

HIS SERVICES IN DEMAND

NOTARY LOGAN KEPT BUSY ASSISTING VOTERS.

Willow Kerns Will Do the Same Work on the East Side—Notes of the Campaign.

At 303 Third street, where Notary John F. Logan is assisting unregistered voters to prove their qualifications as electors, 6 voters yesterday secured the necessary affidavits of freeholders, and will vote in the coming election. A number of these were surprised to find that they had not been registered as they had understood that failure to register disqualified them for the time being. They were also surprised that Mr. Logan's services cost them nothing.

All the voters it was explained that the affidavits secured yesterday must be preserved and taken to the polls on election day to be left with the judges of election, or the chances of being of no use. This explanation seemed to be necessary in some cases, for a number of these securing affidavits seemed to think that the Notary would attend to presenting their papers to the proper authorities, and that they had no need further to trouble themselves in the matter.

For the benefit of residents of the East side, Willow Kerns will be in his office at the Burkhardt building, on Union avenue and East Burnside streets, every day until election, and will furnish unregistered electors the necessary blanks and take the affidavits of freeholders without charge.

RALLY AT SELLWOOD.

O. F. Paxton Addresses a Large Audience in Firemen's Hall.

At Sellwood last night a rousing Republican rally took place in Firemen's Hall, under the auspices of the Sellwood Republican Club. The hall was well filled, many women being present, and much enthusiasm was displayed. No provisions were made for dinner, and the outside address. J. E. Reinkind, president of the club, presided, and the main speaker was O. F. Paxton, candidate for Presidential Elector. Before Mr. Paxton commenced his address, F. F. Freeman, a member of the Second Oregon Regiment, was introduced and talked interestingly for some time about affairs in the Philippines. His remarks were being in answer to some statements made by the "boy orators" of the regiment, who are making speeches for the Democrats. Mr. Freeman tore their statements in fragments, and his remarks being in answer to some statements made by the "boy orators" of the regiment, who are making speeches for the Democrats.

Mr. Paxton followed with an effective address of about an hour, and was constantly applauded. At the outset he spoke of the hard times of 1896, when the sawmills, the factories, the banks and other institutions were closing their doors, and thousands had been thrown out of employment. All this, said the speaker, was the result of the Wilson bill and the opening of this country to the imports of the world, and the threat of free silver. The Republican party promised that it would establish the gold standard and repeal the Wilson bill. These things were done and prosperity had again come to the whole country.

Mr. Paxton then read copious extracts from speeches of Bryan in which he predicted financial disaster, and said that if McKinley should be elected, he read an extract in which Bryan declared that the public schools would have to be closed up and that the imports from the outside world would flood the country if the gold standard should be established. Mr. Paxton asked if all this had come to pass. He declared that the exports of the United States for the three and a half years of McKinley's Administration had been two and a half times greater than during the entire existence of the Government, and that more money was in circulation than four years ago, and all this in face of the dire predictions of Bryan.

Passing on, Mr. Paxton went on to show how the election of Mr. Bryan would be serious to the interests of the country, and pointed to the fact that he was pledged to overthrow the gold standard and disrupt the currency, and that the whole country and unstable present conditions. The speech was a strong presentation of the situation from a Republican standpoint, and one of the most effective heard at Sellwood. It was well received by the club. With its usual enterprise, the club had on hand in the hall a large quantity of campaign literature for distribution.

BIG DEMONSTRATIONS.

Republicans Parade Will be a Grand Affair.

The grand final gathering of Republicans before the election will occur on Saturday evening, November 3, and it promises to be the event of the year. People and organizations from all portions of the state are signing the petition of participation, and the great torchlight procession will light up Portland's streets as they never were lit up before on a political occasion. The committee in charge are receiving letters from all points within the state boundary showing that the enthusiasm pent up so long will find vent on that evening. Civic organizations, manufacturers, business leaders, merchants and employers will take advantage of the opportunity to show their fealty to Republican institutions and their willingness to stand by the Stars and Stripes at all hazards, while it is in danger from armed foes. There will be music, fireworks, torches, flambeaux, red fire and all the paraphernalia that goes with a large torchlight demonstration. Cavalry, to the number of 200, will swell the ranks of the Rough Riders; labor organizations will contribute their quota to the throng, and the sidewalks will be crowded with spectators for miles. Good speakers will present the issues of the day in logical and forceful terms, and altogether it will be an occasion to be long remembered in Portland.

MR. COLVIG SPEAKS TONIGHT.

Rousing Rally to be Held at the Tabernacle.

Hon. William M. Colvig will address the citizens of Portland at the Tabernacle this evening, under the auspices of the Multnomah County Republican League. Mr. Colvig comes to Portland with very high recommendations as a public speaker. He has been a leading Democrat in this state for years, but is unable to follow his party in its present departure from the time-honored principles of expansion.

The Rough Riders will escort Mr. Colvig from his hotel to the Tabernacle, and the Portland Ladies' Quartet will sing appropriate selections before and after the address of the evening. Following is Captain McDonald's call to the Rough Riders for the occasion:

"Rough Riders Marching Club—Assemble at Tabernacle tonight (Friday) at 7:30 o'clock sharp, in uniform, for the purpose of furnishing escort to Hon. William M. Colvig."

"C. E. McDONELL, 'Commanding.'"
