CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Amusements Tonight.

ALBERT'S WINTER GARDEN (Third and Morrison streets)—Concert nightly.

HOW SHE INCREASED HER WEIGHT.—A low-down trick was played on County Auditor Pope the other day by one of a party of girls employed in the Courthouse who were visiting him at his farm. Mr. Pope has a place near Clackamas Station, in which he takes great pride, and especially in his garden, where he grows all sorts of vegetables of the finest quality and in the greatest profusion. The young women had gone out to sample his fruit, cream, vegetables and everything else on the ranch, and were boasting about how much they were going to eat. Before going to the table they all had themselves weighed, and one of them afterward loaded herself down by suspending several flatirons under her skirts. After dinner they were all weighed again, and each had gained from two to three pounds, and when the loaded one got on the scales and showed an increase of 13 pounds Mr. Pope came near fainting and ordered a doctor sent for at once. He was at length persuaded that this was not necessary, as this young woman was habitually a hearty eater, and her health was not in danger. The young woman was much pleased with the success of her trick, but complains that her shins are all black and blue where the flatirons banged against them. Mr. Pope will probably think twice before he entertains that crowd of young women again.

EARLY FALL TROUT FISHING.—There has been fine fishing for salmon or Fall trout in the Columbia about half a mile above the Vancouver ferry landing on the Oregon side. Last Sunday and the Sunday before some 15 or 20 sportsmen were fishing there, and many people were looking on and enjoying the sport. Some fine catches were made, and among the trout taken was one weighing four pounds and a number weighing two pounds each. Some fished with rod and line and others with a throw line. The latter, after throwing their baited hook as far out as possible, would stick a forked stick in the sand and hang their line in the crotch and wait until they saw it running out, and then run the trout in. This is earlier in the season than usual for catching Fall trout, which generally do not put in an appearance until after the rains set in. There has been good fishing all along down the river of late, and doubtless Fall trout could be caught now in the Willamette over on the bar above Brooklyn and farther up. The fishermen out on the Columbia heard a number of shots fired during the day, and have an idea that some pothunter was slaughtering pheasants in that section.

PROPOSALS FOR DREDGING.—Sealed proposals for excavating and dredging in the Columbia River in the vicinity of Astoria were opened by Captain Langfitt yesterday. The specifications call for the removal of 12,500 cubic yards of rock at the Sylvia de Grasse Reef and the dredging of 120,500 cubic yards (more or less) from the channel in the vicinity of Astoria. Four bids were submitted, the amounts being down closer to each other than is usual in such cases, but all considered high. The bidders were Smyth & Howard, Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging Company, Joseph Paquet & Co. and Marshall C. Harris, of San Francisco. The bids for rock excavation ran from $20.50 per yard to $20. On the dredging of 4500 yards the bids ran from $1 per yard to 65 cents, and on the dredging of 225,000 yards the bids ran from 70 cents to 60 cents per yard. When the bids are summarized they will be sent to Washington for inspection and the awarding of the contracts.

GOT THREE GRAND OFFICERS.—Health Commissioner J. P. Menefee, who has been attending the convention of Woodmen of the World at Salt Lake City, is home again. He endeavored to secure the next meeting of the convention for Portland, but as it met here only six years ago he failed in his effort, and the next meeting will be held at Cripple Creek, Colo. Although it did not secure the next meeting of the head camp, Oregon received more than its share of officers, being given three of the 14. C. V. Cooper was re-elected head banker. He handles all the funds through Portland banks, and during the past 12 months has handled $1,800,000. President Hawley, of the Willamette University, was elected a manager for four years, while a delegate from Huntington was made head sentry. The head camp is composed of the nine states from the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific Ocean.

MAKING A PERMANENT RECORD.—Deputy City Treasurer Miller has gotten up two new record books for the Treasurer's office, in which will be kept a complete record of the proceedings in regard to the improvement of all streets and sewers from the time the ordinance authorizing the work was passed up to the time the assessments are paid and the account balanced. Heretofore the advertisement of the improvement cut from the paper in which it was published and pasted in a book has been the only record kept of the progress of the work since [illegible]. Any property-owner or contractor by looking over these books can see just how many of the assessments have been paid. The keeping of these books will involve considerable labor, but they will be a great convenience and a permanent record.

