Largest and Finest Parade in History of City—Increased Attendance Expected Today.

ROSEBURG, Or., Sept. 17.—The Street Fair opened today, with splendid weather and a large attendance. Probably 5000 visitors are in town. The streets are resplendent with hunting and profusely decorated booths. The exhibits of fruit and vegetables are very attractive.

Today's parade was the longest and finest ever seen here. Bands, floats, fraternal organizations, National Guards and firemen participated. The principal parade was crowded with people as it passed along. L. A. Sanctuary, King of the Carnival, rode horseback, attended by knights and courtiers. Miss Helen Wells, the Queen, was attended by Misses Addie Seary, Sylvia Stearns, Eva Jacobs and Elena Reed. They rode in a beautiful float, trimmed profusely in white, and were heartily applauded along the entire line of march. At the end of the route, a very large crowd congregated and the Queen was placed upon the head of the crown by the King, with due formality.

The Minister read a proclamation declaring the festivities duly opened, to continue three days and nights.

The remainder of the afternoon and evening was devoted to street performances, field sports and band concerts. The principal contest was a foot race for 100 yards, for a liberal purse, which was won by Tip Goodman.

The management of the fair and the citizens in general are highly elated over the success of the opening, and expect a much larger crowd tomorrow. The principal event tomorrow will be the horse race between picked teams from the Eugene and Roseburg fire departments for a purse of $500. Both teams have been training for some time, and are confident of victory. Other features of the succeeding two days will be those common to street fairs in general.

Something New to Yakima Hop-growers—No Damage Yet.—NORTH YAKIMA, Sept. 17.—Yakima hop-growers have experienced something new to them in harvest time, and that is two days of rain. The crop is about half out of the yards. The growers are alarmed lest the wet weather continue for a few days. If it should there will be heavy losses in all the yards. At this stage of the picking it is estimated that the Yakima crop will amount to about 12,000 bales. If there are no losses, less than one-fourth of it has been secured by the dealers. Thirteen units was the top price paid last week, though it is claimed by growers that better offers are out. The transactions of the week covered less than 100 bales.
