He Will Give Way for Another Candidate.

Democrats Not Particularly Auxious to Support a Republican-And Vice Versa.

The conundrum, "Who shall run for the Legislature against John McCraken?" is one than the fusion forces thought they' could propound to each other. The selection of a Republican who would vote for a Mitchell-McBride candidate for United States Senator and act with the Democrats on other business to come before the Legislature looked easy enough from a distance; but now that it is the question before the house, it ap-pears to be too much for the combined political sagnety of the "Citizens" steer-ing committee, the Democratic County Central Committee, and the astute politicians who has undertaken the job of defeating the regular Republican candidate for the United States Senate. Of course, the candidacy of Montag was not, and is not in good faith. Montag doesn't want to run for the Legislature, and if he him. What is wanted is a man whom the Democrats can search wouth finding symptoms of a "double cross" on his per-son, and whom the Mitchell-McBrideltes an tell how to vote when the election of United States Senator is the order of business, with some assurance that they will be obeyed. Thus far the Mitchell forces have proposed and the Democrats have disposed. They have already disposed of Frank C. Barnes, George H. Durham, and F. A. Bancroft, and now they are wondering whether or not they want C. W. Hodson. Should they reject him, the other people will have another candidate on tap. They always have plenty of candidates; in fact, their party in chiefly composed of them.

A variegated picturesqueness is added to the situation by a lack of harmony in the ranks of the Mitchell-McBride people. W. E. Burke, their one-time supporter, but now the chief high priest of the Democratic conclaves, is not anxious that hitchell should be elected, and as the situation is "up to" him, he is pretty likely to take care that the Democrats reject any man who will support Mitchell. There are also politicians of the Mitchell persuasion in the combine who will not allow the presentation of the name of any man who is likely to be too zealous in the cause of McBride. So, even if a man could be found in the camp of the allied forces who would be perfectly sat-isfactory to the Democrats, there must be a pow-wow among the so-called Republican crowd before his name can be anded to the steering committee. It is this beautifully simple problem that the steering committee has the pleas-ant duty of solving before tonight. Montag will pull down his name today, and there must be a man to succeed him. All day yesterday the leaders of the allied forces consulted with each other and summoned their Heutenants from all quarters of the city, but without avail. Ban-croft for a time seemed to be the man who would be commissioned to carry out the various wishes of the fusionists, but it transpired early in the day that some influential Democrats did not want him, because he was connected with a great disposed to give their consent to sup-porting him. The man who seemed to have the best of it yesterday, if a chance for the nomination by the allied forces may be called the best of it, was C. W. Hodson, and unless some more happy suggestion is made today, it is likely that

w. E. Burke, N. T. Peery, Judge Thomas O'Day, Johnson White and John Montag. It was empowered last Spring to select a fusion Legislative ticket for the Demorcratic convention, for the reason that a number of the delegates to that convention were unreasonable enough to be-lieve that its candidates ought all to be Democrats. When the death of A. J. Knott caused a vacancy on the Legislative ticket, the choice of a man was re-MERRY WAR AMONG THE FUSIONISTS recommendation that, inasmuch as Knott was a Democrat, his successor should be of the same political faith. The steering committee has had a great deal of trouble with Democrats, who held this view since it began its grateful task; but its own opinion that a Republican would stand a better chance of election has so dominated the party that the out-and-out Democrats finally contented themselves with putting up the name of Montag, who they knew would not run, and allowing him to pull it down again when the steering committee shall designate a suitable

> Further to simplify and elucidate the situation, the Presidential campaign mixes in. The Democrats of Portland are not confident of carrying either the city or state for Bryan, but they are anxious to make a showing, and to hold their party together. Just how this can be accomplished by giving their support to a Republican candidate for the Legisla-ture, with the understanding that he will. support a Republican candidate for the United States Senate, some of them are unable to see. The county central com-mittee, which has been well organized all Summer, had just succeeded in gathering up the remnants of the party that were left after the Mitchell-McBride invasion in the Spring, and had won back a few Palmer Democrats, and was preparing to make a campaign, by the Democrats, of the Democrats and for the Democrats, when the death of Mr. Knott brought on a second invasion, and they are again set upon by the sorehead Republican crowd, all of whom will vote for McKinley, but all of whom need the Bryan men in their local business. It is this phase of the situation that has severely this phase of the situation that has caused the majority of the party to look with disfavor on any entangling alliances with Senatorial parties, and although a Republican candidate will be named today for the Democrats to support, it is exceedingly doubtful if he calls out a quarter of the strength of the party at the poll in November.

BOY ORATORS.

They Say Aguinaldo Is Second Washington.

