Will Please Women.

Knowing that womankind is always interested in fashions, a representative of The Oregonian visited the store of G. P. Rummelin & Sons, 126 Second street, near Runmelin & Sons, 126 Second street, near Washington, for the purpose of gleaning a little information about the latest pro-ductions in furs. Alaska sealskins still hold supremacy, and are made up in such a variety of styles by this well-known house that it would be impossible to de-scribe them. Sealskins, however, will not monopolize the favor of the fair sex, as Persian Lamb. Mink Stone Marten and a Persian Lamb, Mink, Stone Marten and a variety of other rich furs are in popular demand. Pointed Sable Fox and pointed Lynz neck bons are all the rage, with animal head and cluster of tails. Muffs to match, with head and tails, will by popular, and the effect is most pleasing. The different styles this year are very attractive; and as usual Rummelin & Sons keep abreast of the large New York es-
