SALISBURY FAMILY

LONDON, Dec. 10.-In the House of Commons today, replying to a question commons today, replying to a question on the subject, the under-secretary of the Foreign office, Lord Cranborne, said the government had been notified that the present disposition of the troops of the allies on the Shan Hai Kwan railway

Walton, Radical, withdrew his amendment offered Friday last, to the address, and G. C. T. Bartley, Conservative, moved an amendment to the address, asking the House to express regret at the fact that Lord Salisbury had recommended so many of his own family to offices under the government. One-fifth of the Cabinet members, Mr. Bartley said, were of the same family. Sons would obey their fathers, and sons-in-law and nephews would yield to the same influence. Such conditions preciuded an independent in-quiry into the affairs in South Africa, and were calculated to impair the efficiency of the public service and diminish the chances of reform in the system of national defense. The same cankerworm of nepotism had entered the army and navy, and it was the general opinion that many of the disasters in South Africa were traceable to effects who had rica were traceable to officers who had obtained their commissions by family in-

When the Premier's nephew rose to reply, the House was filled with expecta-tion. Mr. Balfour said the unhappy acci-dent of birth ought not to be a bar to pubservice. There was only one member of Lord Salisbury's family in the present government who was not in the list Mr. Bartley, he added, had not shown that the appointees complained of were incapable, while the country, at the recont election, had shown confidence that the Premier would carry out with ability and the respectible. Integrity his thankless, heart-breaking task. The amendment was lost by a vote of 230 to 128.

Replying to Mr. Healy, Nationalist, who asked whether the Irish-American and Irish prisoners captured in the fights with the Boers could not be permitted to return to their homes. J. Powell Williams, financial secretary to the War Office in the late administration, but now a plain member of the Measure. a plain member of the House of Commons, said prisoners of Irish nationality could not be treated differently from others.

D. Lloyd George, Radical, brought to-gether a series of accusations against Mr. Chamberiain that had been figuring the newspapers, and moved that no member of the government ought to have a direct or indirect interest in concerns peting for government contracts. He pointed out that the Secretary of Stale for the Colonies held 600 shares and other members of his family 600 shares, in the Birmingham trust, which, in turn, was a shareowner in the Tubes Limited, making £10,000 a year out of government contracts. He asserted also that Mr. Chamberlain and his relatives held shares worth £20,000 to £250,000 in the Eldott Metal Company, contractors to the admiralty, and shares valued at £250,000 in Kinoch's Dynamite Company, contractors to the War Office. After enumerating other companies in which the Chamberlain family, he asserted, had interests, Mr. George declared that he was returned. shareowner in the Tubes Limited, making Mr. George declared that he was not at-tacking the private character of the Min-ister, but had raised the matter because this case might be used as a precedent later to justify occupation."

After various speeches for and against the resolution, Mr. Chamberlain replied:

the resolution, air. Chamberiain replied:

"It is my personal honor that is involved in this question." he said, "and I think it hard, after 25 years of life in the full light of Parliament, to have to stand up and explain that I am not a scandalous thief. These attacks are mon-strous and absurd. I took no notice of the during the election, although there had been a conspiracy of insinua-tion. I had been charged with fattening on the profits of a war I had provoked. "Of all the companies mentioned I hold shares in two. My relations intend to take legal proceedings and the public will see how these charges will be dealt with by the courts. My relations are all business men, and have had to make their ewn fortunes. I come of a family which boasts nothing of distinguished birth or inherited wealth, but has an unbroken record for nearly two centuries of un-stained commercial integrity. Never during the Whole course of my political career have I been asked to use my influence to secure pecuniary gain for myself occeeding to explain his connection with the two companies. Mr. Chamberlate with the two companies, Mr. Chamberlain said he had joined the Colombo Company 23 years ago. Its shares had never been quoted on the stock exchange. The contract to build huts for Boer prisoners in Ceylon was given to the Colombo Company on the responsibility of the local government without any communication with himself. As far as the Birmingham Trust was concerned he said he knew rolling whatever of its investments, al-though he had recently ascertained that there was a trifling investment in the Tubes, limited, since his brother man-aged the business of that organization. but the company's small business with the Admiralty had decreased. After hav-ing made further explanations of a simi-Chamberlain exclaimed. amid Ministerial cheers:

"It is not hard to have to deal with such rubbish as this. When all is reckoned up, perhaps my indirect interest in government contracts is a few pour even several shillings. And yet the House of Commons is called upon to pass a sol-emn resolution which will not strike, but will be a self-denying ordinance for many mbers who do not anticipate that rein an eloquent preoration, the Colonial cretary declared that the attacks had not injured him, but had given pain to a number of private individuals. Those who had made them, he asserted, had intro-duced into public life unworthy methods, and had made it more difficult for honorable and sensitive men to serve the country. He was loudly cheered as he resumed his seat.

