive exhibits.

In addition to providing the Tabernacle for the use of the visiting Elks' lodges as a club-room, a committee on hospitality has been appointed to receive and welcome all the visitors, composed as follows:

W. J. Riley, chairman; John E. Kelly, John Lamont, C. W. Cornelius, George Streeter, Thomas McNamee, D. M. Dunne, George C. Sears, Joseph McKee, T. B. McDevitt, M. Laudenklos, C. E. Holmes, Ad Simon, Joe Gilbert, Ed Soloman, G. E. Withington, George Judge, Ralph Prager, A. P. Hansen, and Hunt Lewis.

Today votes for the Carnival Queen will be counted again, and it is probable that many changes of position will be made among the candidates. Partisans have been active the last two days, and as the contest is nearing its end Street Fair politicians assert that the reserve fund of votes accumulated by the friends of several candidates will soon be brought in play.

Wasco County Fruit.

Says the Hood River Glacier: "The Dalles lodge of Elks are making praiseworthy efforts to have Wasco County well represented at the Carnival and Street Fair to be held in Portland, September 4 to 15. They will spare neither money nor effort to make Wasco County's exhibit the best the county has ever had. At a meeting last week committeemen were appointed from the various sections of the county to promote the object in view. Emil Schanno, of The Dalles, is chairman and general manager. Those appointed from Hood River are: E. L. Smith, N. C. Evans and H. F. Davidson. The Portland carnival committee has offered to give Wasco County any amount of space in the agricultural palace that may be considered necessary, from 50 to 150 feet. The O. R. & N. Co. offers to carry the exhibits to Portland without charge. The fruitgrowers and farmers of Wasco County have the products to make the best horticultural and agricultural exhibit in the state. Hood River has the fruit to make the horticultural exhibit, and if our fruitgrowers will furnish the Hood River committeemen choice samples of their fruit, Messrs. Smith, Evans and Davidson will arrange for an attractive exhibit at the street fair, without any expense or further trouble to the growers. If the Hood River fruitgrowers furnish the fruit, the awarding judges at the Portland fair will furnish the prizes."

FINE EXHIBITION OF CURIOS.

First at the Symposium Club; Then at the Street Fair.

Christopher Ross, the world's celebrated curio hunter, will place on free exhibition at the rooms of the Symposium Club, 285 Washington street, from August 21 to 28 two of the 15 original pictures presented to him by the United States Government, in recognition of his great perseverance and life-long service as a collector of curios. But one other copy of these celebrated pictures was ever taken, and they are contained in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C.

The full set of these original pictures with many other curiosities of priceless value will be on exhibition in the midway during the Elks' Street Carnival.

The beautiful collection of rare shells in the City Museum was gathered by Mr. Ross, and at the present time he pays insurance on $30,000 in New York City on his collection, and the storage and insurance on the collection of curios to be shown here is large. The space allotted to him in the Street Fair and Carnival will be necessarily limited, but will contain the best of his collection, and lovers of beauty and Nature will be afforded a treat.

Mr. Ross has labored for 40 years as a curio collector, during which he has visited almost every portion of the world.

The exhibition will be under the direction of Chris Ross and Richard Dunn, two well-known citizens of Portland, whose guarantee of its quality is sufficient.

TWO INQUESTS YESTERDY.

Deaths of Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Woodworth Investigated.

Two Coroner's inquests were held last evening. At the inquest over the remains of Mrs. Mary Richards, the testimony was heard of Hamilton Hankins, George Bielch and D. D. Patterson, who live in the lodging-house at First and Jefferson streets, where the death occurred. They testified to finding Mrs. Richards on Thursday morning, suffering from the effects of poison which she said she had taken, and from which she died before a physician could be obtained. They also testified to the fact that she was in a morbid state of mind, and frequently expressed her intentions of committing suicide. She was a native of Ireland and 53 years old.

The jury brought in a verdict of death from strychnine poisoning taken with suicidal intent, and the jury further found "that a certain physician was called to attend the deceased, and that her life might have been saved had the physician not refused to attend the case when summoned."

In the second inquest, inquiring into the cause of the death of Mrs. Fremont E. Woodworth, at 249 Monroe street, Albina, Thursday afternoon, a verdict was not reached, but the testimony of several important witnesses was heard, indicating suicide. When the death was discovered, the pistol was found in a strange position at the foot of the bed and on her left side, and at first it was supposed that it could not have been placed there by her. The medical testimony of Dr. W. B. Hamilton, however, explained that while the weapon was found in a strange position, and the pistol wound must have caused almost instantaneous death, yet it could have reached such a position by having been thrown there in a dying paroxysm.

Miss Emma Whitney, a next-door neighbor, testified that Mrs. Woodworth was usually of a cheerful disposition, though sometimes despondent when in ill-health, although happy in her domestic life. There had been no quarrel or disturbance in the Woodworth household that afternoon. So strange was the death that Miss Whitney was inclined to believe that it was accidental.

The husband, Fremont Woodworth, testified that their domestic relations had been happy, and that they had that afternoon been planning an Eastern trip to Illinois, and that he had given her $50 to save towards the trip. He came home at 1:30 from his duties as locomotive engineer, and before he lay down to rest she had kissed him and gone to a neighbor's house. He had not seen her after that, until he heard the shot and rushed to her room, which he found locked. He broke a panel of the door, and saw his wife lying, shot, on the bed.

Patrick O'Connor, of 251 Morrison street, corroborated Mr. Woodworth's testimony, having heard his cries, and reached the house after the panel of the door had been broken in.

HIS MOTHER'S ESTATE.

Tom Merry Gets an Inheritance Intended for His Sister.

The San Francisco Chronicle, of August 15, has the following, which will interest friends of Thomas B. Merry, the newspaper man, well-known throughout Oregon and Washington:

Mrs. Jane E. Rockwell's will has been filed for probate here by her son, Thomas B. Merry, of Los Angeles. Mrs. Rockwell died in Washington, D. C., last month. The estate that she left here consists of First National Bank stock worth $12,000 and $3000 worth of other personal property. She bequeathed all of her estate to her daughter, Charlotte L. Rockwell, and appointed the latter as executrix. The will was made on May 14, 1891, in Brooklyn, N. Y. The daughter died on January 24, 1900, and Merry stated that he was the only surviving child of Mrs. Rockwell. His father was Captain Charles J. Merry, of New York, her first husband.

"The other heirs-at-law, who are entitled to part of the estate, are Bancroft Gherardi, Jr., residing at 18 Cortlandt street, New York, and Walter R. Gherardi, an officer in the United Staes Navy, who is at present stationed in English waters. The Gherardis are grandsons of Mrs. Rockwell. Their father was Admiral Bancroft Gherardi, of the United States Navy, and their mother, Anna T. Gherardi, was Mrs. Rockwell's daughter. She also is dead. Merry asks for appointment as administrator of the estate."
