

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Amusements Today. MARQUAM GRAND - "Brown's in Town." Matinee and evening. CORDRAY'S THEATER (Washington street) - "The House of the Dead." Matinee and evening. METROPOLITAN THEATRE (Third street) - "Uncle Josh Sprucey." Matinee and evening.

LONGER OPEN SPACES WANTED - The open season for shooting upland birds closed yesterday, and sportsmen now no longer have any advantage over other people in the matter of eating pheasants, quail, or trout, or other luxuries of that kind. An effort will be made to have the game law repealed at the coming session of the Legislature, so that the close season for upland birds may hereafter end on September 15 instead of on October 1. Last Spring was so favorable for the birds that the young ones were almost fully grown by September 1, and sportsmen complained that farmers were shooting them, and had the covers scattered and the birds made wild before the opening of the season. Some are in favor of fixing a time during the open season, say one week or two, when birds may be sold in the markets, so that people who cannot shoot or who have no time to indulge in this sport may have a chance to enjoy the luxury of a hot bird and a cold bottle once or twice in a year. It is, however, probable that there will be strong opposition to this scheme. There are some people so steeped in booted ignorance that they cannot see how it makes any difference whether a man who shoots birds eats them himself or sells them to someone who wants them and is able and willing to pay for them. The idea that "mark" hunters will or can shoot any more birds or kill them any easier than the trained sportsmen is all a mistake. The law fixes the limit that may be shot, and from all that can be learned the sportsman as a general rule is as liable to shoot more than the law allows as is the market or "pot" hunter. The fact, thing would be to shorten the open season, if the birds need protection, or allow no shooting at all for a year or two, and when one is allowed to shoot let him shoot a decent limit being fixed, and let the man who shoots birds do what he pleases with them.

OVERSUPPLY OF POULTRY - Notwithstanding the enormous number of turkeys and other fowls sold for Thanksgiving, many were left on the hands of commission men, and some retailers had a lot left over. Yesterday the commission men were clearing off their surplus, and as the prices asked were lower than usual, somewhat extensively. Many couples of turkeys were bought at 5 cents a pound, live weight, to be turned out and fed for the Christmas market, and lots of chickens were sold, some as low as 25 cents a dozen, to be killed and put in cold storage. There were any number of fine, fat turkeys on the market, and also plenty of poor ones. Some dealers disposed of poor turkeys the day before Thanksgiving for 5 to 10 cents per pound, and they were dead at that. Farmers who are so foolish as not properly to feed their poultry and to send it to market in a half-starved condition need not be surprised if their returns are rather lean also.

BOAT SERVICES ON THE WILLAMETTE RIVER - Commencing Thursday, November 29, the O. & N. Co. will inaugurate a daily service between the Willamette between Portland and Independence, and a thrice-a-week service to Albany and Corvallis. The following schedule will be effective on the above date: Steamer Modoc will leave Portland at 6 A. M. for Corvallis and Albany on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, leaving Corvallis at 8 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and Albany at 8 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, leaving Portland at 6 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, leaving Independence on opposite days at 5 A. M.; steamer Elmore, for Dayton and Yamhill River route, leaves Portland at 7 A. M. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; leaving Dayton on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8 A. M.; steamboats have all been overhauled and are in first-class condition to handle freight and passengers.

NEW EVIDENCE - Justice of the Peace Kraemer decided yesterday that there was no case against Paul Cromwell, colored, accused of practicing medicine without a license. The case was dropped because of lack of corroborative evidence. The principal witness against Cromwell was Thomas Hans, of First street, near Jefferson, whose testimony was that, working in the interest of the State Board of Medical Examiners, he told Cromwell he was suffering from rheumatism, and wished medical treatment. Hans further testified: "I paid Cromwell 50 cents, and promised to pay him another 50 cents in return, he gave me a bottle containing a black liquid, and told me to apply Cayenne pepper and salt-peter to the inside of my socks." The defendant's counsel contended that Hans had been paid $20 by the State Board to get evidence against Cromwell, and that corroborative evidence was required as to the charge made.

