HOW THE STATES WOULD FARE

Washington Would Gain One and Oregon Would Remain as Now -New States Possible.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.- The same ment of the total population of the United States by states creates a most interesting situation and has already started speculation as to the representation in the House of Representatives under the new apportunities. apportionment. It also has a very important bearing on the Electoral College. The House of Representatives is now composed of Si members, an increase over the House at the time of the apportionment according to the census of 1880 of El. Three bundred and fifty-seven mem-bers makes a body of men almost too un-wieldly for the satisfactory transaction of business, but an increase in the popula-tion of the country in the last decade of tion of the country in the last decade of ILSO5.500, or about 20 per cent, necessitates either an increase in the apportionment or an increase in the number of Representatives, and possibly both. If the ratio of ITLSOI people to every Congressman, which is the present one, were to remain in effect, the House, under the present population of the United States, would be increased by IL making a total of 65 members. With such an immense number of Representatives the House would be even more of a bear garden than it is now.

In the apportioning of Representatives according to the next census, political considerations will necessarily have a most important influence. If the ratio for each Congressman is increased, as it must be, there is danger that some important states would lose in their number of Con-gressmen, as well as have their electoral work reduced. The reapportionment will unquestionably be made by the present Congress, particularly should the Democrats secure control of the House at the soming election. In making an appor-tionment every state will be anxious at least to hold its own, and if it can gain in representation in the House, so m the greater will be the satisfaction of its

Taking all things into consideration, twould appear as if the ratio of repre-If would appear as if the ratio of repre-sentation would be increased to 20,000. That would mean a total of 376 Congress-men, or a gain of 18. Such an appor-tionment would not only give a figure that would be easy for purposes of calcu-lation, but it would cause losses in only four states, and gains in 15. As politics cut a very great figure in this, it must also be noted that such an apportion-ment would give an advantage to the Re-ment would give an advantage to the Rement would give an advantage to the Republicans in the House, They would make a not gain of eight seats that would probably be Republican. That is to say, that two Democratic and two Republican states would each lose a member of Congress. In probable Republican states there would be an increase of it Congress-men, and in probable Democratic states an increase of only six Representatives. the apportionment suggested, Alabama would hold her own with nine Representatives. Arkansus would gain one, having seven members. Chilfornia would continue with seven, while Colorado would gain one and have three Congre men, and Connecticut gain one and have five. Poor little Delaware would con-tinue with one and be 15,000 under the actual apportionment. Florida would gain one and have three, while Georgia and Idaho would continue as at present, the former with 11 and the latter one. Illis, because of the immense increase in population, would have 24 instead of 22 Representatives, while Indiana hold her is and lowa her it, as at present. Kansas, which has only gained about $4,000 in population since the last census, would lose one Congressman and have eight. Kentucky, notwithstanding an increase of almost 200,000, would only have II Congressmen, as at present, while Louisiana would gain one.

caused the apportionment to be arranged so that Maine could hold her four Representatives. At that time Maine's Conessional representation consisted of omas B. Reed, the Speaker of the ourse, Nelson Dingley, Charles A. Bou-ile and Seth Millikin, and her Influence the House was second to none. Since then every member of that distinguished delegation, except Boutelle, has either died or retired from public life, and Mr. Given or restrict from public life, and Mr. Boutelle is at present in no condition to perform public service. Under the apportionment of 20,000 Maine would be entitled to 3.47 Congressmen. In view of this fact it seems likely, unless the desirability of continuing Maine's representation as at present, in order not to lose a Republican electoral vote, should have undue influence, that Maine will be compelled to get along with three loss. have undue influence, that Maine will be compelled to get along with three Congressmen. If Maine is not deprived of her congressmen. If Maine is not deprived of her congressmen, as she would seem to be in justice under the proposed apportionment, it will be because of the importance of retaining that electoral vote, and not because the present Maine delegation is of such great importance in the House, although Mr. Littlefield has made a great reputation, and ex-Governor Burigigh is on the committee on census whose duty it is to prepare the apportionment bill for the consideration of the House.

Maryland at present has six Congressmen, and under this proposed apportionment would continue with the same number, while Massachusetts, which has made in the Oucen's desire that Lord Kitchener is left in command. While Min-mesota would increase her representation by two, and secure time. Minnesota has been notable because 10 years ago she gained two Congressmen through the in-crease in her population, Mississippi and Missouri each wain one Congressmen. Missouri each gain one Congressman, making their respective representations 8 and 16. Montana holds her own with one, while Nebraska would necessarily loss a Congressman and have only five, her population having increased nine less than 10,000 in the past decade how much of this Mr. Bryan is responsible for the census returns do not show.