CHANGE IN SEASIDE SCHEDULE of steamer T. J. Potter.—For the accommodation of seasiders and for the return of beach passengers, it has been decided to operate the steamer T. J. Potter daily on the following schedule, in effect to September 5:

	Leave Portland.	Leave Ilwaco.
August 28	7:30 A. M.	4:30 P. M.
August 29	7:30 A. M.	5:00 P. M.
August 30	8:00 A. M.	5:00 P. M.
August 31	8:00 A. M.	5:30 P. M.
September 1	8:30 A. M.	6:00 P. M.
September 2	9:00 A. M.	6:00 P. M.
September 3	9:00 A. M.	6:00 P. M.
September 4	9:00 A. M.	6:00 P. M.
September 5	9:00 A. M.	6:00 P. M.

After September 5 such service as will be necessary to accommodate beach travel.

MORE THAN ONE ATTRACTION.—Portland hotel keepers are already being telegraphed to for rooms from all over the Northwest, and indications point to a crowded city on September 5. The applicants nearly all want the rooms for the fair. Low rates will also bring the family element to the city in large numbers, and everybody in town with relatives within 300 miles is getting ready to entertain. The Street Fair, the circus and John G. Woolley, the Prohibition candidate for President, are expected all about the same time, so people will have varied excuses for coming to the city.

HOW USEFUL TRICK.—A pair of bicycle experts dressed in tatters and employed in advertising the arrival of the "great Midway" furnished amusement to crowds on the down town yesterday. One of them, who rode a rearing, prancing bicycle on the hind wheel, exhibited a very useful trick for bicycle riders. His partner had fallen flat on the pavement, and he made his bicycle jump over and leap over the fellow, as a horse would jump over a fence, and without hurting him. If every bicycle rider could do that trick there would be fewer people knocked down by bicycles.

RECEIVED FIRST PRIZE.—Woodard, Clarke & Co. received a letter yesterday from the Eastman Kodak Company announcing that the first prize—$100 cash—in class A advertisements had been awarded to them. This advertisement appeared in The Sunday Oregonian, July 1. Each year the Kodak Company offers prizes for the most original and attractive advertisement, and Woodard, Clarke & Co. got the big prize. Last year they got second.

NOTICE TO CARNIVAL EXHIBITORS.—Exhibitors desiring passes for help to Street Fair and Carnival will please send application for same to committee, Carnival headquarters.

UMBRELLAS.—Repairing and recovering. Smith's, Washington, bet. 5th and 6th.

Oregon Mining Stock Exchange, 10:30.

COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN.—Miss Sadie American will arrive here tomorrow morning, and in the afternoon at 2:30 Miss American will give an informal talk at the Hirsch-Selling building to council members and their friends. Miss American has been most successful in all the cities she has visited in forming sections, where there were none, and in increasing membership of those already formed. Miss American is most anxious thoroughly to explain the council's work and aims, and it will be her pleasure to answer all questions relative to its work. Miss American has found that these informal talks lead to a better understanding between local sections and the National council and to more practical results. After the talk an opportunity will be given all those who desire to meet Miss American. On Thursday evening Miss American will deliver an address at the Temple Beth Israel at 8 o'clock, to which the public is invited.

PORTLAND'S ACTUAL VALUATION.—City Auditor Devlin is receiving numerous inquiries from the East and elsewhere in regard to the $25,000 of improvement bonds advertised to be sold September 15. Many of the inquirers desire to learn what is the assessed valuation of real and personal property in the city and what is the actual value of the same. There is a wide discrepancy in the ideas of different people on this subject. The assessed valuation is at present less than $20,000,000, while in 1892 it was $61,000,000. Some say the real valuation at present is more than double the assessed valuation, and that if personal property was assessed at its full value the city would have all the money needed. The city has some $72,000, received from installments on bonded improvements, which, if it were not required to be kept in bank, could be invested in improvement bonds and thus the city's credit be benefited.