An audience of about 80 men and women an audience of about 80 men and women gathered last night in Burkhard's hall, Eapt Side, to hear what the boy orators had to say about "Imperialism and the Philippine War." It was very late when the crowd gathered. The hall was decorated with flags. W. P. Adams called the meting to order, and said it was held under the averages of the property of t under the auspices of the Young Men's Democratic Club, and then proceeded to make a speech. Mr. Adams talked a good deal about Rome, Greece, Athens and some other classic nations most of the some other classic nations most of the audience had heard about in their school days, and then warned the audience that this country was drifting the same way they went if it didn't call a halt. After he had concluded his address he said that the speakers of the evening were the young men who had been members of the Second Orseon and heled sevening. Second Oregon and helped raise the fing at Manlia, but now wanted it "yanked" down. The young men who made the addresses were F. C. Wallace, C. E. Sanders, Robert J. O'Neil and W. C. Campbell, all handsome, nice-appearing and well-meaning young men, Their addresses were all practically the same. Mr. Wallace came first and the gist of his remarks was that the American flag because he was connected with a great corporation. The name of George H. Durand should be hauled down. He culogized the Democrats, but others did not feel disposed to give their consent to supporting him. The man who are not the filipinos as patriots, and declared the insurrection was the outgrown of the him to the consent to supporting him. The man who are not the filipinos as patriots, and declared the filipinos as patriots, and the american has been raised in dishonor at Manija. who had practiced toward "their allies, the Filipinos, constant dishonor and duplicity, and incited them to war." Mr. Wallace also declared that the American commanders in the Philippines had wangestion is made today, it is likely that the steering committee will put his name up and pledge to him the support of the Democracy, which means the support of such democrats as are willing to sink their party fealty for the benefit of a few Republicas candidates for the United States Senate.

tonly slaughtered ranging a might earn their promotion. After speaking along this line for some time he gave way to Robert J. THINKS BRYAN WILL WIN. R. D. Inman Talks About Politics in the East.

R. D. Inman, president of the Inman-Poulsen Lumber Company, and State Sen-ator from Multnomak County, returned Tuesday from a tour of the Middle West, going as far East as Ohio. Mr. Inman, who is a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, says he found Bryan's chances better than he had supposed, and, while he will not prophesy the election of the boy orator, he says he believes that Illinois and Indiana will go Democratic, and that he would not be surgisted at the same result in New be surprised at the same result in New

"It is the labor question that is going to tell in this campaign." said Mr. Inman, "While all are employed as far as I could see, the rate of wages for the common laborer in the East is only from $1 10 to $1 25 a day, and manufacturers are making too great profits. The campaign is being conducted very quietly, and there is no excitement anywhere. I do not believe that the silver question will cut much of a figure, and expansion is not nearly as much of an issue in the East as in the West. If Bryan is elected it will be by the labor vote."

Mr. Inman says he found that much interest was manifested in Oregon through-out the East, and the fact that the con-dition of the laboring man is so mucn better out here than it is there will lead thousands of people to come to the Coast as soon as they can get the money to-

Concerning the strike in Pennsylvania, he said the settlement was regarded as a matter of course, as it requires special knowledge to mine for anthracite coal, and the owners of the mines could not possibly have secured trained men in time to get coal out for the Winter. He be-lieves that the cause of the strikers was

Mr. Inman says the lumber trade in the East is much more profitable than in Oregon, owing to the greater demand for the product, but that the forests are rapidly becoming a thing of the past. He thinks that the heavy investments recently made in Oregon timber lands by Eastern lumbermen are made solely with a view to profit, and not with any witimate intention of erecting mills on this

GRAND JURY REPORT.

State Aid Recommended for Charitable Institutions.

The grand jury in its final report which was submitted yesterday to Julge George recommends that the Baby Home should receive aid from the state, and also the Florence Crittenton Home. The erection of a new modern building for a City Jail is also recommended. The County Physician is credited with treating the county patients at the hespital at the Poor Farm and thus saving the county several hundred dollars per annum.

The report calls particular attention to the Florence Crittenton Home and that it ought to be supported by charitable people. The building is said to be in tumble-down, dilapidated condition, cold and cheerless, and not a fit habitation for the girls who live there. It is suggested that the Multnemah delegation to the Legislature endeavor to have an approprintion made to erect a new building, and if this is not done that Multnomah County should furnish the money for such purpose.

The water supply of the Poor Farm is reported to be inadequate in case of fire.

The grand fury was in session 23 days and returned 21 true bills and 30 not true bills. Its members were J. C. Bayer, foreman; W. L. Farrell, J. B. Gilbert, B. P. Reynolds, Stephen Barnes, J. Ambrose Haseitine, F. N. Lasley,