Nevada is the only state to have lost in population in the past 10 years, that loss being over 2000, and her present population being only 42.33, which would or-dinarily entitle her to about one-lifth of a Congressman. Nevertheless, Nevada is a sovereign state, and her right to a by Willie Congressman and two Senators cannot be destroyed. New Hampahira would hold her two Congressmen and New Jersey gain one. New York, which now has 24 Congressmen, would gain two. North Carolina would have to be satisfied with nine, while North Dakota would gain one, Under the proposed apportionment Ohlo would still have 21 Congressmen, the same number that she has under the present apportionment, and the number whe had under the previous apportion-

Oregon Holds Her Own

Albough Oregon has gained 100.000 in population since the last apportionment, the will have two Congressmen, as at present. Oregon has done splendidly in increasing her population by 25 per cent. But in the apportionment of 1850 she was given two Congressmen on a bagis of 17.000 when her actual topulation to ticket, in favor of Bryan, or any one clied Today, in a telegram from Toledo to a leading Social Democrat of this city, made the bagis of representation 185.000.

Texas, which is now the sixth state in population, would gain two Congressmen, and has it. Utah has to be satisfied with her helicity and the company of the propulation is 7.000 more one, although her population is 76,000 more than the ratio. Vermont is glad to hold her two while Virginia, despite a growth of 200,000, would lose one member of Congress, and have nine.

The State of Washington, in accordance with the proposed apportionment, would have three Congressmen instead of two, as at present, while West Virginia would gain one, Wisconsin and Wyoming r ing the ten and one respectively that they have at present.

Prospect of New States.

The census returns show a most mar-velous growth in the population of the Territory of Oklahoma. In 1890 Oklahoma had 61,534 people. In 1990 she has 28,235 people, not including some 6000 Indians who are not taxed. This is a gain of 33,000 people. When a territory can show such people. When a territory can show such a marvelous increase in population, and when she has more people than the States of Wyoming, Vermont, Utah, North Dakota, Nevada, Montana, Idaho and Delaware, and very nearly as many as the States of New Hampshire, Oregon, Rhode Island and South Dakota, the time has come for her admission to the Union. It would seem as if Congress at the ap-proaching session is certain to do justice to the youngest territory of this Con-tinent, and to grant her the right of statebood. If that be done, the apportion-ment would have to provide two Con-gresamen from the State of Okiahema. which would increase the total member ship of the House of Representatives to 277, a gain of 20.

on the same basis of population, New Mexico, with its 195,777, a gain of over 40,000, is entitled to admission to the Union, as is Arisona, with its 125,212, if Wyoming, with only $2,381; Nevada, with $2,234, and Idaho, with 161,771, are proprly states.

In considering the probabilities that the ratio of representation in Congress and that the apportionment of Representa tyes under the census of 1900 will be as here indicated, the personnel of the com-mittee on census of the House must be taken into account. The chairman is Mr Hopkins, of Illinois, a state that would gain two members, while Messrs. Russell of Connecticut, Heatwole of Minnesota, and Acheson of Pennsylvania, who are also members of the committee, represent states that would be advantaged by such an apportionment, the first by an increase of one and the other two by a gain of two Congressmen. On this committee, also, is Mr. Tiabcock, chairman of the Republican Congressional committee whose state would retain its present representation, and Mr. Crumpacker, of In-diana, and Mr. Brownlow, of Tennessee, whose states would not lose any repre-mentatives under such an apportionment The only member of the committee whose state would suffer as a result of increasing the ratio to 200,000, a step which common sense would require, is ex-Governor Burleigh, of Maine, as Maine lacks 6000 population of coming within the re-

That Major Fraction. In this connection it is best to explain that states having more than enough citi-zens to guarantee a certain number of Representatives on the above apportionment, have a chance of selecting an ad ditional Representatives, provided their eurplus population exceeds 100,000. It has been the outtom heretofore that if the excess of population, after computing the number of Representatives for a state on number of representatives for a state of the regular basis exceeds one-half of the number required for each member of Con-gress, that state is entitled to an addi-tional Representative on the surplus of more than a half of the apportionment hasis. For instance, under the apportionment, a state having 750 clation would be entitled to three Repre entatives under the regular apportion ment, as it would have the required 600,000 people, but there is an excess of 110,000. This excess is more than half of the 200,000, the basis of the new apportionment, therefore that state will have an additional Representative on account of that surplus, or four Representatives in all. On the other hand, a state having a population of 690,000 would be entitled to but three Representatives in all. In addition to the required population, there would be a surplus of 20,000, but this might be favored by being permitted to retain its present members of Congress as a matter of countesy to its citizen who is on the committee on census.

The apportionment bill, prepared by the census committee, must have the approval of the House, and afterwards of the Sen-ate, and then be signed by the President.