DIED FROM OVERDOSE OF MORPHINE.—The Coroner's jury completed its investigations yesterday morning as to the causes of the death of Lillian Johnson, who died under suspicious circumstances Saturday afternoon, and brought in a verdict of death from opium poisoning from an overdose of morphine accidentally administered. The testimony heard Sunday evening indicated that opium poisoning was the cause of the death, and implicated W. H. Speights, a colored man, formerly a morphine fiend by his own admission, as having administered the drug to the woman in order to quiet her from an attack of hysteria. The verdict did not charge Speights with criminal intent, but simply with having accidentally administered an overdose of the drug. He has, however, been held in custody at the city jail, and a charge will be entered against him.

SHOT AT A LAWLESS HUNTER.—A citizen who was out on the Columbia Slough below the Vancouver ferry Sunday states that Game Warden Quimby came near catching a fellow who was violating the game law by shooting pheasants. Mr. Quimby heard him shoot more than once, and finally saw him kill a pheasant. Quimby got within 25 or 30 yards of him and then summoned him to surrender. He had no idea of doing anything of the kind, but started off at the top of his speed, and plunged across a slough, Mr. Quimby taking two shots at him, which made him accelerate his speed, and he finally got away out of sight. The citizen who furnished this information says Quimby may get the fellow yet, for if he was hit he will have to send for a doctor, and added, "and I hope to the Lord he was."

COMBINING TWO CREEKS FOR POWER.—It seems certain that some scheme is on foot to control the flow of Gordon Creek with the view of affording sufficient power to run an electric station of some magnitude. In addition to the dam which has already been constructed across the creek about eight or nine miles above its confluence with the Sandy, it is understood that plans have already been made for turning the flow of Trapper Creek into Gordon itself. While Trapper Creek is a stream of small magnitude, yet its waters joined to those of Gordon will add considerably to the volume of the latter creek. Farmers living in the neighborhood say that some company has already obtained large holdings of property in the vicinity of the present dam.

FOUNTAIN ELK IN POSITION.—The missing "capstone" of the Thompson fountain having at last come to hand and been put in place, the bronze elk was hoisted into position on it yesterday, and his magnificent antlers placed in their sockets. The animal stands at gaze, looking to the west, and metaphorically snuffing the tainted breeze. If it were a real elk it would be afraid to jump down, on account of the number of dogs in sight all the time. The fountain is now practically completed, it only remaining to make connection with the mains and turn on the water. This will be done soon, and the street around the fountain will be paved from Third to Fourth.

EMERGENCY CORPS.—All members of the Emergency Corps and Red Cross Society are requested to meet the president, Mrs. Henry E. Jones, at the Armory, Wednesday, August 29, at 10 A. M., to arrange plans for a lunch to be given during Carnival week. As calls for relief are constantly made on the society by the sick and disabled of both Army and Navy, it is necessary to have an amount of money on hand to aid these cases. The object of the proposed lunch is to increase this reserve fund and also add a handsome sum to the monument fund now on hand. Let every member of the society be present on Wednesday morning to lend assistance.

FRANK TURK IN A ROW.—Frank Turk, well known in Portland, was fined $50 in Honolulu on the 15th of this month for participating in a three-cornered fight, in which two crimps were principals. Turk and his partner, a man named Lewis, were walking near the water front when they met an Irishman named McCarthy, and the fight began. Turk and Lewis doubling teams on the Celt, who proved too much for them. A policeman interrupted the fight and marched all three off to jail. The partners accused McCarthy of assault with a dangerous weapon, and appealed their cases, not liking the $50 fine.

INQUEST.—The Coroner's jury, holding an inquest over the death of Marcus H. Duntley, fatally injured in an accident at Inman-Poulson's mill, brought in a verdict explaining how he met death while switching a moving belt. The belt and the pulley wheel broke for some unforeseen reason, and he was caught and drawn in and around a shaft, producing the injuries that caused his death Saturday afternoon. He was 54 years old, carried insurance in fraternal orders, and was one of the mill's most efficient workmen.

