ART POTTERY

It is amusing to read the exclusive jewelers' holiday advertisements. Once a year they tell you the merits of jewelry. Then no one has anything good but the exclusive jeweler. They display two or three pieces of pottery and advertise exclusive importation of pottery. As a matter of fact, we are the only direct retail importers of art pottery in Portland, and will exhibit in our Third-street windows art pottery from the Austrian section of the

Paris Exposition

ON HIS ROAD HOME.

F. W. Valle en Route to Portland by Way of Europe.

The many Portland friends of F. W. Valle, formerly in charge of the railway mail service here, and of late Director-General of Ports for the Philippine Islands, will be pleased to learn that he is likely to visit this city before long.

He applied to be relieved some time ago, and received a favorable response from the department, but his departure was delayed on account of the illness of his assistant. He writes to a friend here under date of Manila, October 31, that, outside of some ear trouble, his health is now all right. He is coming home by way of Europe, not being able, so he says, to resist the temptation to make a globe-trotter out of himself, and expecting to be in the United States by the time his letter reached here. The prospect of landing in New York in midwinter in his white Philippine suit gives him the shivers, but he states that he has written to a friend to meet him at the wharf with an usher. He hopes to be in Portland at an early date, but fears it will not be his good fortune to be again stationed here.

Matters in the Philippines, Mr. Valle thinks, will soon straighten out. He says: "There is no question as to the fact that the hope of Bryan's election has kept up most of the fighting. The well-to-do Filipinos have not been able to decide what the outcome would be, and, to protect themselves in the event that the United States withdraws its troops, have been contributing to the so-called insurgent element, which they can hardly be blamed for doing, after reading some of the American papers. If Bryan is elected, he will find he has got to do exactly as McKinley has been doing. This policy cannot be changed for the better, except by dealing more harshly with the robber leaders."

THROUGH TO CHICAGO WITHOUT CHANGE.

The Chicago-Portland special runs through to Chicago without change in 70 hours. Palace and ordinary sleepers, dining-cars (meal in 1 1/2 carts), chair cars and buffet library cars on all trains. Choice of many different routes to all Eastern points via the O. R. & N.
