RUNNING A 3000-FOOT TUNNEL

Big Undertaking for the Grayson Group of Mines.

Colonel John T. Grayson, of New York, a well-known mining man, who is staymines in Baker County. These quarts mines, of which the Gold Bug is a prom-inent one, are situated in Cable Cove, a few miles from Sumpter, and this tunne will tap all the veins, some at a depth of 2500 feet below the surface.

Colonel Grayson has had long experience in California quartz mines, and is known

DEPRIVED OF HER HOME

WOMAN DRIVEN OUT BY

Widow Who Sells Newspapers to Support Berself and Infant Child Forced From a Scow.

Owning a dwelling and yet dispossessed by force, was the state of affairs confronting Mrs. Rebecca Robinson, a hardworking woman who makes her living and supports an infant child by selling the patrons of the home and give them an opportunity to inspect the condition and newspapers on the streets. Last even-ing she knew hardly where to lay her head. By the strictest economy and hard work she saved $50 and purchased a scow at the foot of East Yambill street from a man named McIrwin. Here her troubles

There was a tenant in possession of the scow, J. W. Fuller, who refused to move, She was forced to go to law to secure pos-session of her own property. After the usual delays incident to grinding out justice, she won the suit brought for forcible entry and detainer, and Justice of the Peace Kraemer issued the necessary orders to give her legal entry into her own

But this was not all. When the scow was visited yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Wagner, installed therein were found an Indian family, who vigorously asserted their rights to the premises, declaring that they had paid three months' adthe former tenant.

The Indians had the doors locked and barricaded. "Enter at your peril" was their response to demands to open the door. Finally Deputy Sheriff Wagner broke the door in with an ax, and started to eject the inmates. The latter finally to give up possession peaceably, and Mrs. Robinson was left comfortably Installed in the scow dwelling.

But the Indians had used their native strategy. The officer gone, they came back, one woman and two husky men, and moved out bodily Mrs. Robinson and her helpless babe. And they had posses-

When the Indians are next evicted, they will know it, as they will be arrested for trespass. If severe action is not taken, the case will bound up as often as a rubber ball, and the officers be kept busy installing the rightful owner.

TELLS OF EARLY DAYS.

Pioneer of 1845 Relates How He Missed a Big Opportunity.

Jonas Davis, an Oregon pioneer of 1845, now residing at Shedda, Linn County, was in Postland yesterday on business. He crossed the plains with quite a large train that started from New London, Ia., in April, to years ago, and reached the spot where Salem now stands on Christmas day of that year. His party drove their ox teams as far as The Dalles and there built a raft of logs, upon which the ani-mals were taken down to the upper end of the Cancades. Here the raft was unaded and turned adrift, and never was seen since. At the Lower Cascades passage was taken abourd a schooner for the mouth of the Williamette, and then the immigrants took to land again, "I could have taken up a donation claim one mile square where Portland stands now if I could have foreseen what was com-ing," he said, "but who would have thought at that time that a big city would be built here within the next half cen-

OF STATE'S WITNESS.

His Counsel Assert That, on This A count, They Could Not Combat the Testimony.

A motion for a new trial in the case of James L. Warren, convicted of the mur-der of William Kirk, was argued before Judge George yesterday by Henry St. Rayner and A. B. Clark, his attorneys. It was opposed by the District-Attorney and the court took the matter under

Mr. Clark stated that it is the duty of the prosecutor to place the names of all of his witnesses, that he is aware of, on the indiotment, which was not done, and the defense was met by an array of wit-nesses of whom they had no notice, and was taken by surprise. The attorney said a man should never be placed on trial unless he has had time to examine into the facts which the state claims exist, The counsel also objected to the prose-cution adopting the theory at the close of the trial that the beating of the mate occurred before 8 o'clock in the evening, and asserted that the evidence of Dr. Wheeler indicated that the blows the hearts of the women of Portland is shown by the large attendance at the rewere struck after that time. The evi-dence of Dr. Wheeler was that the mate must have been put to bed and the testimony of Byrne, the watchman, was that the mate was lying on the lounge at 10 o'clock, with his shoes on, and the shoes working thereof; to see how happy and contented and well cared for their little were afterward taken off. The attorney referred to the fact that one of the sailors, John Lhoston, who left here on a ship bound for England, testified at the Coroner's inquest that he saw the mate on the starboard side of the main deck at comparatively new ones, in the persons of their children and others, and they col-10 o'clock at night. Counsel said if they had known the state would contend that lectively formed a fine representation of the noblest and best and most charitable and kind-hearted women of the city. The the mate was injured before 8 o'clock the mate was injured before 8 o'clock they would have endeavored to procure this testimony, and asked why the Dis-trict Attorney did not have this man here as a winess. The piles of crusty loaves, mented on, and the attorney reviewed other parts of the case quite fully, and the argument of the Prosecuting Attorney in the attic. The piles of crusty loaves, in the attic. The piles of crusty loaves, some of them made by the little girls of the home; the storeroom, well stocked with fruits of all kinds; the roomy linen closets, the separate playrooms for the girls and the airy dormitories, with their many and scrupulously clean little beds, the time was not a material ingredient to the crime. He said: "Do we have the theory that theory the theory that theory the theory that the property in the crime. filled, comfortable mattresses, with snowy counterpanes, carefully tucked in, and some 50 healthy, happy children, under in the crime. He said: "Do we have to disclose to the defendant the theory on which the case is to be tried?" Concerning the sailor Lhoston, the District Attorney stated: "We could not have held him, and I don't know if it would have made any difference if we had, be-cause Mr. Byrne, the watchman, testified that he met Lhoston when he came aboard, and went with him to the fore-castle." Warren, he said, did not wait for the Coroner's inquest, but got out of town the next morning. Link by link the chain was forged against him, and the verdict should stand. Mr. Chamberlain defended his argument to the jury and also maintained that the jury was justified in being merciful and bringing in a verdict of murder in the second de-gree, if there was reasonable doubt in their minds.