NEW FRICTION CLUTCHES - Four large friction clutches to connect line shafting in the power station of the Salem Light & Traction Company have just been completed at the Willamette Iron & Steel Works. Two of them are 300 horsepower and the others 250 horsepower. They are to take the place of similar clutches which would not work satisfactorily. These clutches are great improvements on the old-fashioned jaw clutch, the one which necessitated the stoppage of the machinery when they were to be connected. This does not do in an electric light station. The friction is increased by means of shafts to be connected with the main shaft or disconnected without the engine being stopped or even slowed down.

HIGHWAYMEN BOUND OVER - Attempted highway robbery charges were bound over William Webber and Dell Le France, before Municipal Judge Cameron, yesterday. The complainant was Louis Bayard, of Seattle, who testified that Webber and Le France held him up near Second and Davis streets. "But," added Bayard, "after the prisoners jabbed me on the head with a broomstick they were scared away by me, and my money was not touched." Both prisoners were held in $500 bail to appear before the Grand Jury.

FOOTBALL CHALLENGER - The "Orient" football team, of Portland, will accept challenge from any football team in Oregon. The Orient average only 140 pounds, and would not like to meet any team averaging over 145 pounds in weight. No team is barred by this notice and a challenge for a game to be played on Sunday, December 11, will be honored first. All communications should be addressed to James Kelly, Jr., Manager Orient, 120 Sixth street.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR - There will be a musical programme every evening at the Christmas Bazaar, 125 Sixth street, conducted by the Sisters Adherents of the Presbytery. The English Bible, Morning offering in D flat (Salome), Edgar E. Courson.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION - Regular meeting of the class in "The Development of the English Novel" tonight, at 8 o'clock, in the Portland Business College room, Park and Washington streets.

DR. GRANT'S DAUGHTER VERY ILL - Dr. Roland D. Grant returned home from Portland to find his daughter Priscilla very sick. He received word to his friends here that the doctors give but slight hope, believing it to be meningitis. Her beautiful face and remarkable long, golden hair have made her a legion of friends across the entire continent, and the doctor says she has been his dearest companion, whose loss will be unendurable. The other two daughters are still in New England, but will start immediately for this coast.

DISOLUTION SALE continues at the Laue-Davis Drug Company. Everything reduced, Bargains in fine perfumes and holiday novelties. An "instant" discount comb given away tomorrow with 50-cent sales or over.

FIRST BAPTIST, Twelfth and Taylor. Dr. Blackburn's morning theme, "A New Commandment", evening. "The Railroad", an all-around people invited. Music by male chorus.

DEATH - Albert Hess, who is connected with the Oregonian advertising department, received the sad intelligence yesterday of the death of his mother in San Francisco.

ANGELS recital at Coffman's today. High-class music and imitations of string instruments, produced by the Angels and sold in the markets, so that people who cannot shoot or who have no time to indulge in this sport may have a chance to enjoy the luxury of a hot bird and a cold bottle once or twice in a year. It is, however, probable that there will be strong opposition to this scheme.

TELLS OF FAITHFUL DOGS. Oregon Men Will Employ Them on a Trip to the Klondike.

T. McNamer, of Forest Grove, who is preparing to return to the Arctic circle in January, had two of his favorite dogs in town yesterday. They are of the Hudson's Bay St. Bernard species, and weigh about 100 pounds each, having gained in flesh since they came south. Mr. McNamer will have two teams of three dogs each, for light travel over the ice, and expects these teams to haul his brother and himself from White Horse Rapids to the mouth of the Yukon. The dogs are located. He thinks the dog team is the most satisfactory in that country, as their keep does not cost over $7 or $8 a month each, while a horse would require about $20 a month. "The dogs are fed on bacon and cornmeal mush," Mr. McNamer said, "and they thrive every day, while hauling 300 pounds apiece a distance of 30 miles over the ice." Mr. McNamer said to cover the distance between White Horse Rapids and his camp in about 30 days.

"People become very much attached to their dogs in Alaska," Mr. McNamer said, "and the affection is more than returned by the animals." He related how these two dogs were claimed by a woman on the Upper Takon, who employed the McNamer police to locate them, although the McNamer boys had bought the animals of the man who had raised them in Oregon. The brothers could only deny, as the will of the mountaineer was taken from them. The boys had traveled on some 60 miles down the river, when here some bold dogs to overtake them. The poor animals were almost exhausted, but would not accept the proffered rest, and insisted on being hitched in their proper places again. They had lost no time in being turned loose by the police, and "lit out" to rejoin their old masters.