BEGINNING FRUIT-DRYING.—Fruit-drying began on Dr. O. P. S. Plummer's farm, four miles southwest of the city, yesterday. Bartlett pears and French and Silver prunes will stock the trays principally, as the Italian prunes are a failure this year. Dr. Plummer has 20 acres of orchard, and usually the crop keeps two driers in operation for some time. Twelve persons are employed this season, under supervision of F. Diedrichs, and the work will take five or six weeks.

FOR THE HOPFIELDS.—A number of wagons loaded with men, women and children passed through town yesterday bound for the hopfields up the Valley. One couple had their frail wagon loaded to the guards with themselves and five children, the oldest not over 10 years. An old cooking stove was fastened to the rear of the wagon, and a regular Long Tom of stovepipe was lashed on one side. The hops will just rain down into the boxes when that crowd gets to work.

M. E. B. A., No. 41.—Special meeting tonight.

George Petsch, the 15-year-old son of Deputy Plumbing Inspector C. F. Petsch, had the misfortune to fall and break his left arm last Thursday, at Sellwood. He is doing well and will soon be out.

The Huntington Herald says that the fruit on Snake River is ripening so fast that it is impossible to take care of it.

HOW FILIPINOS FOLLOWED THE THIRTY-SEVENTH.

Officer in the Service Writes to His Brother in Portland of the Guerrilla Warfare.

Thomas W. Gunn, First Sergeant, Company K, Thirty-seventh Infantry, who is now awaiting his commission as Second Lieutenant, writes an interesting letter from Magdalene, Province of Laguno, P. I., to his brother in Portland, W. F. Gunn, superintendent of J. M. Arthur & Co., machinery company. Among other things he says:

"There is a great deal of sickness here at present. Probably 30 per cent of the troops on this island are unfitted for service. There are 101 men in K Company, and we have 13 sick in hospital, nine are in the United States for medical treatment, and eight sick in Onortero. There are about 10 or 12 others who would not be able to stand hard service such as we had for about four months.

"The campaign ended about two weeks ago, and came near to finishing the troops engaged. Climbing mountains and wading streams day after day, and every day, loaded down with rifle, belt, 200 rounds of ammunition, haversack containing two days' hardtack and bacon or salmon and canteen of water, is quite enough to run troops down, especially in this country, where the days are so awfully warm.

"The 'niggers' are not so much to be feared as the diseases. Dysentery and malaria are the dangerous diseases, the former being the more feared. I guess the Filipinos ambushed and fired upon us 20 different times, and our regiment lost but six killed and about 10 or 12 wounded. Usually these ambushes occurred at extreme range, say from 1000 to 1500 yards, and the 'niggers' usually made sure that there was a river between them and the Americans, or, if they did not have that, they had a splendid line of retreat, and would fire a volley or two and run where it was impossible to follow. One ambush took place about two weeks ago. A wagon train was en route from Santa Cruz to this place with rations and other supplies. There were about 10 wagons, which were accompanied by an escort of about 25 soldiers. At a point about half way they were fired upon from two different directions. In this case the 'niggers' had managed to get up courage enough to make an attack from a distance of only 75 yards, and had thrown up a good trench during the night. Their first fire was a signal for our troops to begin operations, which they did with little delay by charging the enemy's positions, 12 men going each way. The Americans fired a few volleys at the top of the trenches and then charged, yelling like Comanche Indians. This is always too much for the cowardly 'niggers,' and they broke and ran away through the cocoanut groves. One of our men was shot through the thigh, and the officer in charge of the escort was hit by a Mauser bullet in the left forearm. Neither was serious. Eight 'niggers' were killed, and some must have been wounded. That is the last ambush. I imagine they concluded it was too expensive.

"These Filipinos can carry on this sort of warfare for 20 years. They gather only in bands, and when the Americans make things too warm for them they disperse and become friends again. They hide their arms and ammunition, and it is impossible to tell them from the peaceful Filipinos. It is a very, very difficult proposition. We can't shoot them down without proof that they are insurgents, and it seems to me to be about impossible to find this out. It is to be hoped that the Filipinos will soon learn that we are actually here for their own good, and would gladly give over shooting them if they would but lay down their arms and become peaceful citizens.