WHAT PRESIDENT COWEN SAID. Steel Employes He Told What

Bryan's Election Would Do.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Democrats of the East have passed considerable critidism upon President Cowen, of the Baltimore & Ohlo' Railroad, because he announced to a delegation of working-men in a speech in Baltimore that he would countermand the order for 9000 steel cars if Bryan was elected. Now Mr. Cowen was not talking to his own employes. He was speaking to a delegation of workingmen from a number of steel and iron works in the vicinity of Baltimore, and who would probably have emyment upon these cars to be made for Baltimore & Ohio road if the order is not countermanded. His speech was in-tended for political effect, but it was also intended to warn these workingmen what they might expect if they assisted in electing Bryan, as it seems that the Dem-ocracy has felt that its only reliance was upon workingmen who are now employed Looking at the thing in a fair and square manner, it is well to recall the fact that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has shared in the general prosperity which the country has experienced during the past four years. It has done an im-mense amount of business; has bought locemotives and cars and run many more trains than it did before. It has hauled coal from the mines of West Virginia and Pennsylvania to the tidewater on Chesapeake Bay. In order to supply its carry-ing capacity for this enormous amount of coal, the road has bought thousands upon thousands of steel cars. If the prosperity continues it will buy more and more of these steel carr in order to have an equip ment necessary for the demands of its traffic. The number of its trains has in-It has found it necessary to straighten its tracks, road and otherwise improve its roadbed and increase its carrying capacity. The Baltimore & Ohio road, through its managers, naturally dewhich have set the road upon its feet, taken it out of the hands of receiver, enahied it to make great improvements and to give employment to thousands of work-

Mr. Cowen felt it his duty to warn the workingmen of Maryland, who had lisened to and hurrahed for Bryan that Bryan was deceiving them, and that to enloy the measure of prosperity which they now enjoy it is necessary to continue the Government under its present policies and not to turn it over to a man who threatens the destruction of all enterprise and all capital. President Cowen is criti-cised by the Democrats as being brutal on the contrary, he was merely frank. He stated a business proposition, which was to the effect that if Bryan was elected business disasters would follow, and the Baitimore & Ohio, in common with many other business concerns of the United States, would have to cancel orders already placed because the road, as well as ther concerns, would have no use for the increased equipments. This is well understood by every business man, who knows that Bryan means disaster, and it was simply a forewarning on the part of Mr. Cowen to tell the workingmen interested in orders placed by the Baltimore & Ohio road that the Baltimore & Ohio, which shared in the general prosperity of the past four years, felt that it could not go on in the same rapid manner and make

NEW EMERGENCY RATION.

Experiment on Troops in Active Service in the Field.

FORT RENO, O. T., Nov. 4-The board ens detailed by the War Department to find, if possible an emergency ration that will meet all the requirements of troops engaged in active warfare, while away from their base of supplies and in a hostile country, where provisions are scarce, left here yesterday with a detachment of 55 men from Troop A. Eighth Cavalry, for experimental purposes. The men will observe the some routine as if they were engaged in an active campaign they were engaged in an active comparing against an enemy. The members of the board are: Captain W. Fountain, Eighth Cavalry, and Captain S. W. Foster, Fifth Cavalry. Captain and Assistant Surgeon J. D. Poindexter, stationed at Fort Raps, accompanied the expedition. A single ration is supposed to contain enough food to exist a man a day and in its mackto sustain a man a day, and in its pack age weighs slightly more than a pound.

The board has two different emergency rations, with which it will experiment. The first is a ration prepared by the board after an examination and analysis of the food preparations used in nearly all the European armies. The board's observations and conclusions are embodied in the ration, which was manufactured under its supervision. The second is a ration pro-duced by a company at Passate, N. J. The New Jersey ration consists of tea it place of chocolate, and a combination of meat and breadstuffs, compactly arranged. The board's own ration consists of two cakes of pure sweet chocolate, three cakes of a combination of meat and breadeuffs in compressed form, and a small quantity of salt and pepper for seasoning. Captain Fountain, who is president of the board, said of the experiment: "Our expedition will leave Fort Beno just as if it had been called suddenly away

GROVER CLEVELAND ON BRYANISM.

The fundamental truth that our free institutions offer opportunities to all within their influence for the advancement and improvement of their condition has been so far denied that honest accumulation is called a crime, and the necessity and habit of individual struggle, which are the mainsprings of sturdy Americanism, are decried as unjustifiable burdens, while unwholesome fraternalism is presented in handsome and inviting garb. Those enlisted in this crusade of discontent and passion, proclaiming themselves the friends of the people, exclude from that list all their countrymen except those most unfortunate or unreasonable, and those whom they themselves have made the most discontented and credulous,

Although a complete fusion on the state ticket was effected when the state conventions of the Democrats, Silver Re-publicans and Populists were held, each party has maintained separate headquarters during the campaign. The chairmen of the other two fusion parties do not estimate Bryan's plurality quite so illorally, but both agree that it will be over 60,000. The claim of the fusionists as to the result in the state election is that James B. Orman, Democrat, will win by 45,000. OMAHA, Nov. 4.-Tomorrow will be a lively day in Nebraska, and, for an ante-election day, will probably eclipse any-thing of the kind in the state's history. Both Republicans and Damocrats are pre paring for great demonstrations in Oma-ha in the evening. Mr. Bryan will speak at a dozen halls after a day's tour in the state, and the Democrats plan to make it an sys-opener for this Republican district. The Republicans will have a monster parade and barbeque, with a "anotgun" regiment and lots of red fire. Bothsides are still claiming the state, the Republicans by 500 piurality for McKinley, and the Funionists by 15,000 for Bryan.