Mr. Rayner made a long argument bringing out many legal points. He went over nearty all of the testimony and mitted numerous authorities.

Larry Sullivan for Attempting to Persuade a Sallor to Desert.

The trial of Lawrence M. Sullivan on a charge of attempting to persuade Henry A. The jury selected to try the case is composed of the following-named persons: W. A. Alcorn, John L. Vestal, W. H. Courtney, Franklin P. Walker, Maurice Harnett, David Cole, Norman Darling, William Butler, A. Mc-Manus, Patrick Holland, William A. prosecution · is being conducted by J. Couch Flanders, as special counsel, and A. C. Spencer, Deputy District Attorney. The first witness called was British Consul James Laidiaw. Mr. Flanders stated that he desired to account for the nonproduction of the shipping articles by the evidence of the witness, and what British law requires regarding the custody of the articles. Henry E. McGinn, attorney for the defendant, objected to the testimony and also remarked: "I don't see how you are going to proceed very far with this case without producing the articles which bind that man to the

The court permitted the question to be answered, and Mr. Laidlaw stated that, according to British law, shipping articles must be in possession of the master of the vessel, or may be turned over to the Consular-officer where the ship touches. They were sent to the captain of the Orealia, when the vessel cleared at As-

as a part of the compromise, and therefore it has to be tried. Mr. McGinn did not deem it necessary to make an opening statement to the jury of what the defense would be, if any. The trial began mumber was made.

Leniency Was Shown. Leniency was extended in the Crimina Lenlency was extended in the Criminal Court yesterday in the case of F. A. Johnson and Harry C. Smith, indicted for burglary in entering the house of Mrs. S. L. Brown. They were released on their own recognizance pending good behavior, after receiving some fatherly advice from Judge George. District Attorney Chamberlain stated to the court that on account of the youth of the defendants, their good connections and some other facts which were before him, he had decided to give them a chance to redeem themselves. them a chance to redeem themselves. Charles J. Schnabel, attorney, also made a statement to the court, saying it was the first offense of the defendants; that the value of the property taken was in-significant, and he was certain it was a case where justice would be subserved by making the order. He also said that Mrs. Brown was satisfied. Judge George said he hoped the experience would be a lesson to the young men, and that their conduct in future would be such that it would not be necessary to bring them before the court to answer the charge. His Honor made some further remarks of the same nature. Johnson thanked the Judge, and promised to do better, as also did Smith. The young men were working in the house when the offense was committed, and therefore it was only a case of technical burglary. They have been in the County Jail since February.

Divorce Suits.

Judge Clelland yesterday granted a diorce to Lillan May Winston from C.-M. Winston, and she was allowed to resume her maiden name, Glendenning. They were married at Rossburg in 1890, and Mrs. Winston testified that her husband erted her in 1892. A divorce was granted to Phoebe Alderman from A. L. Alderman for desertion, Testimony was heard in the suit of May Edwards against Charles Edwards, and the case was taken under advisement. The evidence of the plaintiff was that her husband threatened and beat her. Walter Curler was divorced from Laura Curler because of desertion.

Mary Dora Zeek, in her complaint against Horace Langdon Zeek, asking for a dissolution of the matrimolani bonds, charges that he deserted her at Van couver, Wash, in 1885, four years after their marriage. In an affidavit asking that summons be made by publication, it is stated that he is keeping a hotel at Fort Bragg, Cal.

Released on Own Recognizance. H. J. and F. V. E. Epperson, jointly in-dicted with W. A. Keutemeyer for the murder of William Lunrut, were released by Judge George yesterday on their own recognizance, on motion of District Attorney Chamberiain. William M. Gregory, attorney for the Eppersons, stated that the District Attorney had admitted to him in consenting that the young men be admitted to ball in this manner that the probability of their spill year. the probability of their guilt was not strong, and Mr. Gregory, for himself, said he did not think his clients could be con-victed. He further stated that he had been informed by the District-Attorney