"This is certainly a fertile island. Anything that can be raised in a tropical climate grows well here. The resources of the island have never been developed, and it will be several years before we will know much about what may be raised here. Some gold has been found in Northern Luzon, but it is so unsafe for prospectors that but few have ventured thus far, and several of them have been waylaid and killed by the hill bands.

"I do not believe there is much chance here for anything in the machinery line. There are too many Chinese here, and labor is too cheap for machinery. Of course, after it has become somewhat Americanized, things will change greatly all around, but that may be several years hence."

HAMPERED BY LACK OF FUNDS

More Sellers of Impure Food Should Be Prosecuted.

Food Commissioner Bailey thinks process butter has been driven out of the Oregon market by his recent efforts toward prosecuting persons selling the article. Adulterated jelly, however, is still offered for sale in Portland markets, but it is labeled "50 per cent glucose."

He thinks he could soon drive out all adulterated foods if he had means at his disposal to travel about and prosecute those dealing in such articles, but his salary is only $1500 a year, and he does not even get traveling expenses. He cannot afford to defray the expenses of prosecution, so is obliged to confine himself to the most aggravated cases.

A process-butter case has been on the docket in Justice Kraemer's court for several months, but the vender of the stuff seems to have been a traveling man, who happens in Portland only occasionally, and manages to elude the service of the warrant while here. The case was tried once, and the Justice decided that the wrong man had been arrested.

Mr. Bailey says he would like to go on clear down the line and include teas, coffees and spices in his prosecutions, had he the means to do so. "California and Minnesota," he said yesterday, "spend thousands of dollars annually in prosecuting venders of adulterated foods, and it pays in the protection of consumers."

LONG BEACH AS A SEASIDE RESORT.

To the north of the mouth of the Columbia River, stretching in an unbroken line for 25 miles from Cape Disappointment to Willapa Bay, is located the popular Summer resort known as Long Beach. At low tide this beach makes one of the finest driveways imaginable, and is also utilized to a great extent as a bicycle path. The surf bathing is enjoyable. Clams, crabs and deep-sea fish are plentiful, and are to be had for the catching. The hotels are numerous and conveniently located near the beach.

August and September are considered the most enjoyable months at Long Beach. The waters of "old ocean" have had time to be warmed by the sun, and the surf bathing is then unexcelled.

The popular side-wheel steamer T. J. Potter will make daily trips between Portland and Ilwaco until September 5. The last trip of the Potter from Portland will be September 8 and from Ilwaco September 9. After that date arrangements will be made for seasiders to return on I. R. & N. Co.'s steamer Nahcotta to Astoria, where connection can be made with the evening boat from Astoria for Portland. For further information, call on or address V. A. Schilling, City Ticket Agent, 80 Third street, corner Oak, or H. F. Campion, Agent, Ash-street dock.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

"Brownies in Fairyland."

The "Brownies in Fairyland" will be a very welcome attraction at the Marquam Grand, commencing next Monday night. California's press notices are almost lavish in their praises of the singing and dancing of these graceful little people. "What children love is sacred to my heart," says the Prince of the Brownies, and the truth of this is well carried out by the unusually large crowds that attended the performances in San Francisco. The sale of seats commences on Friday. Several special matinees will be given during the week, the exact days of which will be announced later.

A Word About Weber Pianos

"There are hundreds of piano forte makers in the United States," says the New York Tribune, "but not over four are undisputably in the front rank, and prominent among the four is the house of Weber. Although its founder, like the originators of the other leading houses, is no longer living, the great factory which he established still goes on, and the Weber warerooms contain today more exquisite examples of the piano makers' art than were ever before shown by this renowned concern. The elder Weber was a genius in the realm of tone production, and it has been often said that the quality that Stradivarius bestowed upon the violin Weber imparted to his piano forte. His successors have strictly maintained the high standard of excellence established in the early days of the concern, and have perpetuated that wonderful tone quality for which the Weber piano has so long been distinguished. The artistic productions of the house this season merit especial comment."

We have a full assortment of these beautiful pianos. New designs in most beautiful casings, in all the varieties of handsomely figured woods.