His son, Justin Chamberiain, Financial

Secretary to the Treasury Department, followed with similar denials. R. B. Haldane. Radical, and others, spoke, after which Lloyd George's motion, which was offered as an amendment to the address was rejected by a vote of 250 to 127. Mr. Balfour, the Government leader, then moved the closure, which was carried by 253 votes against 18, and the address to the throne was adopted by 266 votes

Nothing really new either in the strack or the defense was elicited during the debate on the amendment proposed by George, but the House was painfully and almost dramaticabsorbed, Mr. Chamberlain, by narrowing the issue to a vindication of his personal honor, and ignoring the ground that a Minister should avoid the causes Charge of Nepotism Raised in House of Commons.

It was a triumphant defense with an occasional emotional outburst, as when he discialmed aristocratic descent for his family. After Sir Campbell-Bannerman and Mr. Haldane had apoken briefly in support of the amendment, Mr. Balfour followed with a warm and generous defense of a "Minister so pittlessly traduced, but who, I believe, never stood higher in the opinion of the country." The Conservatives cheered wildly.

For the opinion of the public on the question, it is not even necessary to consult the Liberal papers. The Conservative Standard approves the verdict of Parilament, but put the matter in a nutshell thus: "We could have wished that Lord Sallsbury had been able to obtain more talent outside of his family circle, and that Mr. Chamberlain held no shares in any public company to which government contracts are given."

WHY KRUGER WAS SNUBBED. Count von Bulow's Statement in the German Reichstag.

BERLIN, Dec. 16 .- In the Reichstag togovernment had been notified that the present disposition of the troops of the ailies on the Shan Hai Kwan railway was of a purely temporary character. The government, he added, was watching British interests. Lord Cranborne also said the replies of the powers to the invitation to adhere to the Angio-German agreement would be promptly presented to Parliament. gether excluded, the government recommended it to Mr. Kruger. He thought the time had not yet come. When Mr. Kruger later sought intervention, his feelings were too highly infiated for the Dutch and German Governments. TRANSCONTINENTAL RATES.

Western Jobbe Tariff.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Representatives from commercial interests of various sec-tions of the country, principally from the Pacific Coast, Western and Eastern States, will appear before the Interstate consider the matter of transcontinental matter for the New York club to decide. Personally, I fall to see why the club need build a new boat. Certainly they never firms. For some time past strong efforts have been made by these interests, and several conferences with the railroads have been held to have the latter adopt a system of graded rates. If these efforts are successful Pacific Coast rates under the plan proposed, would always be higher from New York to San Francisco than to San Francisco from any point west of New York. Eastern jobbing interests are naturally working hard to prevent the establishment of such a system, will be represented at the hearing and J. M. Langley, of the Merchants' Association, will appear in behalf of the New York shipping interests represented by the members of that organization. The Western people are advocating graded rates, that is, if a rate from New York to San Francisco happens to be $1 per 100 pounds, they contend that the rate from Pittsburg on the same goods should be approximately 90 cents; from Chicago, 80 cents; from Mississippi River, 75 cents. and from Missouri River, 70 cents per 100 pounds, notwithstanding the fact that the rate from New York is a forced rate and not a rate that is the result of normal conditions voluntarily established.

The whole country appears to have faced about and the Pacific has taken the place of the Atlantic in gen-eral interest. It is no trouble at all to get an audience to hear about this Coast, Mr. Judson says: indeed, he was kept so busy giving information to eager people that his time for other affairs was seriously reduced and he finally had to break away and come home. A great many people of means have their faces set towards Oregon, and many of them business men and manufacturers. Faith in the Pacific Coast, because of its own inherent attractions and its opportuni-ties across the ocean, is strong, and Portland is looked upon as a favorite point Mr. Judson was reticent as to the result

At 4 o'clock this morning, during a burst of speed, the pace for which was set by Harry Elkes, the riders made rings about Miller, and when he was relieved at 4:11 by Walthouer, his team mate, he had lost four laps. At 5 o'clock, Miller and Walthour were last in the team race, due to the ex-champion's slow riding. Miller's stomach falled him, and at 5 o'clock he said his eye was finished. Walthour was willing to go ahead, but as there are no individual prizes, he was forced to quit. At 6:45 o'clock Pierce's handlebar was bent, and he fell. Dubols, who foljowed, tumbled over him, and Albert also went tumbled over him, and Albert also went into the mix-up, making it a rather bad affair. ONLY FEARS HERRESHOFF. Lipton's Opinion of Lawson's Pro-

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from London says that Sir Thomas Lipton, when in-formed of Thomas Lawson's announce-ment that he is determined to build a cup-defender, said: "Let them all come. I fear but one man— that magician, Herreshoff. If he were out of the way, I assure you the Stars and Stripes would not be waving so high, and that cup would long since have and Stripes would not be waving so high, and that cup would long since have changed hands. Boston naturally wants to get a chance in the cup races. I certainly would not object if she did try to defend the cup. The New York Yacht Club committee can pick any boat they please. I would be interested to know something about the plans of Mr. Law While I believe Herreshoff can turn out the best boats in America, there is still a possibility that some freak will be constructed which will beat the Columbia, But Lawson's energy in the game is a healthy sign. It shows great growing in-terest in yachting.

