An ordinance appropriating $500 out of the general fund to purchase vehicle li-cense tags for the remainder of 1900 and the year 1901 was passed. An ordinance authorizing the license committee to purchase license tags caused a short discussion. Sherratt wished to have proposals for furnishing these tags advertised for or the work divided among cal workmen. Branch explained that the tags would be needed on September 1, and that there was only one machine in the city for making them, and that in this case the Council might place enough onfidence in the license committee to authorize them to procure the tags to the best advantage. bridge carpenters are constantly em-ployed at E 25 a day. In the street cleaning department three hostlers are employed at the city barn at $00 a month each. All other employed receive $2 a day, when they work, but are not employed more than 20 days in a month. Last month there were 48 men on the rolls, besides the hands given in the tables, the lowest of whom received $2 and the highest $52.

In the police department there are two captains at $560 a year each, four detect-ives at $560 a year, one license officer at $1500, one deputy license officer at $340, one sergeant of police at $300, 45 patrol-

In the fire department the assistant to superintendent of fire alarm telegraph gets $750, the supply driver $340, engineers $1920, engine drivers $780, tillermen and drivers of trucks $780, hose wagon drivers $729, pipemen in hose companies $720, chemical crews from $720 to $780, foremen in hose companies and engines $300, and extramen $240.

Last month there were nine laborers employed in the City Park, receiving $2 a day while they worked. This force is much larger in Summer than in Winter. The number of men employed in the City Engineer's department varies with the season. Four street repairers and four sewer repairers represents the Sum-mer force. In the street cleaning department the number of men also varies. In the Winter it is unnecessary to sprinkle. At certain seasons it is more advantageous to clean streets than at others. In the fire department there are changes made each month in the extrachanges made each month in the extramen list, as some men find employment inconsistent with their duties in the department. Engines, trucks and hose companies have a standard crew, which may be reduced somewhat where proper persons are not found to fill vacancies.

WHERE SHEEP DO NOT THRIVE

otes and Congars. There are cattle ranges in Oregon upon which bands of sheep never venture, and yet the cattlemen have not attempted in any manner to prevent them. Cows and caives and fat steers range over these public lands by the square mile, and their grasses are never scented with the breath of the woolly animals. In Summer these ranges are unlimited in extent, be-cause the bovines can penetrate far into the mountains, well up toward the line of eternal snow, and yet no shepherd's tent relieves the beauty of the landscape and no herder's dog makes it interesting for the prowling coyote. This may be considered strange in a state where sheep are supposed to have tramped over every acre of public grazing land for the past 20 years, but the locality in which the steer is really king lies on the western slope of the Cascades in the eastern por tions of Linn and Lane Counties. Here cattle roam the Summer hills by the thousand, clipping the blossoms in June,