"In teaming with dogs, the drivers often trot alongside the sleds over the rough or up-hill places," Mr. McNamer said, "and when they strike smooth sailing or a declivity, the men get aboard and away the dogs dash, at a good speed. In this way from 30 to 35 miles is easily covered, and at night accommodations are generally reached, where accommodation is obtained for both man and beast." When the dogs rest went into that country they were obliged to leave their bacon and cornmeal with them, but now there are stations at convenient intervals, almost everywhere.

Defense That Warehouse Receipts Were Not in Legal Form Falls - Other Criminal Matters.

Judge George handed down a decision yesterday overruling the demurrer of defendant's attorneys to the indictment against William E. Spicer, charged with disposing of grain left with him for storage. The decision was in substance as follows: The defendant demurred on account of the nature of the receipts made by Spicer not being as the law requires, and the indictment did not show that he was a warehouseman for himself. The court decided that under the Oregon act a person who receives grain from the owner for storage in warehouse and sells or transfers without the owner's assent, as in the indictment, whether the receipt given complies with the law or whether he was bailee, it is his business to give the receipt required by law and not to take advantage of his own wrong. Spicer entered a plea of not guilty, and the date of his trial will be announced on the calendar next Monday.

Other Criminal Cases. G. W. Wyre, a Gresham farmer, who was indicted for assaulting John Carnahan, a neighbor, with a shovel, was found guilty of simple assault by the jury. Judge George imposed a fine of $50 on the defendant, but gave him permission to go on his own recognizance for 10 days to enable him to raise the money required to save serving out the equivalent in the county jail. State Senator George C. Brown, of Oregon City, defended Wyre, while Sheriff Cook and ex-County Clerk Dixon, of Clackamas County, also Max Ramsay, an inspector in the internal revenue office, testified to the former good character of Wyre, having known him for several years. Wyre lived at Oregon City until two years ago, when he removed to Gresham. He had a contract for clearing some land for Carnahan, but trouble between the two men ensued that resulted in the assault, claimed to have been done in self-defense.

so often resorted to, to make the affair a go, is a difficult task in these fit de diec days of the stage. To build up a semblance of a plot, yet one not too thick to be enjoyed, and to introduce new situations, characters and themes, one would think almost impossible. Looking back over a half century of well-trodden fields in the different realistic and imaginary ideas that have been grasped upon and utilized by the writers of an age. Strangely enough in looking around for a comedy theme, thoughtfully has long escaped in "My Friend From India," which will be seen at Cordray's Theater, four nights, commencing Sunday, December 3, this belief is inserted to advantage, and the result is an entertaining play.

"A Breezy Time" Coming. "A Breezy Time" is a farce-comedy with a plot which is not so intricate that it requires any great mental activity. The comedy is in three breezes and the author has worked on the principle that action is the sole factor in farce and from start to finish this play is all action. The clash of interest is brought about by the fact that the creditors of a young college student have pursued him out of town and that the girl he loves has done likewise. The cast brings together a number of people who have made individual successes in their respective lines and the play abounds in specialty offerings of the highest class.

Gran's Opera Company. Monday, December 3, Gran's opera company will play a four night and Wednesday matinee engagement at the Marquam Grand, presenting for the first time in Portland three of the greatest comic opera successes on record, all grand scenic productions, with the strongest organization Gran has ever brought to the Coast. Monday and Tuesday nights the great comic opera, "The Champagne"; Wednesday matinee, "Little Tycoon"; Wednesday and Thursday, "El Capitán."

Any man or woman in Oregon who has ever had the least bit of experience in musical-instrument buying will tell you that you can depend implicitly upon anything we say and that our guarantee is as safe as a gold bond.

We do not say this in a boastful way. We merely wish to emphasize the point that even though our prices have been cut down to the very lowest notch during this special sacrifice sale, we do not lose sight of quality, and every instrument in this sale must prove entirely satisfactory in every respect to the purchaser or money back. No prices quoted anywhere, East or West, are so low that you cannot do better here. We are now selling more pianos every day than dealers ordinarily sell in a whole month. The sacrifice sale prices, combined with reliable quality, moves them now.