Great Futurity of 1903.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The richest turf prime ever offered in this country will probably be the Futurity of 1902, to be run at the Autumn meeting at Sheepshead Bay. The Coney Island Jockey Club has announced that the estimated value of the race will be $75,000. Ever since the announced that the estimated value of the race will be $75,000. Ever since the first running of the Futurity in 1888 it has been the most valuable race in a pecuniary sense on the American turf, and it has always attracted widespread interest not only on account of its money valuation, but owing to bringing together some of the best fleet-footed thoroughbreds of British Consul will move to dismiss the truthful people, who may be seen and inquired of.

In such unreserved measure has this faith of the people been given to this practice that it is the wonder of the medical world. Without any sensational features it has steadily grown and is today numerically greater than seven years ago, the time of its earliest work in this community; greater than seven years ago, when the most intense public interest was aroused by the announcement of the Discovery of the Cure for Catarrii. It has that quality stronger than sudden popularity; the quality of abiding faith. It has survived all competition in similar methods. It has triumphed over every kind of method to reach the sick. Why? Because the truth always survives. It is the natural law of things. The best always survives; that which is of service to mankind always survives.

Endures While Others Pass Away---That Which Is Best and Which Is of Greatest Service to Mankind Abides

Always.

The wonder that seven years ago followed the presentation of such cures as these in manifold forms of serious disease and sickness, by the Copeland treatment, has passed away. The wonder that followed the presentation of such cures as these in deafness, under the Copeland discovery, has in a great measure passed away.

In the place of this wonder there is now that which abides and will always abide—the everlasting faith of the people. The people know the skill and truth of this practice, and of the physicians it includes. They know that the cures published in these columns are real cures of real people—of persons living in this community and surrounding territory; grateful and truthful people, who may be seen and inquired of.

In such unreserved measure has this faith of the people has no given to the facility of the people has no given to the faith of the people has no given to the faith of the people has no given to the faith of the people has no given to the faith of the people has no given to the faith of the proposed up to the faith of the proposed up to the form of the guestion. There was a shady dripping of mucus into the throat, which caused a hacking cough, and kept me hawking and spitting. I would have to get up two or three times during the night to get rid of it, which made good, sound reat out of the question. There was a bad taste in my mouth and my breath was awful. My voice was very weak.

At times it failed me altogether, making it difficult to speak or use my voice. All this was very annoying to me, and I was continually trying some kind of patent medicine or "Catarrh Cure," but got no relief, and, like many others, came to

Within the last year or two my stomach became involved and my condi-tion was soon so serious that I felt I must do something. I had heard a good deal about the Copeland physicians, and so placed myself under treatment with them. CATARRH OF HEAD

AND THROAT CURED.

Cleve Parrish, son of Mr. E. E. Parrish, of Albany, Or., is a bright boy of 16. In speaking of his trouble his mother

"We first noticed that Cleve had catarrh about four years ago. The most noticeable symptom was a complete closing up of the nostrils. He could not breathe through his nose at all, breathing through his mouth entirely. This necessitated keeping his mouth open, giving cessitated keeping his mouth open, giving him a stupid and dull appearance. There was a foul discharge from the nose, and his breath was very offensive, making it very disagreeable to go near him. His throat was red and inflamed, and when he had a cold the tonsils would swell and almost fill his throat.

"His entire system seemed impregnated—th the cataryhal polane, and this added—th the cataryhal polane.

with the catarrhal poison, and this added to the fact that he was never able to fill his lungs with good fresh air, told mi his lungs with good fresh air, told terribly on his general health. He had no appetite and was without spirit or life. He was so puny and weakly that we felt greatly slarmed over his condition, fearing that he was going into consumption.

"His grandfather and other relatives had been successfully treated by the Cope-land physicians, and urged us to place him under their care. We did so, with the most happy results, for he is now entirely well. He has no sign of catarrh now. Any one to look at him could hardly believe that he is the same boy we took up to the Copeland Institute but a short time ago."

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—(To the Editor.)—I simply write this to make a kick, as I have noticed in several instances wagons on the street selling apples marked "Oregon apples." These apples slander Oregon. It is an outrage on Oregon apples, in fact, Such apples as gon apples, in fact. Such apples as I noted selling on the streets here marked "Oregon" are only used for cider or hog ed in Oregon, and it actually made me feel angry to see such refuse put up as coming from Oregon. We let the hogs eat better fruit this year on my farm. near Gresham. I think these scrub apples these fellows are selling for Oregon apples come from the foothills of Califor-nia. I called the attention of several persons to these apples who knew Oregon fruit, and they said it was nothing more than a swindle to put such cullings on the market and use the popular name of Ore-gon to create a demand.
